WHY IS IT!

That more conservative investors do not put their money into real estate? Newton, on the whole, is a strictly residential city,
but still we have some modern two-family
houses in quiet and convenient locations always well rented and pleasing to look at.
For instance, I have for sale a New Two-Family House containing 15 rooms, 2 baths, entirely separate suites, artistic papering,
and in fact, a house that should sell for not less than $4,500, can be bought however for $3,800. Rent annually is $648. Therefore on $1,000 invested (which would be a sufficient amount) the investor receives NET over 30 per cent on amount invested.
Think this over!

TO LET IN NEWTON

Very attractive double house in convenient location. 4 rooms, well built, fireplace, laundry, $10. Single house on corner lot in Hunnewell Hill section. An ideal home, convenient, $41.00. New cement suite, $37.50. Two upper suites, 7 rooms, fireplace, maple floor, $52. Small pointer place, fruit trees, large house, $30.
Just on the market, 4-room cottage house on fine street $30. Modern suite, electric lights, $25. Also others.

THRU SPAIN

INTERESTING LETTER FROM ABROAD

Madrid, Spain, Nov. 5, 1908.

Dear Friends at Home:

Of the pleasures—and drawbacks—of the nine days' ocean voyage to Gibraltar you have all doubtless learned. We passed Fayal and San Jorge (The Azores) the sixth day—all shrouded in mist—but very picturesque. We passed near enough Villa des Valls to see the Spanish and Moorsque buildings, and to drop the mail for U. S. A., and as a Portuguese steamship was lying at anchor we may hope it will reach New York via Lisbon and Southampton a few days after that mailed at Gibraltar. The rainy season is a month late, so we have come into the midst of it—and Gibraltar was showery—warm. We were glad to tread terra firma again, so we walked through the case mates and town gates, and up the narrow main street, among a gabbling crowd of Spanish, English, French and Portuguese, with a plentiful show of turtur, bare-footed Arabs and Turks, in stage-looking garments, turban and fez—also donkeys laden with every conceivable thing, but never too heavily to prevent the addition of a lazy, fat, dirty man, or perhaps two boys, one facing the donkey's tail, near which dangled a pan scale for weighing fruit or green stuff.

As American citizens we are not eligible to enter the fortifications, and the rains prevented our driving about much, or going over to Tangiers until our return the last of this month, en route for Naples. Africa would be far from charming without sunshine. I watched much of the night, the ships bells and bugle calls from the gunboats in the Mole preventing continuous sleep—and at 8 A. M.—eight bells—every bugle band in town and on ship played its own national air—chiefly the "God Save the King" and "La Marseillaise," though our one gunboat saluted the morning with "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean." I thought I should never get dressed, between repacking my trunks and hanging out my window to watch the gardener and the birds in a beautiful garden under my window, and the donkey men and Tommy Atkins everywhere. The mounted soldiers looked so absurd in large waterproof coats which spread over their horses' flanks. The privates were thin and erect, and stepped off in a brisk military manner. The shops were very seductive, the whole scene reminding us of Coney and Atlantic City boardwalk.

From Gibraltar, in a small damper steamboat across to Algeciras, where we struck Spanish frontier and customs officers, to the train for the inland towns, was all a very exciting trip. We mounted steadily up, up into Loo Sierras Ronda, and spent the night at a perfectly new and elegant Hotel de Reina Victoria at Ronda. It is perched on the edge of the abrupt cliff, and from the battlements of the beautiful garden courtyard we looked over a sheer cliff of four hundred yards, down into the chasm which cleaves the old Moorish town. The green valley below was full of olive and orange vineyards and the scattered hamlets looked like toy or block houses. I am living now in a country of Marcus Waterman houses, many of them painted vivid pink or blue, with palm and cactus everywhere.

It still showered, though it lifted at times for a few minutes. As we rose slowly up the borders of the Guadaleveer, as they pronounce it, through miles of olive and cork trees, and cords of bales of cork awaiting transportation. The trees are denuded of their bark, but do not die, but begin at once to grow a new coat, which takes from nine to twelve years, an Englishman in our compartment, a

TO UPHOLD HIGHEST STANDARDS

MR. FRANCIS H. WILLIAMS of Newton Centre announces that, having accepted the management of the Cobb-Eastman Company, Furniture, Makers and Interior Decorators, he proposes to give the people of Boston and Newton, and all other cities, the best that can be produced.

IN FURNITURE AND DECORATION

ITS OWN EXCLUSIVE DESIGNS will hereafter be the only ones produced, and the entire stock of ready-made furniture will at once be disposed of at less than regular cost. ARCHITECTS will find that with our own factory, an excellent store, our own goods, strong financial support, and a corps of trained Artists, Craftsmen and Salesmen, to ensure a high standard of work, this establishment will soon be the equal or better than any first-class Boston or New York store. The company already enjoys the patronage and confidence of several leading Boston and New York architects.

wine merchant of Malaga, gave us much information, and advised many pleasant things.

Seville—fair Sevilla—was reached before dark, and charmed us at once. Quiet, lovely, and rainy at night, but clearing through the days, all but our last one there. The hotels, on a noisy public square, were almost empty, and we got much attention from an English-speaking clerk and a French Concierge, who kindly assisted us in all our plans. The great magnificent Cathedral was my chief delight. I attended High Mass two mornings at nine-thirty, when the great organ was so thrilling, and the chanting so monotonous. Then I looked at will over the vast spaces, now many paintings, wood carved reliefs; the great silver sarcophagus of Don Fernando; the mighty relics of Moorsque architecture; in fact, I turned there several times, though I also devoted much time to the collections of pictures by Murillo and Turbaran, whose school the young Murillo was too poor to enter! La Caridad, the chapel of the great Charity Hospital, is a perfect jewel box of gems of art—among them the little St. John the Baptist, with his lamb, "Ecce Agnus." I could write and talk for hours of the beauties of Seville, centering in the Cathedral, covered by its Moorsque tower, La Giralda, of which we have the fine copy in the tower of the Madison Square Garden, New York City; of the pictures, the shops, the drives, the rides in tiny electric trams, the suburb Pirata and the numerous squares, with churches everywhere, and swarms of people who seemed busy—few loafers and beggars, and no drunkards. How I hated to leave it, but I could not resist already by a unique experience, en route to Madrid, by the "train de luxe and wagons lits" or sleeper cars. We left Seville in a tremendous thunder shower at about 8 P. M. and at eleven, at Cordoba, the Prince Rupert of Bayern and his suite came aboard—amid much confusion and gibberish. The loud, high tones may have been peaceable, but they sounded as though the quarrel would come to sword-play. When we learned that some of the cabins in the "wagon lit" had been sold over and over several times, the rates had our sympathy—we have been served just so now—well, say America.

The ticket carries no seat with it, and some of the guardsmen got square wooden stools that looked like stage properties, and roosted on them. One presented arms when I passed from one car to another! I made myself comfortable in the coach of the train de luxe, but alas! I was soon routed out by the conductor, who demanded our tickets. Alas! they were in the porte monnaie of one of our party in the sleeping car (wagon lit). I explained that I had a berth there, in the same state-room. "Then you must go there." But my friend is asleep, and ill, and cannot sleep for my purring—for, alas, I sleep like a top, a humming top. But I must sleep there or pay for a seat here! So we temporized. Maria, the maid, went in and roosted on a stool by her mistress' door and I rested alone in the coach reserved for ladies traveling alone, while the corridor outside was full, all night, of men, standing all the way—smoking all the way, too—until after three A. M. Maria sneaked in and napped till morning, after having tipped the interpreter and the fresh conductor. A very rainy cold night and a hard trip, but a glad arrival in Madrid at 9 A. M. when I saw four or five double platoons of soldiers drawn up in line, and the young King, who had come to meet his brother-in-law, reviewed them, to the music of God Save the King (America) passing twice within six feet of me—a right royal welcome, to the visiting Prince—if not intended for the three Americans.

If Seville is the Tarshish of Bible times, Madrid is certainly and charmingly like Paris! The great hotels are round this Plaza—Puerta del Sol!—and the proprietors evidently think we prefer the scenes, with the noise. So we sleep troubled hours, the sleep of the dead tired, and hang over our balconies in all styles of dress and undress. In Seville I saw herds of six or eight goats driven by a boy, who halted them all by a quiet word—when one of their number stepped into the white marble-paved front hall of a house and waited patiently while the boy milked a measure full for that family. And that's the way the milkman comes, in Spain. The Patio, a second hallway, visible through an iron grating, is beautiful with palms and ferns—evidently a specialty in Seville, as I have seen none here as yet. The beautiful dark-haired women, with veils thrown over the back part of head and a founce or bunch of ribbon coquishly stuck in the front hair, the donkey teams, magnificent equipages—military dress everywhere, make the scene enchantingly gay.

Of the wealth of art treasures in the galleries and cathedrals you may read if you will, and you can buy the prints and colored postal cards of them—I am just ruling myself in buying them, the only things in the shops that attract me.

I am so glad to get rid of the everlasting French table d'Hôte, and to get truly Spanish dishes here—great shrimps, six or eight inches long, delicious, and "Pisto Manchego," the national dish, the constituents of which are limited only by the family purse—we saw a coach driver and his boy lurching off one plate of it, all of beans and vegetables—while the nobles may add meats, spices, etc., but always eats it as a part of his daily diet.

Well, the hour grows late, and I must mount a chair to climb into my lofty but soft and clean bed, with an inscription, "La Purissima Concepcion," woven into the bedspread under a woven picture—to remind me I am in Catholic Spain and listening to quarter hour chimes of a clock which reads up to twenty-two o'clock this minute!

Buenos Noche—
L. A. C.

Madrid, Spain.

Puerta del Sol, Nov. 9, 1908.

P. S.—This great open square is a centre of hotels and car routes. The morning bath is a lesson for our American cities; great floods of water swept by platoons of soldiers. I saw "Guard Mount" at the Palace this morning—with two fine bands and much marching and counter-marching, a slow and solemn march time, in which many of the magnificent horses danced in perfect time. I shall try to see it and the Palace Chapel tomorrow. Have just returned from the Museum and the Church of St. Jeronimo, in which the Young King and Queen were married.

BOOK REVIEWS

Little Polly Primrose and Her Friends

To combine a delightful story with simple yet lofty moral lessons for children, as Carlo Frances Warren has done in "Little Polly Primrose and Her Friends," is the most difficult of arts. Sweet, unselfish little Polly,—she had mastered the secret of making everybody she met happy. It is a secret every child who reads this story can learn.

This dainty story sparkles with fun that is clean and wholesome, but is utterly devoid of pranks that incline children to mischief. Pictures, all in colors and tints, and the cover, with a lovely child face peeping out from the heart of a primrose, is of leaf-green cloth and gold. Price, 75 cents. This is the second volume of the Garden Series, which when completed will comprise six books.

The author's "Little Betty Marigold" achieved instant and overwhelming success, and is being introduced into the schools all over the country. But readers of "Little Polly Primrose" will agree that it surpasses anything she has hitherto written. The C. M. Clark Publishing Co., Boston, 75 cents.

Our method of supplying your requirements in Furs has made The Dunlap-Cooke Canadian Furs famous as the Furs of Quality. The Canadian Climate produces the finest furs known to commerce, because of the long, cold winters. The fur-bearing animals of Canada are provided by nature with a coat that is warmer, finer and more lustrous than temperate climates can produce.

The Duty on Manufactured Canadian Furs is 35%—We receive our Canadian Furs in the Raw State Duty Free. We have our own fur stores in Canadian centres; here we receive the raw furs from the trappers. We are the only Canadian Fur concern with a store in the United States. In this respect the strength of our position is unequalled. When you buy direct from us you save middlemen's profits and secure skins taken in prime season from the best sections, because we know where and when to buy the best that Canada offers.

THE LATE GEO. A. WALTON

The following report of the Committee on Necrology to the members of the New England Association of School Superintendents has been received:

"Your committee on Necrology have the sad duty of reporting the death of Geo. A. Walton, one of the best known and highly esteemed educators in Massachusetts. He died Saturday last, Nov. 7. Your committee is indebted to Dr. John T. Prince for the concise but comprehensive sketch of his life, and to Hon. Geo. H. Martin for the appreciative testimonial to his character and spirit, with which the sketch closes.

George Augustus Walton was born in South Reading, now Wakefield, Mass., February 18, 1822. His early education was in the public schools of his native town, in the Reading and Lexington academies and in the Bridgewater State Normal School, from which he was graduated in 1844. After teaching in the towns of Duxbury, Barnstable, and Edgartown, he was in 1847 appointed Principal of the Model Training School at West Newton—a school which was connected with the first normal school in the country—under "Father" Pierce. He went to Lawrence in 1848 as Principal of the Oliver Grammar School, where he remained until 1868. His first books in Arithmetic were published during this time—a work which was continued during his residence in Westfield from 1868 to 1871. In the latter year he was appointed Agent of the Massachusetts State Board of Education, an office which he held for twenty-five years. The honorary degree of A. M. was conferred upon him by Williams College in 1869.

His text books appeared at frequent intervals under various titles, including "First Steps in Numbers," written in collaboration with Dana P. Colburn; "Walton's Intellectual Arithmetic," "Walton's Pictorial Primary Arithmetic," "Walton's Written Arithmetic," "Walton's Illustrative Practical Arithmetic," "Franklin Arithmetic," and "Walton and Holmes's Arithmetic."

Mr. Walton was married in 1850 to Miss Electa Nobles Lincoln, a teacher of Education and Mathematics in the Lexington and West Newton Normal School. She died in the early part of the present year. It was to her assistance that Mr. Walton attributed much of his success, especially in the preparation of his arithmetics. For fifty-seven years this devoted couple worked together in the interests of education, of society, and of the church.

He died November 7, 1908, leaving a son and two daughters—Dr. George A. Walton, of Boston, Mrs. James R. Dunbar, of Brookline, and Professor Alice Walton, of Wellesley.

In his fifty years of public school service, twenty-five as a teacher and twenty-five as an Agent of the State Board of Education, Mr. Walton probably touched the lives and work of more individuals in public school relations than any other man has ever done in Massachusetts. He visited as Agent every town in the State, some of them many times. He visited and taught in thousands of schools. He knew personally school committee men everywhere and was in their councils. At hundreds of meetings he addressed thousands of people.

As an apostle of public school education, he had certain marked characteristics. His spirit everywhere and always was kindly, and his only purpose was to be helpful. The key note to all his labors was struck in his first report as Agent. He says he gave one or two weeks' notice of his intended visits. "Had my purpose been to find defects, I should doubtless have pursued a different course." He found defects enough and he never concealed them. But they never soured him, or discouraged him, or tempted him to unkind speech.

He retained his cheerful optimism and his youthful buoyancy to the last.

In the earlier years of his work, travel in country districts subjected him to many hardships and annoyances. But he never spared himself.

He was a great teacher, clear in insight and in expression, logical in thought and arrangement, fertile beyond most men in expedients, patient and sympathetic.

As a man his most marked quality was absolute sincerity. His purposes were avowed, his actions above board. His words tallied with his thoughts and feelings. He was a man who could be found.

Although in his thinking he widened the religious creed of his parents, he never outgrew the spirit of devotion which came to him from his Puritan mother. He could worship in any church and with any people, but he must worship. It has been given to few men to attain so fully to that charity which "Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth."

FURNISHING THE SMALL ROOM

The question of how to furnish the house is one which housewives find of perennial interest. Richard Morton, writing in Suburban Life for December, says: "The greatest fault in American furnishing is crowding. The small room is obliged to accept large chairs and tables and cabinets, and the large room is packed with a variety of pieces until it seems small. Of course, in the large room the fault is easily corrected by elimination. Throw out half of the stuff, and arrange the rest simply. But the small room demands special attention. It requires furniture adapted to its size,—not furniture copied or reproduced more or less distantly from places in Europe. And, even in the large room, small pieces are not out of place when used judiciously. For the small rooms of modern houses and apartments, historic furniture is too heavy. It would almost seem as if in older times, all men were giants, and demanded paraphernalia of corresponding size."

Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin, corner Congress street, Boston, Mass., have on exhibition in their show rooms, the largest display of Electric and Gas Table Lamps, with Art and Silk Shades in this country. These lamps make most desirable Wedding and Holiday Gifts.

Next Tuesday is the annual city election, and in the absence of the mayorality issue, citizens are taking but slight interest in municipal politics. The Republican ticket will be practically unopposed for aldermen at large, for school committee, and for ward aldermen in four wards. In three wards there are local contests for this office which are of considerable interest. In ward one, Alderman William J. Doherty, Democrat, is seeking re-election for a fifth term and is opposed by William S. Bowen, Republican. The ward is generally Democratic, but Mr. Bowen is making his fight on a platform that the Nonantum school house ought to be completed and that the branch library should be located in that building. Whether or not Mr. Bowen is correct in his contention that the present alderman has not exerted himself sufficiently in these matters, the fact remains that there is absolutely no excuse for paying rent for the branch library when the city has quarters ready and waiting for it in the new school building. It is no argument to say that the building is not located conveniently, for the school house was located in accordance with the wishes of the Nonantum people, and a possible change of mind now, should not entail further expense in the way of library rent.

Outside of this issue, however, I believe that Alderman Doherty should be returned. In one sense, the ward alderman from Nonantum represents not only that part of it in ward one, but the entire village which extends well over the line into ward two. Mr. Doherty, I believe, can represent this district far better than any other man and his record in the past, barring the library matter, clearly entitles him to a re-election.

In ward three there is a merry scrap between Alderman Frank S. Webster, candidate for re-election, Republican, and ex-alderman James R. Condrin, Democrat, who was defeated last year for second term. It is true that Mr. Webster has been in poor health for a portion of his term, but he has been a valuable member of the board notwithstanding his physical condition and the ward should be proud to return him for another year. Mr. Condrin in his previous year of aldermanic service, took a rather narrow and provincial view of many matters, and while consistent to the highest degree, did not exhibit those qualities which the city of Newton has rather established as a standard for its aldermen. It will take every Republican vote, however, to ensure the election of Alderman Webster.

The ward four situation is exactly what I predicted last year when I advised the unopposed re-election of Alderman Thomas J. Lyons. Other counsels prevailed, however, and Mr. Lyons was defeated. This year, the Republican party nominates a new candidate, and is opposed by the ex-alderman, who intends to obtain a vindication, or know the reason why. This ward is usually Republican, but exhibits independent streaks when least expected, and the chances favor the election of Mr. Lyons over Mr. Frank E. Morse. A long pull, a strong pull and lots of hard work by the Republicans may reverse this prediction, but it will be a close contest, in any event. Personally, I feel like climbing upon the top of the fence and staying there until the fight is over, as to my mind the contest is entirely needless and could have been prevented by a little common sense last year.

And last and not least, don't forget to vote NO on the license question.

I do not believe the tax payers for 1909 will give their hearty endorsement to the action of the aldermen last week in making the largest annual appropriation order in the history of the city. In the face of the certain loss of a large portion of the city's income, and the additional cost of the new Technical High School which has just begun to be felt. As I recently pointed out, the situation is serious and called for radical action, which the aldermen have not seen fit to take. Indeed, sentiment, rather than business has apparently ruled the board in this matter. When a man has hard work to supply his family with food and clothing, you would not expect him to spend much money on painting his name on the door, and yet in the face of a tremendous increase in the coming tax rate, the aldermen have cheerfully voted $2,000 for painting new street signs. It would be ridiculous if it didn't add just so much to the tax burden. But possibly the most incomprehensible action taken by the board was in refusing to save $2,995 of the tax payers' money, by allowing the city departments free use of the city water. The custom has been for the water department to deal with the other city departments, exactly as it deals with individual consumers, rendering a bill and having that bill paid from the various city department appropriations into the city treasury as water income. Here the state law steps in and limits the purpose for which this water income can be used, —for payment of water debt, for maintenance of water plant, etc. The annual surplus in this city over and beyond the requirements of the debt and for maintenance is something like $15,000 to $20,000. It is from this surplus that a minority of the board believed something like $6,000 should be saved to the tax payers of 1909 by ordering the water department to make no charge for the use of city water. If this income could be devoted to reducing the tax levy, the present custom need not be abandoned, but the foolishness of taxing the people of Newton some $6,000 to add to a surplus already existing in a profitable department of the city, is something that the aldermen evidently failed to see last week. This amount would have saved nearly ten cents on the tax rate and to my mind is an entirely needless expense to the tax payers.

On some of the items I pointed out, slight reductions were made, merely proving the correctness of my position, but the elimination of entire items for the year 1909 (which merely meant a postponement of the work until 1910) was not attempted.

The conditions demand the abolition of all unnecessary expenses for at least one year, and in authorizing money to be expended for new street signs, for trimming trees, for laying curbing, for placing wires underground, for new trees, and in failing to reduce other items like sidewalks and new drains, the aldermen have, in my humble opinion, failed in their plain duty to the tax payer.

The action taken last week by the city authorities in requiring all dogs in this city to be muzzled or restrained from running at large for the next three months, was the only common sense course to take under all the circumstances. For the past few months, it has been known that a few dogs have evidently been afflicted with rabies and the development of hydrophobia last week in a West Newton young man which resulted in a horrible death, made restrictive measures imperative. In this connection I desire to call attention to the article written by City Physician Fred M. Lowe on this subject, and which is printed in another column of this issue of the GRAPHIC. The board of health also requests prompt notification of unusual action by dogs and will be pleased to advise the owners of the proper course to take. Every effort should be made by all citizens to calm the agitation which is spreading through this vicinity on this matter, and a careful compliance with both the letter and spirit of the muzzling law is the least anyone can do.

POLITICAL NEWS.

At the coming election, the voters of ward one, will have an opportunity to vote for a young man for ward alderman, Mr. William S. Bowen, who has always taken a deep interest in public matters. He was the organizer of the Nonantum Improvement Association, which was such a strong factor in locating the new, and still uncompleted school house in that district, and which Nonantum residents greatly desire to have finished at once. The lack of lighting fixtures deprives the district of an evening school, a branch of the day trade school, which is also desired, and makes it impossible to locate the branch library in that part of the building designed for it. These important matters to Nonantum, are now held up on account of the trifling cost of equipment.

Mr. Bowen and many others in this district feel that these conditions can be and would have been remedied long ago, if the matter had been properly presented before those having it in charge, and Mr. Bowen is willing to devote his time and energy in order that these and other improvements may be carried forward.

TUNNEL NOW OPEN

The beautiful new Washington street tunnel was opened last Monday for public travel on the precise date announced by the company. The transference of trains from the subway to the tunnel, and the replacement of high platforms required by elevated trains in the Subway with low platforms suitable for surface cars, was a very large undertaking, and its performance between the closing of business Saturday night and the running of the first train Monday morning was an extraordinary achievement.

The tunnel is now one of the show places of the town. Its glistening white tiled stations with their beautiful architectural features and adornments are splendid testimonials to the skill of the designers in combining dignified beauty with strength and utility.

The tunnel stations are more centrally located in the shopping and theatre district than are the stations of the Tremont street Subway. They possess many conveniences to which the public has not been accustomed. Perhaps the most conspicuous of these is the maintenance of parcel rooms where bundles and hand baggage may be checked while passengers are shopping, attending theatres, or dining at hotels.

The running time through the tunnel is materially shorter than the time required for a trip through the Subway. The stations are so large that there is abundant room upon the platforms for crowds that could not be accommodated in the smaller Subway stations. Structural beauty, abundant capacity and increased convenience are the notable features of the new tunnel.

LODGES

A meeting of Tennyson Rebekah Lodge, was held Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows hall, West Newton. An interesting event, under the good of the order, was a roll call by the secretary, Mr. Harvey C. Wood. More than 75 responded, and several letters were read from absent members. Previous to the business session a supper was enjoyed.

The "N N" Club girls held the first of their winter dances at the Northgate club on Saturday last. Mrs. Breck and Mrs. Bailey received from 7.30 to 8. Dancing was then enjoyed until 12 o'clock. A novel and very popular feature was the moon dance, coming before supper and at the end. A large-size moon, lighted by electricity, shed a soft glow over the ball room, while the orchestra led by Geo. Hyde, of Millis, played the Merry Widow selections.

About 40 couples were present, including the club members and guests. Among those present were Miss Francis Breck, Leah Bailey, Florence Ivy, Edith Jewett, Florence Manning, Harriett Reid, Florence Springer, Amy Plant, Florence Lawrence, Emily Stearns, Elizabeth Horsfall, Helen Ferguson, Florence Kenway, Louise Parsons, Helen Jewett, Marion Tucker, Miss McKee and Rita Gardner. Messrs. Ivy, Manor, Jones, Rowley, Church, Van Tassel, Campbell, D. Reid, H. Smith, Ferguson, K. Howard, R. Hall, Andrews, E. Kenway Stewart Wilcox, Bindow and McKee.

ANTI-VACCINATION

A public meeting in the interest of anti-vaccination took place at the Hunnewell clubhouse hall Wednesday evening, when a stirring address was made by John H. Bonner of Leicester, Eng., on "The Evils of Compulsory Vaccination." He described how in England, the birthplace of inoculation, a government investigation lasting more than seven years has resulted in enacting statutes abolishing compulsory vaccination. He said that many of the best-known men and women of that country were active in the movement. The meeting was held under direction of a committee of residents of various parts of the city.

AMERICAN PEACE SOCIETY

Newton Members Entertained by Mrs. Geo. F. Lowell

Mrs. George F. Lowell opened her beautiful home on Walnut street, Newtonville, on Wednesday evening, for a meeting of the Newton members of the American Peace Society and their friends, to hear addresses on what was well called by several of the speakers the greatest issue of the age. It was surprising as well as gratifying to those present to hear from Dr. Trueblood, Secretary of the Society, that Newton is the banner city in point of membership in the American Peace Society, omitting only Boston and New York, and possibly some of the other great cities. Three of the four speakers were residents of Newton—Judge Robert F. Raymond of the Superior Court, who has lately come here from New Bedford, Rev. Dr. Smart of Newton Highlands and Dr. Trueblood. It was Judge Raymond's first introduction to a Newton audience since his coming to this city and his eloquent address made a deep impression.

After a cello solo by Mrs. Anna Hunting, accompanied by Miss Laura Henry, Mrs. Lowell introduced Judge Raymond as a new citizen of Newton, making a pleasant allusion to meeting with him and Mrs. Raymond in London last summer, and to the effective part he took in the Peace Congress there. Judge Raymond's address was an appeal for the extension into international affairs of the friendly relations existing between members of one community, and he presented forcefully our obligations to the great nations of the earth and the great wrong it would be to engage in war with any of them.

During the evening songs were given by Mr. Edwin F. Drown of Newton Highlands, accompanied by Mr. Smith, as well as a second solo by Mrs. Hunting. After the speeches a social hour was enjoyed and the company partook of Mrs. Lowell's gracious hospitality.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ames, Prof. and Mrs. F. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bell, The Misses Breed, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Breed, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Armstrong, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Church, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cobb, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Charlton, Miss E. L. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Coffin, Miss L. P. Coffin, Mr. J. L. Coby, Rev. and Mrs. T. L. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dempsey, Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Dike, Rev. and Mrs. Horace Dutton, Prof. and Mrs. J. M. English, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Fisher, E. O. Fisk, Mrs. Stephen Greene, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hill, Miss H. M. Hill, Mrs. Alvah Hovey, Mr. and Mrs. Freedom Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Luitwieler, Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Loring, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Mellen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Metcalf, Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Noyes, Miss Mary Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Prince, J. S. Sanborn, Miss Ellen Sawtelle, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. and Miss Lucy Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Shute, Rev. and Mrs. G. T. Smart, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Sylvester, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Tolman, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Trueblood, Miss Lyra D. Trueblood, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Walworth, A. C. Walworth, Jr., Miss Florence Walworth, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wells, C. M. Wheaton, Hon. and Mrs. E. W. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Winslow, Miss M. H. Kingsbury, Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Eaton, Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Sullivan, Miss G. M. Burt and Mr. F. H. Burt.

DEATH OF MRS. OWEN

Mrs. Elmira M. Owen, widow of the late Frank Owen, passed away at her home on Vernon street Tuesday, of pneumonia, after a brief illness. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Clara M. Owen and Miss Frances F. Owen. Deceased was quiet and retiring in disposition, fond of her home, and a woman who had many friends both in Newton and elsewhere. She was an active worker in Channing church, and its pastor, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, conducted services at the family residence Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There were many relatives and friends present and numerous floral tributes. The remains were taken to Brunswick, Me., where the funeral was held Thursday at 2.30 from the residence of Mrs. D. L. Smith on Federal street. Mrs. Owen was a native of Standish, Me.

Women's Clubs

A goodly number attended the regular meeting of the Woman's Educational Club in Players' Small Hall, West Newton, Friday afternoon. After the business was transacted we were delightfully entertained with vocal solos by Miss Whitney.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. F. E. Stanley of Newton, who gave us a charming paper on "Rembrandt and his art."

As she had been a member of this club, we were particularly pleased. And the interesting story she told of this famous Dutch artist was listened to with intense interest.

At the previous meeting of this club a copy of the seal of the club was shown to the members for inspection. It was designed by Miss Lois Rice, a daughter of one of the members of the club.

A meeting of the Pierian Club was held with Mrs. Wm. Gullison, Newton Highlands, on Wednesday, Dec. 2nd. The topic was "North American Indians." Papers were read by Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Rumery. A vocal selection was rendered by Miss Rogers.

The Newton Equal Suffrage League will hold a Dutch Tea with Mrs. George F. Lowell, Newtonville, on Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 2 to 6 P. M.

In addition to the sale of dolls, cake and candy, there will be whist and music.

At the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday morning, Miss Estelle Neuhaus gave a lecture-reading on Wagner's musical drama, "The Valkyrie." The speaker has been heard several times in Newton Centre and was much enjoyed by those present. There is no meeting of the club next week.

LIEDERHEIM MUSICALS

An invitation is extended to the public to attend an "Evening of Musical Compositions," by Mr. Frank Lynes of Boston, to be given by pupils of Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles, under the auspices of the Liederkreis School of Vocal Music, Wednesday evening, December 9, at eight o'clock, in the auditorium of the Methodist Episcopal church, Central street, Auburndale, Mass. No tickets required.

This is the first of this season's series of "Musical Evenings" to be given under the auspices of the Liederkreis School of Vocal Music, of which Mrs. Ruggles is the principal.

Mr. Lynes will preside at the piano. The popularity of his compositions, his prominence among Boston's composers, together with the excellent work of Mrs. Ruggles' pupils, gives promise of an evening of enjoyment to music lovers.

VESPER AT NEWTON CENTRE.

An elaborate vesper service was given in the First church at Newton Centre Sunday afternoon, when selections from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" were rendered under direction of Walter E. Young. The sopranos were Mrs. Louise Whitaker, Mrs. Clara W. Jackson and Miss Henderson, the altos Mrs. Bertha P. Dudley, Miss Alice R. Lancaster and Miss Izzetta B. Holway, the tenors D. E. Newland, C. E. Woods and J. R. Meredith and the basses C. P. Raymond, G. E. Macgowan and Frank Cannel.

The vexed question at this season is to know what to provide as Christmas gifts. Every woman is pleased to possess pretty hair ornaments, and a most charming array of these goods is to be seen at N. C. Whitaker & Co.'s, 7 Temple place, Boston.

TRANSFORMER TO REPLACE BATTERIES

An instrument recently put upon the market and sure to be appreciated by all who have become tired of the annoyance and uncertainty attending the use of electric batteries, is the Beacon Transformer, made by the Electric Novelty Co. of 6 Beacon street, Boston. This appliance has been placed in a number of the most up-to-date apartment houses and residences of Greater Boston and is said to be giving complete satisfaction as a substitute for the battery in ringing bells, operating annunciators, gas-lighting attachments, etc. It is also most useful, and in fact unexcelled, for illuminating Christmas trees, for gas engine ignition, etc. The transformer can be used wherever the alternating electric light current is available.

Being convinced that entirely satisfactory results in the use of an instrument of this kind depend as much upon careful and expert installation as upon skillful work in designing and making the transformer, the Electric Novelty Co. makes a specialty of installing these instruments wherever they are sold, and whenever necessary makes a transformer to order to fit the peculiar needs of each building. The company will be glad to hear from all persons who would welcome a permanent, reliable and economical substitute for the electric batteries. A circular will be sent on application by mail or by calling Haymarket, 2283.

FOOT BALL.

The Union A. C. are now the champions of Greater Boston. They defeated the Glendales of Dorchester at Newton in the final game of the series. Hollerham, Union's full back, literally won the game for his team, for it was his line bucking that brought the ball to and across the Glendale goal. This was the only touchdown in the game and occurred in the last minute of play.

—Mrs. Lulu M. Upham of Peabody street was one of the committee in charge of the reception given at the Vendome, Boston, Wednesday afternoon to Signor and Signora Ferrero, by the New England Woman's Press Association, and Mrs. Harriet A. Eager, Miss Kathleen and Mrs. Walter R. Forbush were guests.

—At the meeting of the Channing Alliance next Tuesday afternoon the Book of Job will be read in character by members of the Alliance. This novel program promises to be unusually attractive and any interested in it, whether members of the Alliance or not, are cordially invited to attend. Tea will be served at the close.

—At the Hunnewell Club last Saturday evening an invitation dancing party was given, under the charge of Miss Mabel E. Bailey. The matrons were Mrs. George Herbert Bailey and Mrs. Rudolph Burroughs of Faneuil. The ushers were Messrs. Ralph G. Coburn, G. Wallace Tibbets, Stafford A. Francis, Fred W. Wilder, Herbert B. Eichenhorn and Guy E. Fuller. Dancing was enjoyed from 8 to 12 o'clock.

—The regular meeting of the Newton Monday Evening Club was held Monday evening at the home of Rev. Dr. C. H. Daniels at South Framingham. Through the courtesy of Mr. F. E. Stanley the Newton members went to the house of their host in automobiles. Rev. Dr. Daniels was the speaker of the evening, giving an account of his observations during a visit to England, Scotland and Germany, mainly on the liquor question.

—Mrs. Margaret A. Edwards, wife of Henry W. Edwards, died Friday at the home of her son, Mr. Y. Marcy Edwards, on Gramere street, after a several month's illness. She was a native of Cohoes, N. Y., where she was born 56 years ago. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Addington road, Brookline, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the remains were taken to Albany, N. Y., for burial.

REQUIEM MASS

Seldom has Newton had such a representative audience as that which filled Eliot church last evening. The occasion was the twelfth public service of the New England Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The organ prelude was played by Mr. Henry M. Dunham, organist and choir-master of the Harvard church, Brookline, and the postlude was played by Mr. George A. Burdett, organist and choir-master of the Central church, Boston. Between these came the order of services, conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. Grant Person, and the rendering of Giuseppe Verdi's "Requiem Mass," which was composed in 1873-4, in honor of Alessandro Manzoni. The theme is heavy and sombre, befitting the character of the composition, but the solo, quartet and chorus parts give great possibilities for the human voice. The chorus is somewhat larger than it was some months ago when the mass was given at one of the Sunday vesper services, and the increased volume made the work much more impressive. The solos of the members of the quartet, Miss Josephine Knight, soprano; Miss Adelaide Griggs, contralto; Mr. Harold S. Tripp, tenor, and Mr. Leverett B. Merrill, bass, were all that could be desired and held the attention of the audience for over two hours. The artistic success of the evening's work was largely due to Mr. Everett E. Truette, who not only played the organ accompaniment in a masterly manner, but personally conducted the singing of the mass. The Guild was fortunate in having such an entertainment and the Eliot choir has reached a higher plane in the local musical world.

Newton Highlands

—The C. L. S. C. will meet at the home of Miss Ruth Abbott, 107 Hobart road, Newton Centre, on Monday at the usual time.

—Mr. A. H. Elder of Erie avenue is slowly improving from his illness and his many friends are hoping for his early return from the Newton hospital to his home.

AT HOME

At her residence on Judkins street, Newtonville, Tuesday afternoon, Miss May McCahill gave a delightful "At Home," from 4 to 6, in honor of her house guest, Miss Vivian Rogers of New York. Miss McCahill wore a gown of pink mousseline de sole and was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. William McCahill, who was gowned in fawn colored etamine, while Miss Rogers was attractive in a princess gown of pale pink messaline. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. William McLaughlin and Miss Martha McGrane. Punch was served by Miss Pauline Burke, who was dressed in raspberry crepe de chine. Among the many guests present were Countess Rene de Bloch, Mrs. B. F. Larrabee, her sister, Miss Harriet Morse, Carl G. Cutler, the artist, Miss Fallon, Donald Brian, the actor, Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, Messrs. Roger Conant, Edward L. Cutler, James Alexander, Henry Cushing, William Coon, George Lappen, Ralph Menard, Harold Hammond, Leonard Hargrave, Walter Lovell, and Lieut. Leon Foss, the latter being members of the First Corps of Cadets, of which the hostess' brother, Charles McCahill, is also a member.

—Read Lewis' Ad on page 5—very interesting—especially at this time of the year—as Xmas is so near and his goods are of especial merit.

Newton Centre.

—Mrs. William H. Coolidge gave a pretty luncheon Thursday at her home on Gray Cliff road.

—Last Tuesday afternoon an alarm was rung from box 811 for a slight bon-fire on Beacon street.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Hafferment of Langley road are receiving congratulations on the birth of an eight-pound girl, last Monday.

—Work was begun last Monday in tearing down Cousen's block on Langley road by the Improvement Association of this village.

—Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Leonard Ackiss of Ward street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son—born Thanksgiving Day.

—To-night at the prayer meeting in the Methodist church there will be special addresses by the laymen on the subject of the Laymen's Movement for the conquest of the world to Christ.

—Last night the regular monthly social of the Young People of the Baptist church was held in their parlors. After a pleasant evening, refreshments were served to a large gathering.

—Last Tuesday evening before an audience of about 150 people, the Pagan Land moving pictures were given in Bray Small hall under the auspices of the Farther Lights Circle. A large sum was realized from this lecture.

—Next Sunday morning at the Methodist church the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Phinney, will preach on "The Significance of the Holy Communion," and in the evening will take as his subject, "The Unknown Poets of Common Life."

—The Wesley club of the Methodist church presented the Sunday school with a copy of the American Revised Version of the Bible last Sunday. This club was conducted under the leadership of the former pastor of the church the Rev. L. J. Birney.

—Last Monday afternoon the members of the Charity Sewing Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. James G. White of Centre street. A large number were present, and during the afternoon refreshments were served by the hostess.

—Mr. Silas R. Curry, a former resident of Chelsea, died Wednesday morning at his home on Alden street, after a protracted illness. He was a native of Nova Scotia and was 80 years of age. He was in business in Chelsea for many years and was prominently connected with the Walnut Street Methodist church. He is survived by a widow, two sons, Francis H. and Arthur M. Curry, and two daughters, Miss Anna E. and Miss Ada L. Curry. The funeral will be held from the family residence this afternoon.

Waban.

—The Waban Tennis Courts will give the first of its winter's entertainments in Waban hall next week, Friday evening, taking the form of a dance.

—The Reading Club will study Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Experiment" at their next meeting on Monday. Mrs. C. M. Hill of Windsor Road will be the hostess.

—A reception will be held this evening at the Waban school in honor of the Rev. Mr. Seabury of Wellesley Hills, minister of the Union church. There will be special entertainment and refreshments.

Upper Falls.

—Among the guests present at the reception given to Signor and Signora Ferrero, at the Vendome, Boston, by the New England Woman's Press Association on Wednesday afternoon, were Mr. Darius Cobb, Miss Cora S. Cobb and Miss May Oliphant of Denver, Col., who is a guest of Miss Cobb.

—On Monday evening the Sunday school board of the Methodist church held a meeting in the vestry of the church and took as a subject, "Solomon's Reign." The following teachers taking up the different subjects: History of the Israelites up to Solomon's Reign, Miss Stevens; Early Life and Education, Mrs. O. E. Nutter; Foreign Policy and Temple, Mrs. Zeisel; Solomon's Prayer, Miss Mary Chesley; Characteristic, Miss Sablin; Songs and Proverbs, Mrs. Halliday; The Downfall and Death, Mrs. Lees; Solomon's Choice, Mr. Nutter.

—The death of Mr. James P. Hagerly occurred at his home on the corner of Elliot and Chestnut streets on Tuesday morning, after a lingering illness. Deceased was born in Ireland, but came to this village when a small boy. He was 69 years of age, 25 of which he spent in the provision business. In the half century spent in this locality he made many friends by his congenial disposition and many charitable acts, for which he is mourned by a large circle of friends. Funeral services were held from St. Mary's church on Thursday, Rev. T. J. Danahy officiating. He is survived by two brothers and one sister.

In selecting furs about which your personal knowledge is necessarily limited it is always safest to purchase from a responsible dealer who has a reputation earned by years of testing to maintain, and who does not desire and cannot afford to treat you unfairly.

For nearly fifty years we have been established in Boston as manufacturers of High Grade Furs, collecting the skins from all over the world and making them into every conceivable kind of fur attire.

This long experience in satisfying the needs of the most discriminating persons, has taught us how to give the largest possible value for every dollar expended with us.

All of our garments are fashioned after the latest Paris and London styles and are guaranteed in every respect to give perfect satisfaction, and to be superior to other fur garments when price, quality and workmanship are considered.

This is why shrewd fur buyers prefer to deal with a long established house whose entire business is centered in one location and whose workrooms are always open to inspection.

All we ask is for you to call and then decide where to purchase.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild had an instructive address upon "The Treasures of our Art Museum" by Mr. Henry Warren Poor at its meeting on December first. Mr. Poor's talk was illustrated by many interesting pictures, many of which he had taken himself. Of many of the greatest treasures he was unable to show pictures, since they are private property, being loaned to the museum, the owners do not allow them to be photographed. This is true of two Rembrandts.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold an all-day sewing meeting, with basket lunch, at the residence of Mrs. Alexander Bennett, 34 Lincoln Park, West Newton, on Tuesday, Dec. 8th, at 10 A. M.

Miss Elizabeth C. Northrup, who lectured before the Waban Woman's Club last Monday on "New Life in Old Empires," proved herself thoroughly conversant with the political situation in the Far East as well as in our own country. Mrs. George K. Heald, with whom the club met, served a dainty tea at the close of the lecture.

On Wednesday morning next the Social Science Club will have a paper presented on "The Administration of the City."

The next meeting of the Current Events class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held on Thursday, Dec. 10.

The Newton Mothers' Club will meet with Mrs. J. Jay Mitchell of Balmores road, West Newton, at 3 P. M. on Dec. 7.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands enjoyed a delightful evening on Nov. 30, when Mr. Leon Vincent lectured upon "Franklin as a Man of Letters." There were a large number of guests present, as each member was entitled to invite one. During an informal reception following the lecture opportunity was given to meet Mr. Vincent socially. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Luitweller of Duncklee street.

The members of the Social Science Club were deeply saddened at the meeting on Wednesday morning by the announcement of the death of one of their number, Mrs. Elmira M. Owen, who passed away on Tuesday. Mrs. Hornbroke gave an appreciative tribute to her useful life, dwelling particularly upon her spirit of loyalty to all with whom she associated, her loyalty to her home, her club and her church, and the cordial and appreciative support which she gave to those who were bearing the burden of work in the organizations in which she was interested. The club voted to request the Hospital authorities to use $25 from the sum given them by the club for the purchase of a tent and supplies for the tuberculosis work. Mrs. W. D. Swan, chairman of the Social Service committee, reported that a Stamp Savings station has been opened in the Lincoln school in addition to those in the Bigelow and Underwood schools, that the work is going on most satisfactorily and the amount of work so much increased that it had been necessary to enlarge the committee. Mrs. Hornbroke in speaking of the condition of birds stated that while laws are very good in Massachusetts, yet great improvement is needed in other parts of the country. A buyer for one of the large Boston firms had told her that Boston is the only place that restricts the selling of the plumage of wild birds, so that the buyers from other cities are buying just as much of it as ever. At the close of the business meeting Mr. Charles I. Burnham, the forest commissioner of Newton, spoke of the work being done by him and his associates in exterminating the tree pests in the city. The gypsy moth problem just now borders on a calamity, so that he feels he is undertaking a work of the utmost importance. He told of some of ravages abroad made by these moths, especially in Germany and in Italy. An introduced pest, he said, is the worst kind, because it gets so far ahead of its parasite. Of what he is doing now in the city, he said, he has 92 men at work divided into various crews. Now that Newton has undertaken systematic work, the state and the United States have both come in to aid. Several new power sprayers have been purchased and will be used at the proper time in the spring with the hope of exterminating the elm beetle another season. He advised that all old, hollow and worthless trees be cut down, but to save all that it is possible to and any for which there is any sentimental attachment. He plans to protect the residential district of the city first and then attack the woodland. Individuals may assist, particularly in the spring, by putting burlap around the tree trunks upon their own property and killing the caterpillars as they collect upon it. This must be done day by day and will assist materially in aiding to exterminate the pest. The egg clusters, which are being painted with creosote at this time of the year, will hatch from 300 to 500 caterpillars each, if not destroyed. Mr. Burnham said that he would be glad to answer any questions or assist in any way possible. He may be called at the Forestry department, Newton West 70, any morning. In the afternoon he is out with the men. The members were strongly interested in Mr. Burnham's talk and felt that they had gained much valuable information.

WOMAN'S NATIONAL RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS

The Woman's National Rivers and Harbors Congress was organized at Shreveport, Louisiana, June 29, 1908, with Mrs. Hoyle Tompkins of that city as national president. The idea is to have a woman at the head in each state who shall be known as the state vice-president. Up to date there are sixteen states being organized by their several vice-presidents and it is hoped that in the very near future many more states will join. It was at the instigation of Hon. Joseph E. Ransdell, president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, that this organization was formed. While the parent society is distinctly a water-ways pusher, the Woman's Rivers and Harbors deals with "Forestry and Water-Ways" as one problem, feeling that forestry is the most vital subject before the people of the United States today and that water-ways is only second to it.

Since it was decided by Congress that it was not constitutional for the national government to acquire forest lands for reserves, because there was nothing in the constitution which dictated to that effect, many of the officers have felt, that, as the constitution does provide for the protection of the country's water-ways by the federal government, this is the best way to work for forestry, since all acknowledge that by protecting the forests, we are putting the greatest safeguard on the water-ways. It has been difficult so far to make Massachusetts women see it in that light and therefore lend their aid to this good work.

Vice-president for Massachusetts.

SUBURBAN RAILWAY CLUB

The 7th monthly meeting of the Suburban Railway Club was held at Dennison hall, Newtonville, November 30th, with an attendance of 85 members.

The guests of the evening were Mayor Hutchinson, President J. L. Richards of the Newton Street Railway, Hon. Russell E. Sears, Ex-Mayor of Quincy, P. F. Drew, Esq., of the legal department of the Newton Street Railway, and C. F. and H. C. Johnson of Newton Highlands.

Dinner was served at 7.45, after which the following program was carried out: Introductory remarks by the President, F. P. Quackenbush; song and stories by Mr. Johnson; address by Mayor Hutchinson of Newton; song by Robert Pillow, accompanied by Will Sargent; remarks by the Hon. Russell E. Sears of Boston, address on the subject of accidents by P. F. Drew, Esq.; songs by Johnson Brothers.

ADD SUBURBAN CLUB

Mr. Drew said: "One of the greatest problems of a street railway company is to figure how it can avoid accidents." Reviewing "fake" claims for damages that had occurred in this city or vicinity he related the case of a boy who stubbed his toe and fell while running for a car. The boy was treated in a hospital. Later its mother entered a claim, but it was proven that the boy at no time touched the car. "If the conductor had not made a full report of the accident, slight as it seemed at the time, the company might have settled the case without discovering the imposition," he said. He described the case of a woman who scratched the back of her hand while riding in a car and sued for $50,000. It was found that she had made similar claims in six of seven different parts of the country. Another person, he said, entered a suit for damages for injuries which it was discovered he had received in a drunken brawl in a dwelling home hours after he had been on a car. "These cases emphasize the necessity of obtaining all accurate information possible immediately after an accident, however slight it may seem," he declared. "A collision of cars costs from $500 up to $20,000 or more."

Mayor Hutchinson won warm applause when he cited President Roosevelt and Pres. Eliot as two great Americans. "President Roosevelt may have at times appeared undignified and may have taken a hand in affairs which seemed outside the scope of his office, but he has performed a great service for the country which could be effected in only the way in which he accomplished it," said he. He declared that President Eliot has at all times shown great interest in the hundreds of young men who have come under his influence and has always been in close sympathy with his family. He pointed out that a great many persons who are not called upon to perform great services for their country may perform an invaluable service by getting close to the interests of their sons and daughters. He declared that he believed the greatest satisfaction a man could experience was to have his son regard him as his greatest friend.

Mr. James L. Richards said that an improvement of $70,000 in the financial condition of the suburban railways over last year was not due to an increase to 6-cent fares on many of the lines but to economies. Russell A. Sears of the claims department of the Boston elevated railway spoke of the appreciation of motormen and conductors who daily performed their duties faithfully and in case of accident were not afraid to tell the true facts.

STABAT MATER

The main auditorium of Eliot Church was filled last Sunday afternoon with an audience of lovers of good music to hear the rendering of Rossini's sacred cantata, "The Stabat Mater," by the quartet and a chorus of 40 voices, under the direction of Mr. Everett E. Truette, the organist and choirmaster. The chorus work was of the highest order, showing careful training, and the blending of voices was of a highly artistic character. In the solo parts Mr. Tripp's "Cujus Animam," Miss Knight and Miss Griggs' rendering of the duet, "Quis Est Homo," the bass solo, "Pro Peccatis," and the contralto solo, "Fecit Potentem," left little to be desired. Miss Knight's voice showed its wonderful range in the air "Inflammatus," and her high bird-like notes filled the room with melody. The chorus gave her excellent support in this selection and in the final gave a vigorous rendering of the "In Sempterna Saecula, Amen."

Charles E. Lauriat Company have been making some extensive purchases

DON'T MUZZLE THE LAW, BUT MUZZLE THE DOG

There is at present existing in Newton a condition which is a real peril. I refer to the liability of being bitten by dogs that are rabid.

Within the past few weeks there have been running through the city several rabid dogs, and they, in all probability, have left the infection which must shortly develop another crop of mad dogs. The oft-repeated saying of Al Watts, Boston's famous dog catcher, "I've been bitten a thousand times and there's no such thing as Hydrophobia," has been proved true and time again to be a mistake. Physicians, as a rule, especially those that have investigated the subject, are firm in their belief that the bite of a dog is a dangerous thing, but dangerous only from the liability that the dog has previously acquired rabies by being bitten by a mad dog. You can't plant corn and raise wheat; neither can abuse, overfeeding, heat or over-running make a dog rabid. He must have acquired it from an infected animal.

Some method to stamp out the disease is demanded by the people at this time. There is but one—stop the dogs biting. You should prevent your own dog from biting, and other dogs from biting him. The ideal method—one which fills both conditions—is to confine, for the next three months, your animal, giving him a yard to run in. If this is impracticable, then the muzzle must be used. To be of value a muzzle should prevent the dog biting and also should be comfortable for the dog. Don't buy a strap muzzle—unless it be of the type rarely seen—known as the basket-strap muzzle, which is especially adapted to dogs with short noses. The ordinary strap muzzle to prevent biting must be drawn so tight that a few hours' wear will rub the skin from the dog's nose. Few dogs can endure this style. It is a case of pull and haul on the part of the dog until he gets the muzzle over his head, completely defeating the object of its use. Purchase, rather, a wire muzzle—have it large enough so as not to chafe, secured by a strap at the throat. The muzzle known as the Automatic wire muzzle is the best because while it prevents biting it allows the dog to use his jaws in drinking. The price for all sizes is fifty cents.

England has stamped out rabies by requiring all dogs at all times, except in strict confinement, to be muzzled, and also by prohibiting the importation of dogs.

There has been no case of hydrophobia in that country in man or beast since 1900. This being true, the wisdom of the order, recently signed by our Mayor, requiring all dogs to be muzzled for 3 months must be appreciated by everybody.

If, in spite of all precautions, you are bitten, what then? If possible suck the blood at once thoroughly from the wound. Then leave further attention to your physician. Have the dog that did the biting mercifully killed. Notify the Board of Health. They will send a specimen to the state laboratory and in twelve hours get back a report as to whether the dog was rabid or not. If negative, forget it. If positive, at once take the Pasteur treatment. If the dog escapes or the owner will not kill him, you must decide as to treatment. There is danger in making light of the bite.

When an epidemic of smallpox is rife it is good judgment for everybody to be vaccinated. So, when there is an epidemic of rabid dogs, it is well for every bitten person to take Pasteur's treatment. The serum is ordered and shipped from the New York Board of Health daily for three weeks. The cost for each case is $25.00. If the price seems high, let me remind you that $25.00 goes only a short way in settling the bills of a funeral.

To-day I asked a gentleman what he was doing with a dog I gave him some months ago. He replied, "Oh, I've muzzled him." "What did you get for a muzzle?" "A strap muzzle." "Didn't you know it was no good?" "Yes, but it covers the law." There is too much covering the law. What we want is something to help the law, not muzzle it.

No man loves a dog more than I, or would do more to help him, but the experience I have had recently, and especially the last few days, convinces me that for the present at least all dogs should be regarded with suspicion. That owners, who are accustomed to caress and play with their pets should now desist. Let them rather show their love for their dogs by carrying out the law to the letter and by urging their neighbors to do the same.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Last Monday a meeting of the football players was held in the high school and James Gallagher was elected captain for 1909. He comes from Newton Centre, is eighteen years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighs 150 lbs. For the last two seasons he has played the position of an successfully and he expects to have a strong team next season.

Last Friday the P. B. Society gave its annual dance at the Hunnewell club from eight to twelve. There were about seventy people present and the matrons were Mrs. Arthur E. Gill and Mrs. Edward E. Hopkins.

LASELL SEMINARY.

AN IMPROVED METHOD OF MUSIC STUDY

The Dunning System of Improved Music Study for Beginners as represented by Miss Myra M. Kendall at 320 Boylston street, Boston, is indeed what its name asserts, as it is unique in showing what can be done with very young children and beginners. The possibilities for it are so practical that it appeals to both old and young alike. Nothing that is useless or will some day have to be unlearned has any place in this system.

It holds the serious work of the student as of primary importance, but at the same time eradicates the tedious drudgery of the old way of teaching. The object of the Dunning System is to make intelligent musicians instead of mere players of an instrument, and there is no doubt that with its aid teachers are enabled to obtain most speedy and satisfactory results and in this practical aspect, results are most needed and expected.

The worth of the Dunning System has been many times proved by the fact that teachers who have become prejudiced against "systems" have readily indorsed this invention when they found how far removed it is from any other system.

The following is an excerpt from "The Musical Leader and Concert Goer" of July 4, 1907:

"There is no doubt that the System originated by Mrs. Dunning will survive when many others are forgotten, for it plainly appeals to common sense principles. In the first place, Mrs. Dunning has thoroughly grasped the art of catering to the mentality of a child, and secondly, she knows in just what manner to coach her ideas and thoughts so that they will be understood by children. And this art she teaches to teachers."

Miss Kendall as a graduate under Mrs. Dunning is authorized and competent to teach children and beginners, but does not teach the normal course.

ROSE CARNIVAL

The vestry of the Methodist church Newtonville, was transformed into a garden this week for the Carnival of Roses. The decoration scheme was green lattice work and red Rambler roses. Mrs. W. T. Rice was chairman of the committee which provided the roses; Mr. George Biddle, the committee on decorations and Mr. J. C. Atkinson the committee on advertising. The coat room was in charge of Halpear Atkinson and Paul Hildreth. The chairman of the various tables were as follows: Linen, Miss Caroline Gilman; bag, Mrs. G. F. Malcolm; art, Mrs. Don Leonard; grab, Miss Helen Davidson; children's, Mrs. A. H. Terrell; apron, Mrs. L. C. Carter; lemonade well, Mr. Harrison Eyslop; candy, Miss Florence Sylvester. Bountiful suppers were served each evening, Tuesday, chicken pie; Wednesday, turkey; and Thursday, cold meat; under the direction of Mrs. E. Davidson. The success of the affair was largely due to the efforts of the Ladies' Aid Society, and the proceeds will be used to further the work of the society.

Waltham Scenic Theatre—"The Dancing Magnets" in their novelty and dancing act scored a success at the Scenic this week. Their act has been seen in nearly all the London concert halls and the company recently came to this country, and are playing one of its first American engagements at the local theatre. Miss Mabel Crane is the premier danseuse of the company and she is mighty clever. Kenneth and Flynn, a clever pair of comedians in their Irish sketch, keep the audience in an uproar from the time they step on the stage until the curtain drops. Al Merrill, who is called the human snake and a contortionist of considerable fame, performs some difficult tricks and his act has never been equaled on the American vaudeville stage. Miss Effie Chaplin in illustrated songs made a hit and she is bound to please.

KENDAL-LEATHERBEE.

Mr. Clifford Henry Kendal of New York, the son of the late Samuel W. Kendal, Jr. of Newton, and Miss Margaret Rhodes Leatherbee, the daughter of Mr. Andrew F. Leatherbee of Newton Centre were married last Saturday evening at the Leatherbee residence on Beacon street, the ceremony taking place at eight o'clock and Rev. Robert F. Leavens of Fitchburg officiating.

The bride wore white chiffon over white silk, trimmed with point lace. She was attended by her sister Miss Florence Leatherbee as maid of honor, wearing white mull with elaborate lace insertion over yellow silk.

Mr. Kenneth H. Kendal, of New York, brother of the groom was the best man. A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal being Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Leatherbee, Miss Florence Leatherbee and Mrs. M. E. Kendal, mother of the groom. The guests were presented by these ushers, Messrs Gilbert Plimpton and Alan Young of Newton Centre, Albert Leatherbee of New York and J. Preston Rice of Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal will make their home in New York City.

What more appropriate as a Christmas present for anyone? It encourages reading and good reading is an education, and it will fit practically any purse—few units for a small purse, more for a larger one. You can add units as wanted. Better call now and investigate before the Xmas rush.

NEWTON MAN IS MANAGER.

Of Well Established Boston Firm.

Mr. Frank H. Williams of Newton Centre who has recently become the manager of the Cobb-Eastman Company, the well known Furniture Makers and Interior Decorators of Boston, proposes to give the patrons of that concern the best that can be produced in those lines. It is interesting to note that this firm will carry only their own designs in furniture, interior woodwork and decoration and is prepared, thru its corps of trained artists, craftsmen and salesmen to meet the desires of the most fastidious. A cordial invitation is extended by Mr. Williams to all Newton residents to inspect the store at 372-378 Boylston street, Boston.

CHURCH FAIR

In the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings, a fair was held under the auspices of the ladies of the parish. The prevailing decorations were red and green and were arranged by the decorating committee, Mrs. Charles H. Ames, chairman. The tables and the chairmen were as follows: fancy, Mrs. George A. Frost; fancy, Mrs. Ellery Kenbody; miscellaneous, Mrs. A. M. Langley; domestic, Mrs. Charles H. Stacy; doll, Mrs. John Greenwood; candy, Miss Helen Alley; apron, Mrs. A. J. Steadman; novelty, Miss Ethel Howland; children's, Miss Gladys Chandler. In the ladies' parlor a tea room was located in charge of Mrs. Harry L. Burrage and frappe was served on the stage by the hospitality committee of the ladies' aid, under the direction of Mrs. H. H. Tilton. One of the unique features was the telling of fortunes by palmistry by Mrs. Frank F. Webster. Supper was served both nights under the supervision of a committee of which Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt was chairman.

SQUASH TENNIS

The Massachusetts Squash Racquet Association's annual tournament will open Dec. 12. Four teams will be in the competition, representing the B. A. A. Oakley Tennis club, Newton Squash Tennis club, and Tennis and Racquet club.

Inter-city team matches for the squash racquet challenge trophy will be played in Boston in February, probably February 12 and 13. The individual championship of the Massachusetts Squash Racquet Association will be held at the B. A. A. in February. The schedule:

Dec. 21—Oakley at Newton Centre, B. A. A. at Tennis and Racquet.
Dec. 19—Newton Centre at Tennis and Racquet, B. A. A. at Oakley.
Jan. 2—B. A. A. at Newton Centre, Tennis and Racquet at Oakley.
Jan. 9—Newton Centre at Oakley, Tennis and Racquet at B. A. A.
Jan. 16—Oakley at B. A. A., Tennis and Racquet at Newton Centre.
Jan. 23—Oakley at Tennis and Racquet, Newton Centre at B. A. A.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

When the cases of Warren Calden and Robert Enholm, Newton Lower Falls youths, charged with having been disorderly, came up in the police court Saturday morning, Judge Kennedy turned to a policeman and asked what the young men had done. "They led a horse into the vestibule of the Methodist church at Lower Falls," was the reply. A ripple of merriment went around the court room. The young men were told that they must not again act as chaperone for a horse when going to church, and the cases were placed on file.

Chicago is preparing a new city charter. The other day Jane Addams headed a delegation of influential women, representing 101 organizations, with a membership of more than $100,000, who went before a committee of the Charter Convention and asked that a municipal woman suffrage clause be included. The charter committee, by a vote of 8 to 4, adopted a resolution to grant the request. When an effort was made a few years ago to get a new charter for Chicago, woman suffrage was defeated in the Charter Convention by a majority of only one vote.

Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin, corner Congress street, have on exhibition in their show rooms, the largest display of up-to-date Electric and Gas Table Lamps in this country. These lamps make the most desirable Wedding and Holiday Gifts.

HENRY F. MILLER PLAYER-PIANO

Combines in one instrument the features that have made all Henry F. Miller pianos famous for nearly half a century together with a pneumatic self-playing action that enables any one to perform the finest piano compositions at once without previous practice and without fatigue.

It stands SUPREME among player-pianos. Its effects are MUSICAL—not mechanical. It IMPROVES rather than deteriorates with usage. It is a STANDARD by which to judge the relative merits of player-pianos.

TO OUR OLD PATRONS

The demand upon us for slightly used Henry F. Miller pianos is at all times so great we are enabled thereby to offer our old patrons very liberal allowances for their pianos in exchange for new HENRY F. MILLER PLAYER-PIANOS.

What Did You Say?

“Why didn't I buy that land at 10c? Now it has advanced to 80c per foot.”

Yet at this present moment, I have to offer you as choice a lot of land for 10c per foot as can be purchased anywhere in the Newtons at a much higher price. Situated among shade trees on a slope, with southern exposure, adjoining handsome estates
where land is worth 60c a foot and convenient to everything, this land is a good, solid proposition. Pretty bungalow and cement houses about to be built nearby.
Let me show you this site.

WANTED

I have a large number of inquiries for properties in the Newtons. If you have Real Estate for sale or To Let in ANY OF THE NEW-TONS, list with me for quick results.

TO LET

This past week I have had seven houses come onto the market. Prices range from $12 up. In all about 75 houses and suites to let. See my lists.

has decided to offer the remainder of the ready-made goods at a great sacrifice, even below cost in many instances, consisting of furniture, lamps, bric-a-brac, upholstery goods, remnants, etc. This is done in order to carry out the new policy of producing and selling their own designs exclusively, which are arriving daily from their East Cambridge factory.

THE NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE.

The January number of the New England Magazine will contain a beautifully illustrated article on “The Newtons,” that will interest all of our readers.

Realizing that the local sale will be large, the management of the magazine have put advance-order sheets into the hands of the boys and girls of the Judson Home, Newton in order that the profit arising from such advance orders might add to the Chris-mas happiness of the children of the Home. The entire profit of these sales will be contributed to the Home, and it is hoped that the children may receive a kindly welcome from the people when they call at your house or place of business.

Mr. Bonner's Recent Address at Hunnewell Club

At the recent meeting at the Hunnewell Clubhouse, Mr. John H. Bonner spoke in part, as follows:

Mr. Bonner facetiously remarked that a few mornings previously he had ascended the steps of Bunker Hill Monument, which forcibly reminded him that in 1775 a very warm welcome was extended by the Americans to the British, and perhaps he would meet with a similar experience from the audience that night (laughter), though he was quite sure they would part, as they had met, the best of friends. He understood there was a desire that the arguments in favor of vaccination should also be listened to, and nothing would please him better, because "truth feared nothing but concealment" and if it was found that the time at their disposal that evening did not permit of a perfectly fair presentation of both sides of the case he was prepared to pay a return visit to the largest hall available in the district on any date mutually agreeable for a public debate under the usual conditions. (Applause.)

The question of vaccination affected every household, and therefore he claimed to be introducing to their notice one of the most important social subjects of the day. For over a century vaccination had been before them and his contention was that if it possessed any scientific basis or personal merit there would be no need for the Legislature to pass laws to enforce it. The pro-vaccinators were dogmatic and sought to thrust this medical prescription or surgical operation—whichever they chose to call it—upon every one, but the anti-vaccinators only asked for the liberty to exercise their own judgment in reference to their children and themselves. (Applause.)

That, he ventured to characterize as a logical and absolutely unassailable attitude to adopt, because if there was any ground whatsoever for the theories of their opponents they could get themselves thoroughly protected by vaccination and re-vaccination and need not fear their unvaccinated neighbors. The latter were willing to take their own individual risk, but practice and experience proved that the advocates of vaccination were wrong, for not only was it from amongst the alleged safeguarded that smallpox outbreaks were started, but they supplied the great bulk of the patients.

Whatever their respective views were in regard to vaccination they were all striving towards the same goal, viz., they wished to see smallpox exterminated and it was only upon the point whether those in the opposite camp favored in the shape of stamping in the specific disease of vaccination or whether the policy pursued by the anti-vaccinators for the rational and natural stamping out of all infectious disorders was not far preferable that they crossed swords.

The doctors had been divided concerning the merits of vaccination ever since its discovery and to-day there were in the ranks of the anti-vaccinators equally as eminent medical men as were to be found on the opposite side. Having quoted some of his leading authorities the speaker remarked that if it became a matter of leaving the question of the vaccination of their children to the family practitioner it would resolve itself into a game of chance according to the views of that particular doctor, but he failed to see that expert advice was needed at all, for their own common sense was surely a sufficient guide that when children were strong and well they did not need to have something akin to the foul cattle disease of cowpox communicated to them. (Applause.)

Probably they would wonder why such a system ever came to be recognized and tolerated. The explanation was exceedingly simple. In older days a belief prevailed that everybody must suffer from smallpox at least once, and it became the custom to inoculate people with the disease in the hope that it would immunize them from a severe attack in later life. It was interesting to note that one of the earliest inoculators in America was Dr. Boylston, and it was found that not only were some of the persons whom he inoculated killed thereby, but this sowing of the disease broadcast produced a proportionate crop. The outcome was that on July 21st, 1721, the selectmen and justices of the peace of Boston resolved after hearing the evidence that "the operation proved fatal to many persons; it laid the foundation for many dangerous diseases; the operation tended to spread and continue the infection longer than it might otherwise be; and continuing the operation was likely to prove of most dangerous consequence."

Eventually inoculation became a punishable offence, and, whereas, the pro-vaccinators conveniently ignored that knocking on the head of the old-time system by which smallpox was disseminated wholesale, the anti-vaccinators claimed that it was that circumstance—coupled with their better knowledge of sanitation and hygienic conditions, and the healthier environment in which people lived—which accounted for the lesser amount of smallpox now as compared with the past. (Applause.) Other diseases, such as cholera, the plague, typhus fever, etc., which used to prevail in their midst had disappeared without any equivalent to vaccination, but had admittedly proved amenable to sanitation and he was of opinion that the latter influence had also affected the smallpox and that none of the credit was due to vaccination, because in those parts of the world where sanitation, as they understood the term, could not be practiced, smallpox still claimed its millions of victims in spite of vaccination.

The real discoverer of vaccination was Benjamin Jesty, but it remained for Edward Jenner to bring it before the world, and its favorable reception was not to be wondered at after three-quarters of a century of inoculation, in view of the fact that Jenner claimed life-long immunity from smallpox as the result of submitting to vaccination. The last mentioned man was at the time an apothecary's assistant in a Gloucestershire village and his medical degree was obtained by purchase and not by examination. Some people looked upon him as a benefactor to the race, but in reality his name and fame had fallen upon evil days, for even the believers in vaccination had changed many times from the variety of "lymph" which Jenner said was the real life-preserving fluid and they now advocated re-vaccination at frequent periods, as it was found that so many vaccinated people contracted smallpox and a good proportion of them died from it.

A statue to Jenner's memory only remained in Trafalgar Square, London, a few years and was then removed to a far less conspicuous place in Kensington Gardens; the name of what was formerly called the Jenner Institute had been changed; the idea of publishing his life and work amongst a series of books entitled "Heroes of Medicine" was dropped; and when a statue of Jenner was pointed out in Gloucester Cathedral to a medical friend of his (Mr. Bonner's) that doctor jokingly replied, "Yes, I know all about 'the old rascal.'" And no wonder, either, in view of the fact that he had been prosecuted 19 times for the non-vaccination of his own children.

Having given an illustrated description of the process by which calf-lymph is obtained the speaker went on to argue that history absolutely refuted the claims for vaccination. In the early seventies the greatest smallpox epidemic on record swept over the world, following the Franco-Prussian campaign—for war was invariably succeeded by pestilence. That was after seventy years' experience of vaccination and in England alone there were about 45,000 deaths in spite of the fact that as recently as 1867 the only Act of Parliament containing penal clauses for non-vaccination had been passed.

Leicester, of which he was a native and where he had always lived, had thousands of cases and 346 deaths in one year (1872) amongst 90,000 people and the authorities realized that vaccination could not be relied upon, so it had gradually fallen into disuse until now a quarter of the 250,000 inhabitants were unvaccinated children below the vaccinal age of 14 years. That town claimed to be the healthiest and the cleanest of the large manufacturing boroughs of the United Kingdom and even when smallpox was imported they did not become panic stricken and rush for wholesale vaccination, but had implicit confidence in the method of controlling the disease which had never failed them in spite of the many severe tests to which it had been subjected (these last 39 years). (Applause.)

The lecturer next referred to the experience of two local physicians who contracted smallpox a few years since, but, whilst admitting their courage and devotion to their profession in not shirking their duty towards a patient, submitted they were not physically fit to attend zymotic cases at that time by reason of recent illness in each instance having reduced their normal vitality. Having learned all the circumstances from first-hand sources he was not in the least surprised that the doctors to whom he was alluding did develop smallpox, but it was really a triumph for their cause—because both had exceedingly mild attacks, and after having passed through the school of experience, were more convinced opponents of vaccination than ever. (Cheers.) One singular feature was that the two nurses by whom they were attended never sickened in spite of their lack of the alleged prophylactic and the public did not seem to be very well aware of the case of the medical student who died from smallpox after having been many times vaccinated.

The laws of England—where exemption can be very easily obtained by simply filling up a form supplied at the time or registering the birth of a child—and of this State were explained, but Mr. Bonner said anti-vaccinators would not rest content until every vestige of compulsion was swept from the statute books. He objected to the machinery of the Board of Education being at the disposal of the Board of Health to force vaccination upon children when they were old enough to enter the public schools and contended that their opponents were quite inconsistent in allowing children to grow up to school age minus vaccination if they thought that operation was necessary at any period of life. Reform, however, rested with the people themselves and so soon as public opinion was expressed in no uncertain manner their wishes would be complied with by the Legislature and vaccinated and unvaccinated would stand alike in the eye of the law. (Applause.)

In concluding a lengthy address the speaker dwelt upon the danger of vaccination itself and claimed that whilst the risk from that operation was ever-present the risk from smallpox was very slight indeed, provided Nature's laws were observed. (Loud applause.)

LODGES.

Division 35, A. O. H. elected the following officers to serve the coming year: President, Timothy O'Connell; vice-president, Jeremiah Ford; recording secretary, Dr. L. J. Maskell; financial secretary, Timothy O'Rourke; treasurer, John Whalen; sergeant-at-arms, John Kinnery; inside guard, Patrick Coady.

CITY HALL NOTES.

At the recount of the ballots cast in ward three for ward aldermen on Wednesday, alderman Webster was represented by Mr. Charles E. Hatfield and ex-alderman Condrin by Mr. James E. Farrell. The recount consumed 35 minutes and resulted in no change from the result as announced by the precinct officers.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Mr. Edward C. Tolman of Highland street, West Newton had a narrow escape from serious injury last Friday evening when his automobile crashed thru the fence which separates Greenwich park, Boston from the tracks of the New Haven Road. Mr. Tolman was endeavoring to cross over from Columbus avenue to Huntington avenue and was misled from the uniformity of the street lights into the belief that Greenwich park had a bridge over the railroad tracks. He discovered his mistake too late to stop and the automobile went thru the fence and dropped upon the tracks below. Mr. Tolman and his companion escaped without injury but the machine was considerably damaged. A wrecking crane was sent to the place to remove the automobile from the tracks.

MRS. HOPEWELL'S RECEPTION.

Wednesday afternoon at a largely attended reception at 273 Waverley avenue given by Mrs. John Hopewell in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence M. Casselberry, the engagement of Miss Nellie Harriet Hopewell to Mr. Clarence Conant Colby, '02 Harvard, '08 Law School, was announced. The following sixteen young ladies attended in white gowns carrying pale pink carnations acted as ushers and servers. Mrs. Frank B. Hopewell, the Misses Florence Colby, Grace Hopewell, Edith Chapin, Ruby Crosby, Marion Fennon, Anna Wellington, Ruth McCall, Vera Steibel, Asa West, Florence Jones, Mabel McLellan, Harriet Burleigh, Mabel Burleigh, Marion Johnson, and Kate Hunt. The pourers were Mrs. William Hassinger, Mrs. William Marland, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. George Frank Hooker, Mrs. Walter Anderton and Mrs. Horace Whitney.

Many prominent Boston, Cambridge, Brookline, Newton and Natick people attended.

12TH ANNIVERSARY.

Sarah Hull Chapter D. R. Celebrates.

Sarah Hull Chapter D. R. observed its twelfth anniversary last Friday afternoon at the Hunnewell club and an interesting program was given in charge of Miss Susan A. Whiting. Miss Whiting gave reminiscences of the first meetings and work of the chapter and the life of Mrs. Stephens was read by Mrs. F. W. Webber. The musical program was by Miss L. Anderson who rendered piano solos most acceptably and Miss Kemp sang. Miss Helen Wells read a Monologue letter from a "shut in" and Miss Minnie Wheeler read a letter from a mountaineer, while Mrs. Hornbrook gave a short talk on the subject of mountaineers.

America was sung at the close of the formal program, and a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. Clifton D. Black, Mrs. Lew C. Hill, Mrs. Frank P. Shofield, Mrs. Anna Whiting, Miss Susan A. Whiting and Mrs. S. B. Whittemore as hostesses. A charming feature of the dining table was the twelve dainty birthday cakes frosted with the chapter colors.

What trade should be recommended to a short person? Grocer (grow, sir).

HIGH SCHOOL BOY DIES.

Edward P. Young, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Young of Glenwood avenue, Newton Centre, died yesterday following an illness of three weeks of typhoid fever and pneumonia. The lad was in his 14th year, a freshman at the Newton High school, where he was prominent in athletics and football. He graduated last June from the Mason school with high honors and was a young man of great promise. Much sympathy is expressed for his parents in their deep affliction. Funeral services will be held from the family residence on Glenwood avenue at 2 P. M. on Sunday and friends and relatives are invited to be present.

NEWTON LEAGUE.

The weekly games in the Newton bowling league on Wednesday evening resulted in straight wins by Maugus over Riverdale, every man on the winning team rolling over 500, three wins and a tie between Allston Golf and Hunnewell, both teams getting 867 on the third string, while North Gate only allowed the Newton Boat one string, altho Kimball of the latter team was high man for the week with 591.

MILLIONAIRE WEDDING.

The Entertainers Club of Cambridge gave an enjoyable concert, entitled, Millionaire Wedding at Players' hall, West Newton, last night, consisting of instrumental and vocal selections and selected readings. Those taking part were Miss Bertha M. Pryor, Madam Carlton, Miss Louise Palmes, Prof. Payne, W. H. Hampton, Mr. C. L. White, the Cantabrigia male quartet, and the Mozart Ladies' chorus club. The selections were excellently rendered and encores were plentiful.

In some respects the mass meeting of indignation held last evening was of great interest. It clearly showed,
in the first place, that Newton residents are interested in civic matters.

Mr. Gorham's speech cleared the air in many respects and while many palpable hits were scored (like the one criticizing three men on each ash cart), it did not seem as if the logic of the situation was with the complainants.

In justice to the tax payers it seems to me that the situation should be reviewed. This city faces next year, a financial situation without parallel in its history. A new state law deprives us of half of our income from corporation taxes amounting to $70,000. The serial bonds and interest on the new Technical High School amount to some $30,000, a compliance with the state law regarding extermination of gypsy moths (a law which can require an appropriation of 1-15 of 1 per cent of our valuation, amounting to nearly $46,000), adds over $30,000 to the tax levy, making a total of $130,- 000 increase over the levy of 1908, on which an $18.50 rate was necessary.

On our present valuation of nearly $69,000,000, one dollar on the rate will raise $69,000, so that it can easily be seen that $130,000 on the present valuation will add nearly $2 to the present rate. It can safely be estimated that the valuation will be increased about one million dollars, which will reduce the extra amount some $18,000
or $19,000, depending upon the rate,
but even then it seems hardly possible to escape a rate of less than $19.50, all things considered. Under all these circumstances, the board of aldermen have carefully scrutinized all estimates, have caused most of the city departments to simply "mark time" in matters of expense and while increasing the school appropriations several thousands of dollars,
have cut down the department estimates $5,000, or less than 2 per cent, of the entire appropriation of over $300,000. The clamor that the city is thereby "neglecting its children for bugs" is therefore untrue and is greatly to be deplored. It gives a wrong impression for no city which appropriates over $300,000, or one-quarter of its entire levy for schools, can be said to "neglect" its children. To my mind, the aldermen should have gone still further in reducing expenses and eliminated certain appropriations, which, while desirable, are not actually necessary in the emergency which now confronts us. The claims of the leaders of the indignation meeting that the $5,000 cut from the school appropriation should be transferred from other departments, is in my opinion, not tenable, for if other departments can stand a cut of $5,000 for the benefit of the schools, that $5,000 and as many other $5,000 as possible should be saved to the tax payers.

It is to be hoped that the situation in 1909 will not continue, altho the decrease in the corporation tax has evidently come to stay, indeed, if the entire income is not subsequently taken away by the state. A new inheritance tax law, however, which has just gone into effect, promises to relieve us somewhat from the burden of part of the state tax, so that 1910
may make a better financial showing than 1909.

Tax payers should bear in mind that the school appropriation was the deliberate judgment of twenty-one aldermen, was approved by the mayor and has been cheerfully accepted by the school committee, making a strong combination to combat.

In my criticism of the board of aldermen last week I inadvertently referred to the appropriation for street signs as $2,000, it should have been $500. While the principle involved is in no way affected by the difference in amount, the importance of the matter is greatly lessened. I sincerely apologize for the error of mixing the amounts appropriated for Trimming and Removing Trees ($2,000), and for Street Signs ($500).

—The Union church society held a reception in honor of their pastor, the Rev. Mr. Seabury, of Wellesley Hills, last Friday night at the Waban school.
During the evening a delightful entertainment was introduced in the form of a series of tableaux illustrating "The Reveries of a Bachelor." Mr.
W. R. Fisher portrayed the bachelor, Miss Marion Miller, the gypsy, and the visions were Miss Berry South-

—A humorous entertainment entitled "The Old Country Store," will be given by boys of the Congregational Sabbath school on Tuesday evening, December 15th, in the vestry of the church. Besides the entertainment there will be vocal and instrumental music. At the close of the entertainment there will be an auction and sale of staple articles and groceries.

—The hit of the season will be found in the "District Skule" to be given in Lincoln hall, next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the male chorus of the Methodist church. Two hours of hearty, wholesome laughter are provided. Not the least attraction is the unexpected costumes that some of our townsmen will wear. A large demand for tickets has already been made.

SOME OTHER IDEAS
FOR CHRISTMAS

We make cushions for willow chairs,—shape size and firmness as you order. You select coverings from goods in stock, getting the benefit of seeing the cloth in the piece.

If you prefer to do your own making we are just as ready to sell the unmade materials.
We buy in big lots from upholstery wholesalers and we can give you some exclusive benefits in price.

Come and look at our FOREIGN CRETONNES.

INSURANCE

Do you realize that the average loss by fire in U. S. is about $500,000 a day. Right here in Massachusetts over 3000 dwellings were either destroyed or damaged during 1907, costing Insurance Companies $1,180,052.
Failure to insure is gross negligence. The cost is small, protection absolute. Be sure your automobile is covered. Accidents are alarmingly frequent.

—Mrs. Robert F. Cummings and her daughter Mrs. Perrin B. Whitney, who moved here recently from Hartford, Conn., are guests for a few weeks of the Misses Dupee of Orchard street.

—The December social was held at Eliot church last evening. A musical entertainment was provided and was followed by a chafing dish supper, served by the ladies of the committee.

—The regular meeting of the Eight O'clock Club was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Herbert Stebbins on Centre street. An instructive paper on "Tuberculosis" was given by Dr. M. E. Gleason.

—The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Societies was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. F. D. Fuller on Newtonville avenue. Mrs. F. B. Clark of Cambridge was the special guest and speaker.

—Mrs. Frank M. Sheldon of Farlow road and Miss Mabel L. Riley of Bellevue street were in charge of the Newton table at the annual fair of the Animal Rescue league which was held this week in Copley hall, Boston.

—Mr. Gaston Dethler, organist of St. Francis Xavier church, New York, will give an organ recital in Eliot church next Thursday evening. Mr. Dethler is a well known composer and his program promises to be one of high artistic merit.

—Miss Dora Daniels was a passenger returning on the "Majestic" the last of the week from an extended visit in England. Miss Daniels will visit her parents on Washington street previous to taking up her work as a teacher in Hartford, Conn.

—The series of monthly hymn services will be continued at Eliot church next Sunday afternoon at 4.30. The various musical settings of the hymn, "The Lord of Glory is My Light," by Isaac Watts will be rendered by the choir and chorus and the pastor will make an appropriate address.

—Mr. Henry T. Wade is to give a series of twelve lectures on Musical History at his home, 77 Newtonville avenue, on the first and third Tuesdays, from December to May. These lectures will also include the lives and principal works of the leading composers of the old and modern school of music. The first lecture, Tuesday afternoon was on "Early Beginnings of Music," composer, Johann Sebastian Bach.

—The Elliot Guild are sending away two boxes this week, one to a school at Londall, North Carolina and the other to Marion, Alabama.

—Miss Helen M. Ferguson entertained the members of the Epworth League last evening at her home on Arlington street.

—The regular meeting of the Newton Monday Evening Club will be held next Monday evening at the home of Mr. S. C. Smith on Fairmont avenue.

—At the meeting of the Business Men's Club at Eliot church next Sunday, Prof. Henry K. Rowe will lecture on "Anglo-Saxon Life in the Early Eighteenth Century."

—In last Sunday's issue of the Boston Herald an "Excellent picture of the Newton Free Library and an account of its inception and growth."

—At the residence of Mrs. Sylvester L. Durgin on Arlington street yesterday afternoon the second "at home" of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Immanuel Baptist church was held. There was no business session and a social hour was enjoyed.

—The Newton Mothers' Club met with Mrs. J. Jay Mitchell of Balcarres road, West Newton, on Monday afternoon, Dec. 7. There was a large attendance, including many of the older children, notwithstanding the stormy weather.

Miss Beach read the Story of King Arthur. Miss Constance Frisbie sang with violin obligato by Miss Kempton.

At the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club next Thursday morning at ten o'clock, Mr. Thomas Weston, Jr., will speak of "The Juvenile Court."

The Social Science Club on Wednesday morning considered "The Administration of the City" as presented by Mrs. Fred H. Tucker.

Mrs. Tucker traced the history of municipal government from the time of the colonial town with its charter from the king to the present day when cities are struggling for the best and most democratic form of civic control.

The development of the city council in its varying forms in Great Britain and Germany was also shown. The conclusions reached are summed up in the following extracts from Mrs. Tucker's paper:

Up to 1900 there were found four prominent successive types of city administration—the Council System, the National System, the Board System and the Mayor System.

The Council System, having a simple, elective Council of which mayor and aldermen were but a part with the mayor, an appointed officer, as chairman, lasted well into the nineteenth century.

About 1800, with that intense national feeling and devotion to constitutional forms and principles which characterized the period, cities began to copy the forms of the Federal government, until by 1830 the generally accepted type was that of a mayor and council of one or two chambers, all elected by the people and each independent of the others, with the mayor having a veto over the council. Under this regime two evils resulted; city government became inefficient and political parties began to get control.

General dissatisfaction culminated about 1850 in the third period of municipal development, the Board System, which was really a further development of the National System, the boards corresponding to departments in the Federal government. Under this plan practically all administrative power was taken from the council, leaving it, like Congress, a purely legislative body, the executive power being vested in boards at the head of the several departments. Election of these boards by the people, and later their appointment by the mayor without power of removal resulted in a chaos of city government.

Matters were not improved by the legislature's assuming authority over the details of city affairs, and political ascendancy, the ring and the boss and the shame ensued.

About 1880 came the fourth period, the Mayor System, in which the mayor was invested with absolute power of appointment and removal. The departments, whether boards or simple heads, were strictly accountable to the mayor, who in turn was held responsible for the whole administration.

Through all these changes the general tendency has been toward the decrease of the council in prestige and efficiency, until 1900 reform was attempted wholly by tinkering the existing system instead of abolishing it.

Now let us ask what are the requirements for an ideal city administration, and by these measure the latest reforms. I think we shall agree upon the following:—

- (1) Freedom from state control in matters affecting the city only.
- (2) Freedom from all connection, in fact or name, with party politics.
- (3) Close and direct connection with the people. It should be government by the people.
- (4) Simplicity and definite centralization of responsibility.
- (5) Probably the separation of the taxing and appropriating powers from the spending authority.

How do our new departures in this country measure up to the standard? Under the commission plan (as carried out in Galveston) there seems to be the necessary freedom from state control and responsibility is fixed in the commission of five men, to whom all powers are intrusted. Its weak points are the danger of party influence on a small governing body and the lack of direct and effective control by the people, for the commissioners are elected for two years with full powers, and when the machinery is set in motion it must run for the two years without opportunity for protest from the people. The Des Moines plan remedies this defect by providing that a sufficient protest from the people shall recall an officer or stop an enactment or its execution directly.

Placing the grant of franchises in the hands of the people removes a large incentive to political corruption. These safeguards, with the initiative and referendum, make the Des Moines plan far more democratic than the Galveston plan. Yet even this lacks the intimate relation to the people. This is furnished by the Newport plan. In Newport each ward is represented in the council by one alderman and thirty-one councilmen. This large representation obviates the usual objections to the ward system and ensures its advantages. Each section is fully represented and a very large proportion of the citizens have a chance actually to take a hand in the government, while those who do not, at least come into close contact with those who do and with what they are doing. The council is saved from becoming unwieldy because of size by the nature of its functions, which are those of a town meeting, with the mayor and aldermen as executives like the selectmen. To me town meeting government is the ideal form for places not too large for its working, and the Newport idea, or something nearly akin, the best adaptation for larger places. In this all our requirements seem fulfilled—freedom from state control, from politics, simplicity and centralization and democracy.

Sometimes when sickness is in the

INDIGNATION MEETING.

$5,000 Cut in School Appropriation Opposed and Defended at Newtonville.

A well attended mass meeting was held last evening at the Assembly hall of the High school as the result of an agitation begun last week among citizens on the south side of Newtonville, because of the recent action of the school committee in ordering a consolidation of the two ninth grades now existing in Newtonville, and the possibility of the abandonment of the vacation schools and a shortening of the evening sessions, all due to a cut of $5,000 in the estimates of the School committee for 1909 by the board of aldermen.

The first meeting on the matter was held last week Thursday at the residence of Mr. Charles M. Howell, after which a statement was given out which in part was as follows:

"In consequence of the inadequate amount appropriated it is the intention to close the evening schools, abandon the summer schools and further economize by consolidating classes in different parts of the city, thereby reducing the number of teachers by increasing the size of the classes.

"This was sufficient cause for indignant protest, but when it was stated that a department of forestry had been created and an appropriation of $30,000 made to fight gypsy and brown tail moths the indignation reached its height.

"The meeting voted to further arouse public sentiment on the matter. It was the consensus of opinion that the appropriation for the forestry department should be reduced $5,000 and that this amount should be given to the school department. As a means toward this end the chairman, Mrs. George F. Lowell selected a committee consisting of Henry A. Norton, chairman, Charles M. Howell and Shepherd M. Crain.

"It was brought out that the city of Newton's school appropriation of $3.63 per $1,000 tax valuation was next to Boston the lowest in the state. This did not tend to soothe the feelings of those present, considering the present high tax rate.

"The meeting was emphatic in its declaration that a sufficient amount should be given to the school committee so that its work could go on without being hampered by economizing to such an extent as closing the evening schools and vacation schools and doubling up the classes in some of the day schools.

"Consolidation of classes means an increase in distance traveled by the children, who already on account of area per population travel farther to school than the children of neighboring cities.

"The general feeling is that it is a monstrous mistake to make any such economies intended, and that if it is necessary to economize it would be better to do so in the street and forestry departments.

Another meeting was held on Friday evening at which Mr. Norton reported on his efforts to obtain the high school hall, and the entire situation was reviewed. Many economies now practised in the schools were criticized.

Arrangements were finally made with the city authorities and large posters announcing the meeting were placed about the city and smaller circulars distributed thruout the city, principally by the school children.

As a result the hall was well filled with those interested, fully 500 people being present. Mrs. George F. Lowell presided most effectively, her reports after some of the speeches being greeted with hearty applause. On the stage were Messrs. Norton and Crain of the committee of arrangements, Chairman R. S. Gorham and Mr. Abbot Bassett of the school committee, and Dr. F. E. Spaulding, superintendent of schools. It was a very fair audience, both sides being given careful attention, and the applause was impartial.

In opening the meeting Mrs. Lowell said that the matter in question was for all citizens to decide whether to love the aldermen the less or the schools more.

The first speaker was Mr. Robert S. Gorham, chairman of the school committee who spoke as follows:

Since the circular announcing this meeting was distributed, I have received numerous anxious inquiries from members of the School Committee and from other friends as to whether I sympathized with the indignation which was to be expressed by this meeting to the Board of Aldermen, and whether I felt that the action of the Board of Aldermen in cutting $5,000 from the requested appropriation of $312,582 for the school expenses during the year 1909 had produced an "appalling situation," as stated in the circular. Both those inquiries I have answered emphatically in the negative. I had no hand in the preparation or the distribution of the circular. Moreover, I wish to state equally emphatically that my attitude with respect to this meeting was definitely stated by me at the outset. Last Sunday evening, when I was called on the telephone by Mr. Norton and a few minutes later by Mrs. Lowell and asked to arrange to have one of the school halls opened for an indignation meeting, I stated that I did not share or sympathize with the alleged indignation and that I knew that the School Board would be reluctant to supply a hall for a meeting, the expressed purpose of which was to voice indignation against the Aldermen. I stated then, and I state now, that the School Committee feel that the Mayor and Aldermen have considered the question of next year's appropriations exhaustively and fairly, and that they are not disposed to criticize the Mayor and Aldermen for withholding the $5,000 requested.

I wish to speak briefly; first, as to the indignation feature, and, secondly, as to the alleged appalling situation. During the past few years I have been actively connected with the movement which resulted in giving to the city the Athletic Field for the use of the High School and also the large front section of the Clafin Home-stead property upon which the new High School is being erected. When that project was first suggested, there were many citizens who, when asked to subscribe to it, stated that they thought that the expense should be borne by the city treasury. The members of the City Government of those years were, almost to a man, in favor of the purchase, but were equally insistent that the purchase should be effected through private subscriptions and not by the city treasury. They realized that the purchase would be of great value to the schools, but they felt that it should be effected so as not to increase the city debt or the city tax rate. The two properties cost a little over $53,000. Of that amount over $28,000 was privately contributed by members of the City Government.

There are two other incidents which are equally pertinent to this question of whether the alleged indignation toward the Aldermen is justifiable. When the plans for the new High School building were considered by the Board of Aldermen, every effort was made to keep the cost down to the lowest possible terms consistent with a proper building. The plans as originally drawn called for certain ornamentation about the columns at the front entrance to the building. As that ornamentation was not essential to the building, it was eliminated, but later, by a private contribution of $1,215, which was induced by a member of the City Government, it was arranged that the ornamentation should be provided.

Within a few weeks there has been another illustration. The educational value of manual training schools is becoming recognized, and it has been the desire of the School Department to have a well-equipped manual training department in the Nonantum section. Through the generosity of a member or members of the City Government, such a school is to be established, and against the expense thereof, which will probably be about $3,000 a year, the city is to be guaranteed for five years.

In the face of such generosity on the part of the members of the City Government, it would be surprising indeed if any member of the School Committee was disposed to express indignation against these same gentlemen, simply because as members of the Board of Aldermen they had withheld $5,000 from the appropriation requested for next year.

Next, as to the alleged appalling situation: The Aldermen have authorized the School Committee to effect the $5,000 saving in such ways as seem least harmful. Our appropriation includes $3,000 for evening schools. Until within a few years, the evening school session has opened early in October and closed at the Christmas holidays, that being sufficient to comply with the law. Within the last few years we have continued the evening schools until March. We now propose to return to the old schedule and this year to close the school at the end of December. We shall thereby save $2,000. The circular is, therefore, misleading when it speaks of "Evening Schools abandoned."

Our appropriation contains an item of $1,800 for vacation schools. The Committee has not yet decided to withhold from the vacation schools this amount. My impression is that, in order to effect the $5,000 saving, it will be necessary to withhold the $1,800, but it should be remembered that the vacation schools do not affect our day school system and are not required by law, and that, until within a few years, their expense has been borne by private contributions. While the School Committee would like to have the vacation schools continued, they do not feel that the withholding of the $1,800 would of necessity result in the giving up of the vacation schools, nor that the educational situation would be appalling if the vacation schools were given up.

The next item of the circular speaks of "Kindergartens abolished." As to this, it is sufficient to say that, so far as I am aware, no one contemplates abolishing the kindergartens. Certainly that step is not necessary in order to effect the $5,000 saving.

The next item reads, "Classes consolidated." The only consolidation decided upon is one which in my opinion ought to be made, even if the $5,000 was available, namely, the consolidation of the ninth grade in the Clafin School with the ninth grade in the Horace Mann School. The former contains eighteen or nineteen pupils; the latter, twenty to twenty-two pupils. Together the total attendance will be about forty pupils, a number which is exceeded in several of the ninth grade rooms in other parts of the city. I think that, from the standpoint of economy, the maintenance of these two classes separately has been unjustifiable. More important, however, than the point of economy is the fact that the present accommodations for the ninth grade class at the Clafin School are inadequate. The class has for its schoolroom a hall in the top of the building, which was not intended for any such use, which is so poorly lighted that on gloomy days artificial light has to be used, and the class is somewhat interrupted by the use of the hall for other purposes. There have been many complaints about these accommodations. At the Horace Mann School, which is within easy walking distance, a proper room is available and the pupils will there come into more direct contact with Mr. Carr, the efficient Grammar Master of the Newtonville district. That covers everything of which I am informed about the item, "Classes consolidated." By that consolidation a saving of at least $750 will be effected.

The remaining item of the circular reads, "Your children to travel increased distances to school." The only justification for this statement is to be found in the consolidation above mentioned of the two ninth grades in the Newtonville districts. The distance which the children will have to travel to reach the Horace Mann School is no greater than the distance travelled by children in the other wards of the city to reach the several grammar schools. Moreover, there are good walks and roads leading to the Horace Mann School, and there are no hills to be climbed. In these days of out-door sports, the additional exercise which the few scholars in the Clafin School will get by walking to the Horace Mann School will, in my opinion, work a benefit rather than an injury.

The total saving which would be effected by the changes mentioned above in the evening schools, the summer schools and the one consolidation would be $4,500 out of the total $5,000. I think that the balance, $500, can in various ways be saved during the year, without seriously impairing the efficiency of the schools.

I venture the suggestion, which recommends itself to me and which past experience leads me to think is practicable, that citizens who feel indignation at the reducing of the evening schools' session and the probable withholding of the $1,800 appropriation for the summer schools, join with individual members of the City Government in a private subscription to furnish to the School Department the $3,800 covered by those two items, which are to my mind the only very important items. I shall be very glad to join in such a subscription, and I hope that a movement to that end will be started to-night.

I wish to add a brief word as to the problem with which the Mayor and Aldermen had to struggle. The Newton tax rate this year is $18.20. The change in the state law with respect to the dividing among the cities and towns of the state corporation tax will reduce by about $70,000 Newton's income from that source. That single item means about $1 increase in the tax rate next year. Another important item is the appropriation for suppressing the moths, which, if not suppressed, will destroy the trees in our so-called garden city. If, as has been suggested in one of the newspaper items with respect to this meeting, the question was as between bugs and children, it would not be a difficult question to decide, but that is not the question. I believe that the appropriation granted by the Board of Aldermen will be sufficient to maintain the high efficiency of the day schools of Newton, and there is certainly no such appalling situation as to require us to disregard our duty to ourselves and our neighbors in the matter of suppressing the moths. I cannot too strongly affirm my confidence in the generosity and good judgment of our Board of Aldermen and in their desire to provide for our public schools. I know that the members of the Board of Aldermen will welcome any suggestions toward keeping down the city expenses and the consequent tax rate, but I think that helpful suggestions are more likely to emanate from the quiet work of some small committee than from a meeting like this which has been announced in advance as an indignation meeting.

Mrs. Harriet A. Eager said that if women were on the school board, it would not curtail the development of the children. She thought it high time that citizens were awake to the injustice being done their children. It would be no use to work and strive unless we left things better for the generation to come.

Mr. Henry A. Norton and Mr. Shepherd M. Crain both opposed Mr. Gorman's motion that the necessary amount be raised by private subscription, on the ground that the city itself should provide funds for the education of its children. Mrs. Lowell also opposed the motion and it was defeated.

Mr. Ludwig Gerhard was the next speaker and explained the situation at Chestnut hill, which has no school facilities, the children being given tickets on the electric cars to carry them to the Mason school at Newton Centre. He commented on the reduction in the number of car tickets which would take place with the new year, and while he was proud of the generosity of those citizens who had made the Clafin field possible, he was indignant that the children should be made to suffer. He thought a few mothers on the school committee would look after the children much better and criticized the ventilation in many of the school rooms.

A lady whose name could not be obtained created much amusement by saying that in times of household deficits, economy was obtained by reducing the number of maids, but she had noticed that it took three men nowadays to remove the ashes, where only two were used a year or two ago. She thought an explanation was due the tax payers.

Mr. Robinson thought on general principles it was not a good plan to economize in the school appropriations, and believed great economies could be effected in other departments. He said he had noticed only the other morning, a crew of 13 men at work for the city, and timed them ten minutes by his watch during which only 2 of them did anything. He suggested that if all had been compelled to work and the ratio carried through all departments, the tax rate would be but $10 per $1000.

Mr. Norton stated that the city had expended this year some $15,000 for work on moths and had appropriated for 1909 over $34,000 with $8000 additional for parks. In addition the state contributes one half of all amounts expended over $5000. He believed this was a good work and very necessary but doubted whether the states had come to our assistance. He believed that work on sidewalks and similar matters could be postponed. He was glad to see the public interest which had been aroused on this matter and hoped the school board would receive the full amount they had asked for.

Mrs. Fred H. Tucker spoke on the very serious situation regarding the preservation of the trees and said that it was so serious that the United States had come to our assistance. She believed the city would lose this aid if we did not try to help ourselves.

Mrs. Lowell stated that she was glad to see this work done but believed the city should receive full value for its money.

M. Reuben Forknall said that the consolidation of grades was no new subject to residents of Nonantum as their children had been forced to go to the Mann school for its ninth grade for six or eight years. He thought the city had been robbing the district of the education of its children as the parents said they could not afford to send their children to the Mann school. He said the $5000 item in question did not affect Nonantum at all, as they were on the outside "as usual" but wanted to be counted in.

Capt. S. E. Howard said that the maintenance of the Technical High School was taken care of in the appropriation for 1909 as passed. He said that Newton paid the highest amount per child for education in Mass. and that few school systems either in the state or elsewhere can compare favorably with Newton today. He had been a member of the school committee for nine years and knew that our schools have been constantly growing in efficiency and value. He said that our aldermen rank among the best business men in Newton and Boston. They have considered this question with the greatest care and were between the devil and the deep sea in order to do what was best for the schools and still keep down the tax rate. He had heard the result with great relief and believed the committee would be able to accept it without decreasing the efficiency of the schools. He favored the consolidation of ninth grades in Newtonville and said that Mr. Carr's time would be saved and the efficiency increased. He thought it well to have faith in the best business men in Newton and Boston. He heard no complaint of the work see what happens.

Mr. Palmer said he was an old teacher and interested in education. The moths are something to be worried about, but is not a matter which would ever be settled by the city, the state or the nation. He believed that our trees would have to be cared for as we care for our lawns, by each individual citizen—and suggested that half the appropriation for moth work be given to the school committee and used in educating the children to exterminate the moths.

Mr. Douglass said that financial business was a critical business and we do not know the problem before the aldermen, while they are familiar with all its details. He thought the trouble with Newton was its large area. Its school system was the best, its school buildings the best, but Newton needs more money, and more people to live on its vacant land. He favored a committee of three from each ward to set forth to the whole state the advantage of Newton as a place of residence.

Mr. Fred H. Tucker said that the committee had taken care of Nonantum as its new school building, and new master testified. He also agreed with the last speaker that Newton needed more people but said it could not be brought about with a $20 tax rate. He called attention to the fact that Newton had evaded the law for many years in not providing manual training for its high school and believed that in five years there would be heard no complaint of the work of the Technical High school, and that it was one of the best investments we had ever made. He believed that the aldermen had shown the utmost courtesy to the school committee and we should acknowledge that the aldermen know more about the matter than we do.

Mr. Abbot Bassett said he was sorry that the consolidation is to be made as he thought many parents would take their children out of the public schools. He believed that the city was up against a hard problem and hoped a way could be found to meet it.

Rev. Albert Hammett said that this consolidation was up some years ago and a meeting of the citizens and committee was held at which the argument was put so rationally and indignantly that the committee gracefully succumbed. He believed the committee of three from each ward was a huge joke as it was not practicable.

The amendment was then put to vote and defeated, and action was then taken on the following motion made by Miss Susan A. Whiting earlier in the evening: "That the chair appoint a committee of ten to appear before the board of aldermen at its next meeting, for the purpose of presenting a demand for the reconsideration of the appropriation for the school board to the end that the original sum asked for by said school board be granted."

The result of the hand vote was uncertain and so was the first request to stand. A second attempt at a standing vote showed 66 in favor and 47 against, although the first standing vote was evidently much closer if not indeed the other way.

Mr. Brady then spoke a word for the laboring classes, saying that our best schools had been brought about by working and fighting for them just as they were fighting to-night. Some people he said were ready to throw down this system, and he challenged them to show a better one. Some people are in favor of educating the laboring classes simply that they may make better servants. He wanted the humblest child to have every opportunity for education.

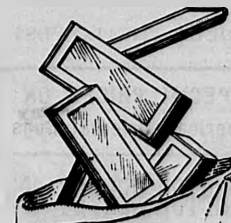

Mr. Frederick A. Ward asked if any one wanted the children to walk by a nice school house like the Clafin, and walk 3-4 of a mile further. He believed it better that Mr. Carr should do the walking, instead of the children.

A lady whose name could not be learned also criticized the increased size of the class under the consolidation, believing it would affect the individual instruction.

Mr. Norton said that while Newton paid the lowest amount per $1000 valuation in the state except Boston, it had a high cost per pupil for education, and this was due to the larger number in the High School. Our schools compare favorably with others because smaller classes give fine results. He was surprised to hear so many of the school committee defending the aldermen's action, and thought if they had had any backbone, they would have compelled the aldermen to grant the full appropriation.

Mr. Tucker defended the school committee's back bone, saying that for many years it had asked the aldermen for large sums, and had never during his membership, been cut down. The aldermen now have a serious problem in the loss of $70,000 income and if we haven't got the money we cannot spend it. The committee had fought for its estimates and are lucky to be cut down only $5000. He believed that the aldermen had done the most tactful thing under all the circumstances.

The meeting adjourned at 10:15 o'clock.

In selecting furs about which your personal knowledge is necessarily limited it is always safest to purchase from a responsible dealer who has a reputation earned by years of testing to maintain, and who does not desire and cannot afford to treat you unfairly.

For nearly fifty years we have been established in Boston as manufacturers of High Grade Furs, collecting the skins from all over the world and making them into every conceivable kind of fur attire.

This long experience in satisfying the needs of the most discriminating persons, has taught us how to give the largest possible value for every dollar expended with us.

All of our garments are fashioned after the latest Paris and London styles and are guaranteed in every respect to give perfect satisfaction, and to be superior to other fur garments when price, quality and workmanship are considered.

This is why shrewd buyers prefer to deal with a long established house whose entire business is centered in one location and whose workrooms are always open to inspection.

All we ask is for you to call and then decide where to purchase.

Addresses Made Last Week at Newtonville

At the meeting held last week Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. George F. Lowell on Walnut street, Newtonville, of the Newton members of the American Peace Society and their friends, the following addresses were made by Judge Robert J. Raymond of the Superior Court, Rev. William E. Huntington, president of Boston University, Rev. George T. Smart, D.D., pastor of the Newton Highlands Congregational church, and Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, of Newton Highlands, secretary of the national society.

Judge Raymond

Judge Raymond, who was introduced as a newcomer to Newton, expressed his gratification at the opportunity to meet the people of Newton under the chaperonage of so eminent a body as the American Peace Society. He spoke particularly of the principles upon which the society is founded, and of the opportunities to which the nation might well apply its resources now so largely devoted to war preparation. He said in part:

As I understand it, the principles which lie at the base of community life, courtesy and good will, justice and fair play, mutual regard and accommodation—neighborliness. In a word, this society believes should extend also to the life and relations of states and nations in national community with each other. Because I am in hearty accord with this fundamental principle of their organization and because I am profoundly convinced that the well being of humanity depends in large measure on the general acceptance of this principle, I am ready to join my voice with theirs in advocacy of international peace and in the effort to promote international good will as a sure road to security.

Coming into a new community I am vitally interested in the question, How shall I live at peace with my neighbors? I believe as I look back at history, that there are two policies either of which I may pursue to secure that end. I may treat my neighbors with courtesy and good will, and justice and fair play, and this alone you will say is the sure way to live at peace with ones neighbors. But the man who goes about boasting that he is a trained pugilist ready to repel every approach or attack, finds just about what he seeks. He has his hands full of conflicts and contentions and frequently meets with bloodshed, usually getting just about what he deserves. Such a man was our friend from Tipperary who went to a wedding. He was shown to an upper room to lay aside his hat and coat, and very soon sounds of a vigorous scuffle were heard upstairs, and a little later our friend came down stairs head over heels and much the worse for wear. "What is the matter?" he was asked. "Nothing," said he; "but I found a broth of a boy in the room above and I said 'Who are you,' and he said 'I am the best man,' and begorra he were."

Men go about looking for the best man, and with the idea of showing that they are the better, and they ordinarily have their hands full of contention. It is the man of the kindly spirit and the good will and the outstretched hand of helpfulness and accommodation that goes through life at peace with his neighbors and it does not take any argument to show that. But we have a number of politicians who may be called statesmen who say that in international affairs this policy must be reversed if you would live at peace. If you would live in safety with your neighbor nations keep up great armaments, build a great navy, multiply the men in your army, and send your bluejackets around the world in battleships, and boast of your fighting strength. They give us the old maxim which has been heard a great many times, "In time of peace prepare for war," and as I understand it the American Peace Society takes issue with them squarely on that maxim. If you want war, then in time of peace prepare for war, and you are pretty likely to get what you want. Generate the war spirit in the press, in the pulpit, on the platform, in the schools. Teach it to your children and beget a spirit of conflict, for this is the essential preparation for war,—the spirit. Carry a chip on your shoulder and somebody is pretty sure to knock it off. It is the inevitable way to bring on war.

But war with whom? With whom shall we prepare to fight in our time of profound peace? With the people with whom we have business? with our customers? for do we not trade with all the world? Is it likely to increase our trade that we send some of our battleships to shoot down the citizens and burn the villages and impoverish the people who buy our goods and trade with us? Shall we prepare for war with some of the sister states in the great family of nations, and which one? Not with England, France, and Russia, in Europe, nor with China and Japan in Asia. But they are our friends, some of them long tried and true, and we are their friends recognized and gratefully honored for our friendship. England, our mother nation; our civilization is English. The blood that flows in our veins, our institutions, our law, our literature, are English. The best that goes to make up American life is English. She is our mother, our friend, more loving, more cherished to-night than ever in the past. (Applause.) Shall we fight with England? Some of us have spent weeks in English homes, and know the truth and fealty of English hearts. Some of us have stood in great English churches, in the old abbey at Westminster and been thrilled as we thought of the great men whose dust repose there. Our great heroes, as much as theirs.

Shall we fight France? There was a time in our poverty and distress and sore need when France stood by us, and we know not tonight whether we would be a people among the peoples of the earth were it not for their timely help. Shall we fight Germany? Ties of trade, of education, and of friendship bind us ever closer to the German people. But Russia! There are men in this presence who remember the days of 1861 to 1865, when almost every nation in Europe was hostile, and seemed about to throw their influence with the disrupting forces of the South. The voice of Russia rang clear and true and strong for our nationality at that time, and Russia to-day in the travail of her great struggle to bring forth freedom,—the freedom that Tolstol has tolled and written and sacrificed and prayed for,—shall we fight Russia, our historic and true friend Russia? When she looks across the sea for sympathy in her struggle, shall we send hostile fleets and hatred and bayonets and bullets, or shall we send gratitude and good will and prayers for the future of great free Russia?

But look into Asia at China and Japan. They are our friends. They are opening their ports and extending favor to us as to no other people. They are stretching out their hands to America for help in the great upward climb which they are just now beginning. We have no ancient and historic enmities. We are at peace with all mankind. Why should we prepare for war with any? Let us suggest an amendment to that unreasonable phrase, and instead of "In time of peace, prepare for war," let us substitute, "In time of peace, prepare for peace." Let us excel in occupations of peace, agriculture, and manufactures, and trade and commerce, and education and religion, and the things that make for the uplifting and the strengthening of the nobler life of mankind. Let us honor the heroes of peace, not to withhold the monument from the brave soldier or sailor, but of the heroes of peace, let us sound their praises in the ears of our children until they see that there is something better even than the glitter and the tinsel of the soldier and the sailor. Is it a fact as these friends of peace tell us, that two-thirds of Uncle Sam's income goes to the maintenance of war, preparations for the future and taking care of the results of past struggles? And is it a fact as they tell us that it costs to shoot a single projectile in these days of modern gunnery as much as the expense of a four-years' course in college? Then I take it that there may be income in ordinary channels of war that could be diverted into the channels of peace and we could beautify our cities, we could irrigate our vast arid fields in the West, we could train up a better citizenship, and we could build up a sentiment of friendship and good will for all people on the earth that should be a better defense to us than forts or arsenals, than navy or cannon. (Applause.)

Rev. William E. Huntington

I am for peace—if I have to fight for it. I did have to once before I went to college—I had to go through two campaigns in our Civil War. The fire burned in my bones, the fire of war as the fire of peace burns there tonight, for a dire necessity was upon us. I do not suppose any but those who lived through that period, 'sixty-one to 'sixty-five, can realize how the depths of our souls were stirred by the great movement, the conscientious South on the one side and the loyal North on the other. My father pled, and my mother prayed with me, that I might not go, but I would go and I do not lay it to any deep patriotism in my boyish heart, but to the esprit de corps throughout my neighborhood. Any one who has been through any form of war will echo the sentiment of Gen. Sherman as to the essence of war. I saw enough of it and I saw rather the milder phases of our Civil War. So I am for peace, and I hope we shall never have to fight for our peace again on these shores.

I am for peace, first, because of the enormous waste of war. Think what it costs Germany. I suppose Germany may be taken as a typical nation among European states as a warlike people who have reduced war to a science, who know every foot of ground that their armies might trample upon in Europe, tramped out no doubt and kept in the archives at Berlin as Von Moltke did before the Prussian War. If it costs but $100 or 400 marks to keep a soldier one year in the ranks of the German army, what does it cost to keep 500,000 on foot? It disorganizes labor. Germany ought to be compacted into a producing nation. And this militarism which is so rife in Europe, breeds also barbarisms which ought to be extinct. While a student in one of the German universities, I found the impression prevailing that young men would not be equipped in their manhood until they had fought a duel and were wont they call honorable scars. Because Bismarck when a student there had fought duels, so these young men had to be like Bismarck. Thus are the barbaric customs kept alive, as is also the military power which is so debasing in its influence. We want none of it.

The Divine Hand has marked out

our continent in such shape that it presents by its very contour a rampart against war. The tumultuous seas on either hand are the great dikes which I think no enemy in our time or in the future will attempt to traverse. Our continent is so built and so situated, isolated from the rest of the world, that the defenses are natural and we do not need these vast armaments, Theodore Roosevelt to the contrary notwithstanding. (Applause.)

We have commercial interests that lock us with every nation of the globe. I know this is rather a low argument appealing to the getting of gain. But we have an enormous product in America, our mines, our fields, our producing powers are enormous and we need the world as a market place. We have become a world power. We have been thrown into the great family of nations in such a way that we cannot turn aside from the fact that our nation must be a commercial power doing business with the whole world and not simply in material things. From our institution young people have gone out, to Japan, and they love those Japanese people to whom they now minister as they do the Americans. We have representatives in China, of whom one has reached imperial rank. So in India we have representatives who have gone out from our institution and they stand as representatives of American ideas and civilization. So also in Africa and the island of the sea we have representatives of our institution doing work for America and for truth. So for this great interchange of ideas we need peace. We have all been stirred of late by the great laymen's movement in Boston, the extent of which we are yet unable to see. What would happen to this desire to do good to those who sit in darkness, what would happen to those engaged in this work at home and abroad, if we should engage in wars and the paralyzing efforts that look toward the millennium and promise great things for building up the kingdom of truth in all the world.

So I say for all these reasons there should be conditions of peace established for the proper intercourse of all world powers with the sister nations of the earth.

Rev. George T. Smart, D.D.

I think the hostess had a good deal of courage to invite me to speak here this evening apparently unmindful of the fact that the people of my nation have been tramping with a warlike spirit up and down Great Britain since the year 55 B.C. and that does not like it. I think the people who had been tramping up and down that country a great many years before that time. I do think, however, as a man belonging to the English nation I have a right to say something to take away the impressions that people do seem to have of the nation from which I come. The greatest American humorist says, speaking of Americans,—Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth. Let me tell you a story in reference to the Scotch people which I think is rather appropriate to this occasion and the purpose I have in mind. A certain Scotchman had not been very regular in his attendance at church, and the minister seeking him out desired to know why he had been so irregular. "Well," said he, "for a few weeks past I have been trying to think my own soul." Ladies and gentlemen, the people who have been trying to attend to the peace of the world have not been doing it very well, and I think it is about time for some of us plainer citizens to do a little thinking and see if it is not possible to reach better conclusions than those which have been reached after the expenditure of such large sums of money and a large amount of human endurance.

The worldly minded have ever deemed the earnest and reformatory spirit a fair subject for the shafts of ridicule. I remember, for instance, Ben Johnson's laughable caricature of the Puritan Reformer in Bartholomew Fair where the dramatist describes Zeal-of-the-Land-Busy as attempting to get around his puritan conscience and go to the Fair, and even eat Roast Pig so long as it be with a reformed mouth. Yet the strange humor of the Puritan was more than equalled by the merriment of the gallants and cavaliers. The Reformer is bound to be in earnest, dreadfully in earnest, for to indict his age is a big task and allows few unbecoming moments. But the worldly minded do not own all the "cakes and ale." It is supposed that people who are morally in earnest cannot see any fun in life. I call attention to the fact that over and over again the men who have been morally in earnest are the greatest humorists in the world, and many of the great reforms have come to pass on account of satire and humor. The English church certainly was cleansed and purified as the result of the delicate rillery of Chaucer in his poems. Voltaire reformed Europe by laughter in many of its foolish customs and conventions. Addison was a moral force second to none save Wesley and Swift, in the eighteenth century, and he purified society by laughter. We all remember the surging and sweeping humor of Carlyle and how it stimulated men to enquire into the wretchedness of trade; and how Ruskin had much of the same spirit in regard to art, and to come to our own time, how George Bernard Shaw carries on the tradition in socialistic politics, and against the dominant note of imperialism.

It will not do for the men uninterested in moral movements, therefore, to say that reformers are too portentously serious, and that they have none of the elasticity of disposition that makes men reach their ends easily. It will hardly do to say they are too stubborn in their morality and righteous overmuch. The fact is, that the men who oppose reform are much more obstinate and unyielding in their attitude, often never having fairly considered the fundamentals of the question at issue; but taking a position delivered to them and keeping it. These solemn and obstinate follies appear to me to be most plainly evident in the military spirit. I do not know a region where men have persisted in unfruitful modes so long as here. I do not know anything that calls for tears so much,—or for shouts of laughter either,—that men such mortals are.

Just think for a moment of the philosophic position of the martial spirit, which is in brief this: Always be ready to repel offence. I grant that apparently we have moved on from the earlier generations of these philosophers who said, "Be ready to make offence," but the mischief is that readiness against offence often makes the offence. Mark, that offence is deemed universal. You are to be ready against infinite possibility. It is a nation against the world. You are to scan the horizon to watch for the cloud, and then you are to rush thither and dissipate it by show of power and noise, as the Chinese drive away the eclipse by beating drums. And your show of power is just as effective as the beating of the drums.

One moment we are ready against England, another we are to be ready against Germany who is sore about tariff, another we are to be ready against Japan. The philosophies of war find their absolute in the seven seas and five continents.

And what is the end these solemn observers have in mind? One is sovereignty. The power of words is never more seen than here. A nation grows weaker; then Germany is too strong to have a two-power navy. It is ridiculous. The balance of power is determined by the excess of morality, and not of instruments of war. The third end is a share in trade. Is it true? You go to war to keep the open door. And the minute you get inside the open door you slam it to keep other people out. That is what Japan did, what Germany does, and what any nation does so far as it is governed by the military spirit. It is bound to do this although it does not profess to do so.

Most of all do we laugh at the means these observers advise to prepare for these great ends. For instance is it not foolish to spend eight or nine million dollars on a battleship that will take three years to build and last ten years when it is built. If the acceleration goes on at the rate it has done probably it will not be worth anything at the end of six years. Is it not folly? There is a specimen of egregious folly that ought to be exhibited all over the world. But with all the endless treasure spent are we any safer than before? They say: encourage invention! and then one laughs at the follies of tradition. When men are led to slaughter in dense masses because they always have moved so,—have worn impossible clothing for the same reason,—have used impossible weapons,—and eaten impossible food. I think if an ordinary minister were to lead troops into battle,—fear, if nothing else would make him cast aside buttons and shiny swords, as marks for the enemy, and he would take advantage of cover.

And what is the result on character? Can we safely affirm that in periods when the nation is listening to the philosophers of war with acquiescence, that the nation is at its best? Why did Rome fall? Because it lost its blood for centuries. And what ages have been required to bring Italy again to her place in human society. The problems of peace are hard enough without the intersection of these present humors of war. Shall we not refuse to be led by blind leaders, but think with our own souls a little ourselves.

Rev. B. F. Trueblood

Doctor Trueblood quoted Judge Raymond's characterization of the friendly spirit which should prevail among nations, and found cause for encouragement and satisfaction in several recent acts of international significance which clearly mark advancement of the world-wide sentiment for universal peace. Continuing, he said:

After the Boxer uprising in China our government with others insisted upon the payment of an indemnity. The indemnity to our country was found to be about $11,000,000 more than was due to us for any damage that was done and instead of pocketing that money as nations usually do and have done in the past, our government arranged for the paying back of that whole eleven millions of dollars. And this has been a great deal to reconcile the Chinese people to the injustice which many of us think our government is doing to the Chinese by our exclusion laws.

A little while ago when some Germans, Austrians and Russians had deserted at Casablanca, they were arrested by the French gendarmes and imprisoned. The release of the three German soldiers was demanded. The French authorities claimed that they were acting strictly under international law. And the place was under military control. Instead of going to war at once over that trifling incident as they would have done 25 or 30 years ago, it was finally agreed, upon the proposal by Germany, to submit the matter to arbitration, both expressing regrets that violence had been committed, and both agreeing to make acknowledgment of the result reached by the court of arbitration. That is an evidence of the new spirit in the nations of Europe.

The other day the German Emperor saw fit to allow an interview to be published, which unintentionally had not passed through the hands of his chancellor. At once set all England to talking about the discourtesy of talking sides with their emperor,—the imperial chancellor, members of the Reichstag, the newspapers almost without exception, took their emperor at once to task for talking in that critical way, and the chancellor went so far as to say that the emperor was wholly mistaken in saying that the rank and file of the German people were hostile to Great Britain. Two or three of the parties in Parliament made the same declaration, and the result is that by this action of the German people, German press, and German parliament, the whole difficulty is quieting down, and the emperor is likely to be less heard from in international affairs than heretofore. This is another evidence of the new spirit that is prevailing among European people.

The agreement which has just been made between our own government and the Japanese government as to their relations on the Pacific and in the empire of China is one of the most important things that has happened in our day. It defines the attitude of the two governments toward the whole Pacific region and will probably make everybody happy in our country except perhaps Congressman Hobson who is determined at all hazards to have our country have a scrap with Japan before he gets through. Naval and military men have been saying that the journey of our fleet around the world has justified itself in proving that all the people visited were our friends. But the great fleet went out to convince our enemies on the other side of the world that we were armed and were waiting for them. If this fleet has found no enemies anywhere the logical thing for the President to do when the fleet comes home would be to quietly dismiss the most of it and have less fleet. That would be the logical thing if we have no enemies and these people are all our friends.

Doctor Trueblood said that in the several villages in the city of Newton there are 60 members of the American Peace Society and that outside of Boston, Newton has the largest membership of any city in New England. This meeting is the first of a series of neighborhood meetings which the Society intends to hold in various cities with a view to bringing the members who are resident in the same locality into closer touch with each other, and at the same time to advance the public interest in the work of the society and build up its membership. As an experiment the membership fee was reduced last —On Thursday of last week the St. Joseph Society, composed of 90 Lithuanians of this village, gave a social to their friends in the dancing pavilion of the Echo Bridge Boat House. The hall was tastefully decorated with red, white and blue bunting, interwoven with American flags, and an orchestra furnished music. This society meets every third Sunday in Arcanum hall on High street, and plan to have some noted Lithuanian speak to them at each meeting. They are now working to raise a sum of money to erect a church, and have their own spiritual adviser. The following is a list of officers: Longinus Borys, president; Kazimir Ejerskis, vice-president; Naclaw Stadnickas, treasurer; Joseph Savalonis, Kustoph Milianski, secretaries; Stanislaw Bakula, Joseph Washtauskas, trustees; Adam Miskinis, marshal.

LOGGES

Newton Council, 167, K. of C., has recently elected the following new officers: John F. Gallagher, G.K.; T. D. Murphy, D.G.K.; John H. Spelman, chancellor; John Eustis, recorder; Arthur B. Healy, fin. sec.; James A. Heenan, treas.; James P. Gallagher, advocate; Joseph Nevins, warden; Frank Grant, inside guard; Philip Kincaid, outside guard; Joseph J. Nolan, trustee; John F. Gallagher and Thomas M. Spelman, delegate to state convention; Edward H. Powers and M. J. Barry, alternates; M. J. Barry, delegate to Boston chapter.

—The annual election of the fourth degree assembly of Newton Council, 167, K. of C., took place Wednesday Dec. 2, in Dennison hall, Newtonville, when the following officers were chosen: Thomas M. Spelman, chairman; John F. Gallagher, rec. sec.; John J. Davis, inside sentinel; M. J. Barry, outside sentinel. A committee consisting of William H. Mague, George W. Linnehan and Thomas W. Mullen was appointed to arrange for the annual fourth degree banquet, which will take place next month.

NORTH CHURCH FAIR

At the North Evangelical church, Nonantum, Wednesday and Thursday Dec. 2-3, a fair was held, under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the parish. The tables and rooms were decorated with colored crepe paper and American flags. The domestic table was in charge of Mrs. James McPhoe and Mrs. William E. Frye; fancy table, Mrs. Samuel E. Lowry; Mrs. Reuben Forknall; Mrs. Henry E. Oxnard; bundle, Mrs. Edwin L. Frye and Mrs. Albert Frye; candy, Mrs. Edwin O. Childs, Jr., and Miss Beatrice Forknall; food, Miss Elsie Weldon; ice cream, Mrs. James Galway; Mrs. Burgess. The entertainment part of the fair consisted of a rose drill in charge of Mrs. Reuben Forknall and Mrs. H. E. Oxnard, piano solos by Mr. Leach; songs by Mrs. Leach and Miss Mary Audsley and other features. The fair was well patronized and a satisfactory sum was realized.

SCHOOLS AID IN CONSUMPTION FIGHT

Children Are Taught How to Prevent Disease

New York, Dec. 3.—As a result of the great campaign against tuberculosis now being carried on throughout the world, many of the public schools in the United States are taking a new departure in teaching to the children the nature, causes, dangers and prevention of consumption. A text-book entitled "Simple Lessons on Tuberculosis or Consumption" has just been placed in the seventh and eighth grades of the District of Columbia. The Massachusetts educational authorities, acting under a law of the Legislature of 1908, are establishing courses of instruction on tuberculosis in all of the schools of the State. In addition to these public movements many of the private organizations throughout the country have established, and are establishing, open-air schools for consumptive children, it being estimated that about two percent of the pupils in the larger city schools have tuberculosis.

The first public school for consumptive and pre-consumptive children to be established in the United States was opened in Providence, R. I., last January. The sessions were held entirely in the open, and the benefits of the fresh-air treatment were combined with the teaching and training of the public schools.

This experiment led to other movements, both public and private. The Brookline Anti-Tuberculosis Society opened a school for tuberculosis children in July which is still successfully conducted. In Boston a school for consumptives was opened under private auspices in July, it being the intention to keep it open for the summer months only, but so successful were the results of this work that the city school authorities recently decided to take over the work and set aside a permanent building for this purpose. In Pittsburg a similar school was opened in September, and the marked benefits which the children have already received from this training have led to its enlargement. The Board of Education of New York City has just granted a teacher to the Bellevue Hospital Day Camp for the purpose of conducting a school there, and a consumptive teacher has been secured to teach the consumptive children. This school will be conducted on the deck of an old ferryboat. In all of these schools the children are kept in the open air all day long. Most of the buildings used are opened on three sides and are so constructed as to furnish unlimited supplies of fresh air without draughts. Desks, blackboards and other paraphernalia are provided in these schools just the same as in the regular institutions. The children study and recite in the open air, even during the coldest weather, and the percentage of cures among them is far smaller than children in the ordinary public schools. In most of these fresh-air schools soapstones are provided for keeping the feet warm in cold weather.

In addition to these specially conducted schools several of the States have required that the important facts about tuberculosis be taught in the lower grades of the public institutions. Michigan was the first State to adopt measures of this kind. By an act of 1895, the public schools are required to give instruction on the nature of tuberculosis and other infectious diseases. In New Jersey progressive steps are being taken by teaching the children in the schools a set of aphorisms on consumption. In Massachusetts a section on the nature, dangers and prevention of consumption, is being inserted in all of the physiologies. In the District of Columbia a special text-book has been provided in which instruction is given concerning sleeping in the open air, the dangers of spitting, the way to prevent consumption, and other kindred topics. Dallas, Tex., is the latest city to adopt the method of teaching children about consumption in the schools, and within a few days a "Tuberculosis Primer" will be in the hands of every pupil in the public schools. In North Carolina a separate section on tuberculosis, placed in all the physiologies, is taught to all of the children. In Baltimore steps are being taken to carry on a systematic campaign of education among the school children by means of lectures and circulars. Many other cities of the country are following this plan. A petition has been sent to the Governor of South Carolina requesting that a text-book on tuberculosis, similar to that used in Washington, be placed in the public schools. Several of the other States are also taking steps along similar lines.

This movement for the popular education of school children on the causes and dangers of consumption is receiving a great impetus, and experts on this subject conclude that within five years the majority of children in the United States will be taught concerning the evils and dangers of tuberculosis before they leave the lower grades of the public schools.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—The announcement of the closing of the Boston Theatre Stock Company season at the Boston Theatre has been the sensation of the week in amusement circles, for there has been no more popular organization in Boston in recent years. Mr. Keith has other plans to announce, but for the last week there will be presented a production that will be a fitting end for a remarkable season of stock. The productions given by Mr. Keith have been of the most elaborate kind, and it is predicted that "The Walls of Jericho" will outdo any of the others. The leading character will be taken by Wilson Melrose who will appear as Jack Froisher, who has made a fortune in Australia and comes to London and marries Lady Althea. It is one of those conventional marriages and the robust Australian, unused to the ways of London society, is blind to the actions of his wife. Of course, matters reach such a point where the truth comes out and it is here that the manliness of Froisher shows itself and the flirtatious wife is made to see her error.

Keith's Theatre—The week of December 14th at Keith's Theatre, promises to be a red-letter one, for many reasons. First of all, it will mark the appearance of Irene Franklin in Boston with a series of new songs that have been creating a furore in every place she has appeared. Miss Franklin is a character comedienne—grotesque at times, but she makes her changes much more rapidly than any which have preceded her. On the same bill will be Jesse Lasky's biggest, and by all means, best production, "At The Country Club," which will be seen in Boston for the first time, presented by a large company. It is one of these acts that have to be seen, as no description could possibly do justice to it. Also on the bill this week will be Stuart Barnes, the monologist; the Elia Norton Troupe with their circus; the Three Leightons, a remarkable company of comedians; Lisle, Lotta and Company in a dramatic sketch; the famous Dillon Brothers, song writers and humorists; Franco Piper, the banjo expert and juggler, who remains over for another week; Oscar Lorraine and the special Keith show.

Orpheum Theatre—Another week of record breaking attendance at the Orpheum Theatre is promised for next week because of Maude Odell, the famous English artist's model. Miss Odell is acknowledged by authorities to be the most perfectly formed woman in the world, and she appears in an interesting sketch in which she gives various artistic poses, in which she reveals much of her personal charms. The surrounding bill is unusual for its novelties. Francesca Redding and company present a new comedy sketch, and Harry Thompson, Mayor of the Bowery, with Burns and Burns, grotesque trapezists, furnish a lot of real comedy. Gerlie Leclair and her pickaninnies give life and color to the bill and Mabel McKinley, niece of President McKinley, sings her own compositions, while May and Lilly with a musical novelty and three other unusual acts complete the bill. Maude Odell, headline feature of the bill, has agreed to pose for the benefit of artists and art students at a private exhibition in one of the Boston schools of art during her engagement here. This is an unusual thing in the art world, for rarely do art students get the opportunity to witness what is acknowledged to be the most perfect female form in the world.

Boston Grand Opera House—Aubrey Mittenhall's elaborate production of Langdon McCormick's powerful thriller-drama, "The Life of an Actress," which was one of last season's biggest successes, will be the attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. The play deals with theatrical life in all its phases, and for that reason appeals to all theatre-goers. The many opportunities for scenic display have been taken full advantage of by the scenic painter. The play is replete with sensational scenes, the blowing up of the Bell River Logging Camp and the saw mill in operation, where some of the most exciting incidents of the play take place, being among them. Matinees will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at which special prices for children will prevail.

UNITARIAN CLUB

The December meeting of the Unitarian Club will be held next Thursday evening at the Unitarian church, West Newton. An illustrated lecture will be given at 8 P. M. on "Italian Gardens," by Mr. Thomas A. Fox of Boston. Mr. Fox is an architect of high standing and is a gifted speaker, presenting most attractively the results of observation in the course of extensive journeys in Italy. The lecture is open to the public.

Those Newton People who have books on their list of wants for the holidays (and who has not?) will do well when visiting Boston to go direct to Lauriat's, thus saving time, worry and money. Their handsome store, opposite Franklin street, is so filled with choice books for young and old that it hardly seems possible not to be able to find something to suit every taste—and the best of it is the prices are as low as anywhere.

A SPLENDID PROGRAM

The following program, representing some of the world's greatest military bands and orchestras, will be played by Professor Krumpeln, the blind organist, next Wednesday afternoon at half past four, in the Eliot church, Newton: Mendelssohn's War-march (The Royal Guards' Band); The Lost Chord; Handel's Largo; Overture to William Tell (King Edward's private band, the Grenadier Guards); Military March (The Belgian Guides); Gondolier's song (Venetian Orchestra); Pilgrim's Chorus, and March Realistic (Berlin Meister Orchestra). The recital is open to the public, with no charge for admission.

Geneva Water is highly recommended as a preventative of Rheumatism.

N. H. S.

Last week the Preparatory League withdrew from the New England Skating Association which has controlled the hockey teams of the league to date. After this the Preparatory League, of which Newton is a member, will govern hockey by the same rules which have governed baseball, football and track. This action will undoubtedly do away with all discontent which has been shown by the different members of the league over the rulings of the New England Skating Association.

Tuesday the hockey team reported for practice to Capt. Scott Slocum in the drill hall. Of last year's team only Capt. Slocum has returned, but he expects to have a strong team and to win the championship of the Preparatory League. There was a squad of twenty-five men out for the first practice, but some more are expected soon. They expect to get on the ice within a short time. Manager Gill has made up a strong list of games, which will be announced within the next few days.

Wednesday morning at the beginning of school, exercises were held in memory of John Milton, the great English poet. Mr. Adams gave a brief account of his life. Mr. Thomas, head of the English Department, then spoke on the works and character of John Milton. The closing exercise was a sonnet on blindness, given by Miss Pratt.

The SUPERIOR MERIT OF THE DUNNING SYSTEM is attested by the fact that it is the ONLY SYSTEM for teaching CHILDREN AND BEGINNERS which has been ENDORSED BY THE GREATEST MUSICIANS of Europe and America
It is the best system for teaching the fundamental principles of music which has come to my knowledge and is extremely ingenious.

WHAT IS A PERFECT HOME?

A home is perfect, in every sense of the word, when it completely blends with the tastes of its occupants. To be sure, most everyone has different tastes as to the style of architecture, the location, outlook, convenience to thoroughfare, etc., but at the present time I have had turned over to me to dispose of at a great sacrifice an ideal house which a Southerner started to build and has had to abandon on account of illness. In the fairest section of the Newtons, restful views and everything to make one contented. Shown by appointment.

TO LET

Since last issue have leased the cement suite and three houses advertised at $500 each, but still have a list of sixty-five houses and suites from $12 to $150 per month. See my list.

LARGER CARS.

The Boston Elevated Company has just inaugurated a better service in its Newton-Brighton line of electric cars to Boston which adds immensely to the accommodations given the traveling public.

The new semi-convertible cars are gigantic in both size and weight compared with the type of cars that have been run over the lines heretofore. The new cars are forty-five feet in length seat 52 passengers and weigh 28 tons each. The ordinary type of car operated by the company is 35 feet in length, seats 34 passengers and weighs but 12½ tons.

The cars are equipped with sliding doors and a folding step. These are both closed when the car is in motion. When a stop is made the door is opened and the step lowered into position for use by the motorman who throws a lever that operates a compressed air mechanism. The cars are equipped with powerful air brakes. The motorman is separated from the passengers in the car by a cab in which he cannot be disturbed in his duties. The doors and steps are wide enough so that two passengers can enter or leave the car abreast or so that one may board the car while another is leaving it. The cars are brilliantly lighted and are provided with the latest devices for heat and ventilation.

In order to allow these larger cars to pass each other safely on the curves of the track, it was necessary to widen the rails at a few points on Tremont, Park and Washington streets. The work was hastened on account of the lateness of the season, as snow or frost would have probably postponed the service until spring, and also that the public might have the additional service during the rush of Christmas business. In order to do this, permission was obtained from the Mayor to make the changes, prior to the purely formal act of the aldermen in passing the order for re-location.

These cars, of which about 17 are in daily service give additional seating accommodations to nearly 6000 persons in the course of a day. A service which has been very much needed in the past.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Bart.

The Anburndale Review Club met at the home of Mrs. E. B. Haskell, Tuesday morning to continue the study of South America. Papers were read by the following members: Mrs. Raymond L. Bridgman, Peru (political); Miss Margaret Haskell, Peru (social); Mrs. Henry A. Thorndike, Bolivia; Mrs. C. W. H. Strongman, Uganda; Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela, Panama.

The next meeting of the club, December 29, promises to be one of especial interest to the public generally, as Mr. Raymond L. Bridgman is to speak on the "Political status after the election." This lecture will be given in the chapel of the Congregational church, and non-members, gentlemen as well as ladies, will be admitted on the payment of a small fee.

The Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands has recently presented to the Newton City Home a framed water-color, the work of Mrs. Robert E. Clark, a former member of the club. It is hung in the sitting-room for women and is being much enjoyed by them.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands at its meeting on Dec. 14 had two papers upon the discoveries and inventions of the period of 1648-1789, which they are studying this year. There will be no other meeting of the club until Dec. 28.

Mrs. J. W. McIntyre gave the paper on "The Health of the City" at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. The essayist considered the topic from the standpoint of the things which contribute to the health of the community, the water supply and the disposal of the waste, including the various methods employed for conducting away the waste through means of sewers and the final disposition made of the sewage matter. The paper was the result of a great amount of investigation and research. In early times much more attention was paid to the water supply, but during the Middle Ages all this knowledge seems to have been forgotten or overlooked for fifth seems to have run riot. Paris is still using one of the old Roman aqueducts. Mrs. McIntyre went into detail in regard to the Metropolitan system that supplies Boston and adjacent places and described fully the source and construction of the Newton supply. She also went into much detail as regards the disposal of waste, both in the Metropolitan district and also in Newton. The discussion brought out many additional facts which were of interest.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club held its regular meeting on Dec. 17. Mr. Thomas Weston, Jr., gave a paper "The Juvenile Court." Mr. Weston told of the work of Judge Lindsay of Denver and of the work done by the Boston Juvenile Court under Judge Baker, touching also upon conditions in Newton. Discussion followed the paper in which several of the members took part.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Charles D. Meserve, one of the club members, presented a paper upon "Colonial Customs." It is one of the habits of this club to have at the meeting nearest Forefather's Day some subject appropriate to the season. Mrs. Meserve's paper was both suggestive and timely. Many of the ladies came dressed in Colonial costume and a number of living pictures illustrating Colonial days were shown. An orchestra of young ladies under the direction of Mrs. Albert P. Carter furnished music, while Miss Elizabeth Upham rendered "America" at the close. Tea was served by the social committee, the addition of election cake and cider to usual refreshments added another appropriate touch. The next meeting of the club will not occur until January 5.

There will be no meeting of the Social Science Club next week.

A large audience was present at the regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Tuesday, December 8, at 2.30 P. M.

The president, Mrs. Alvin H. Clifford presided. Mrs. Walter Beedle, chairman of the Social Science committee introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Prof. Charles Zueblin, who clearly and forcefully presented the subject, "Democracy and Culture." The important vital questions of the day were touched upon and the definition of broad democratic "Culture" as "The habit of mind, instinct with purpose, cognizant of a tendency and connection in human achievement, able and industrious in discerning the great from the trivial," gave a new insight into the best things attainable. Tea was served by Mrs. Wallace I. Lamson, chairman and her efficient committee. The musical program was furnished by Miss Enneking, violinist and Miss Whit, soloist. Mrs. Everett S. Jones chairman.

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT

Because of the increased membership of the Waban Woman's Club, it was found advisable to hold the illustrated lecture, which formed the principal feature of "Gentlemen's Night," at the Church of the Good Shepherd instead of at a private house. This lecture given by Mr. Dillon Wallace of New York was entitled "Beyond the Mexican Sierras" and dealt with the interesting country of western Mexico seldom visited by tourists, because of its inaccessibility. By the use of some fine slides, shown for the first time. Mr. Wallace gave his audience a clear idea of the primitive life and customs which still exist in that part of our continent.

At the close of the lecture all adjourned to the home of Mrs. William H. Gould.

The club members and guests were here received by the president, Mrs. Josephine K. Crain, the vice-president, Mrs. Minnie B. Burnett, and Mrs. Gould.

Supper was served and the remainder of the evening passed in general sociability.

NEWTON CLUB TO REORGANIZE

The Newton Club which closed its doors a few months ago is to be reorganized in the near future. Indeed, the committee in charge hopes to begin the New Year with open doors. For some weeks committees have been at work in all the villages of Newton securing pledges, and at the meeting held last Saturday evening, reports were received that over 100 gentlemen had signed the membership list, so that the club will start with a full list and a small waiting list, as the membership will be limited to 100.

The reorganizers intend to make the new club a centre for those interested in general city affairs as distinguished from purely local or village matters. It hopes to continue the good work the former club has done in cementing the different parts of the city into a civic whole, with interests in the work of the city, the state and the nation.

The next meeting, which will probably be held next week, will undoubtedly put the matter in more definite shape.

DETHIER RECITAL

The first of the series of special organ recitals was given at Eliot church last evening and was largely attended. Mr. Gaston Dethier, organist of St. Francis Xavier church, New York, was the organist, and his artistic program was as follows:

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

May I be permitted to trespass upon your space sufficiently to comment on the recent address at Newton on Anti-vaccination? Ordinarily one does not trouble to notice these vagaries of otherwise supposedly worthy persons, but in such a case as this so much harm may be inflicted upon innocent persons who may be influenced by their plausible statements that it cannot be passed over in silence.

In the first place, no one who knows, believes that vaccination absolutely protects a person from small pox. It would be absurd to make any such claim, when even the disease itself does not always confer such protection. We do believe, yes we know, in so far as it is possible to say that we know anything, that proper vaccination and revaccination does reduce the liability of a community to an outbreak of smallpox.

The Royal Commission on Vaccination in its report, made in 1896, found that vaccination diminishes the liability to be attacked by small pox; that it modifies the character of the disease and renders it less fatal and of a milder and less severe type; that the duration of the protection cannot be fixed with precision, but may be set at nine or ten years; and that the protection is greatest where the vaccination has been most thorough; that the power to modify the disease does not diminish as rapidly as its protective influence against attacks and its efficiency during the later periods of life . . . is still considerable: that revaccination restores the protective power . . . and to insure the highest degree of protection, should be repeated at intervals.

In Germany where vaccination and revaccination is most thorough the figures are very instructive. In 1872 the mortality from small pox in Prussia was 262 per 100,000. In 1874, vaccination and revaccination were made compulsory and the mortality almost immediately fell to 3.60 per 100,000, and in 1886 it was only 0.39. In 1891 there were but 40 deaths from small pox throughout the whole German Empire.

In the address referred to the speaker says that the antivaccinators only ask for liberty to exercise their own judgment. If they were the only persons who would be harmed by so doing we would gladly let them have their wish; they would soon disappear from the face of the earth, but unfortunately their example would lead others to follow in their footsteps and we should have an increasing number of unvaccinated persons who would require care when their inevitable fate overtook them. Moreover it is a praiseworthy act to prevent a man from doing harm to himself. In certain communities attempted suicide is a crime and failure to protect one self against a fatal disease is certainly constructive suicide.

I freely admit that more vaccinated persons contract small pox than do unvaccinated, but the reason is very simple: the vaccinated persons outnumber the unvaccinated; but when we look at the mortality the figures change.

Out of a total of 2815 cases of small pox treated during five years, 2308 had been vaccinated at least once and of this number 288, or 12.4 per cent. died, while out of 512 unvaccinated persons 325 or 63.5 per cent. were fatal cases.

My own experience with small pox has been very slight but such as it is it has confirmed my belief in the protection of vaccination.

In the outbreak in Newton in 1901-2 I personally saw and handled every case of small pox which occurred and was in the small pox hospital frequently; but neither I, nor the other physicians who saw the cases, nor the nurses who took care of them, developed small pox, although the only protective measure was revaccination. On the other hand the two physicians referred to in the address, who do not believe in the protective power of revaccination, both developed the disease, although the exposure was much less than in the other instances.

As to the two gentlemen themselves, each one had been vaccinated at least once, and it was to this that they owed the mildness of their attacks. Of the nurses, one at least to my certain knowledge had been vaccinated. So much for the facts in regard to that episode.

Further examples of the protective power of a recent vaccination may be shown in the case of one family of seven persons where small pox had existed for some time before it was discovered. When the house was visited five members were found ill or convalescing from small pox, and two free from infection nor did they afterwards develop the disease. The five had never been vaccinated, while the two who remained well had had a successful revaccination a few months previous. In another family who had all had the same exposure, only one took the disease: this was the only unvaccinated member of the family.

Vaccination properly performed on a proper subject is harmless and leaves no ill effects.

Vaccino-syphilis, the great bug bear of the time when arm to arm vaccination was in vogue, is no longer a danger to be feared, and with the care now exercised in selecting the animals which furnish the vaccine the fear of other diseases may be put aside.

The accidents of vaccination are due to lack of proper care in performing the operation. The removal of a splinter from the finger if carelessly done, may cause the loss of an arm or even life, yet no one ever thinks of putting the blame upon the operation of removing the splinter: it is put upon the careless surgeon where it belongs. So, in vaccination, if there is an accident the blame should be put on the vaccinator who used an unclean instrument or failed to clean the skin properly. As much care should be exercised in performing a vaccination as in doing a laparotomy: in fact there should be more care, for if a patient succumbs after a laparotomy no one thinks of condemning the operation itself, but if a child who has been vaccinated so much as develops vaccinia the fact is used as an argument against all vaccination. In conclusion the harmless operation of vaccination offers the best method of protection against smallpox which medical science has discovered up to the present time, and it is almost incredible that any one can be found who will deny the admitted facts, but there are those of whom it is truly written: though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar . . . yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Joseph H. Wheelock.

By Rev. G. G. Washburn of Everett, Mass.

I have noted with interest the brief report of the recent funeral of the late Mrs. Joseph H. Wheelock of Washington street, Newton, in the Newton Graphic. But as Mrs. Wheelock was in some ways a remarkable woman with a large circle of friends in Grace church (of which for over twenty-five years she was a useful and consistent member) and as she was beloved and respected by many friends and relatives outside, I offer for your paper a fuller sketch of her useful life.

Mrs. Wheelock was a woman of uncommon force and beauty of character, a universal favorite. Her maiden name was Emily Pond Coolidge—She came of old New England stock; her father the late Joseph Coolidge of West Medway was a man of integrity and piety. Her mother Emily Pond was one of a large family of daughters who like their father were readers and school teachers. She came from the Pond family which contributed Rev. Enoch Pond D. D. to Bangor Theological Seminary and Handel Pond to the musical world. And which has been prominent for generations in Eastern New England.

Mrs. Wheelock was herself a woman of noble appearance, of unusual taste and refinement, quite an artist in dress—with the culture that comes from foreign travel. She had large executive and business ability shown in the management of her spacious home, in her husband's prolonged absences in the wool business, in which he was very successful. The ladies of Grace church recognized her business ability and made her Treasurer of their Benevolent Missionary Society in which for years she had charge of the purchases.

She was a woman of courage and good cheer. In bereavement and trial a way of practical help to all around her. She was genial and sympathetic, a true friend, a wise counsellor. Her hospitality was generous and cordial to her friends and relatives—who loved her devotedly, and will miss her sadly. She was a good wife and mother—Her only child—a boy, dying while they were still in their Woonsocket, R. I. home. She was a sincere and reverent Christian, and when health permitted, constant in her attendance on the Sanctuary. She was practical and considerate in her charities, and so unostentatious about them, that few knew their extent.

Mrs. Wheelock died of quick diabetes—so rapid—that few knew of her illness (ill) called to the funeral—She was about the house on Friday, saw her friends on Sunday, unconscious Monday, died Tuesday, and was buried Friday the 27th of November, Thanksgiving week.

By a kind providence—after a long absence in England, Mr. Wheelock was at home when the bereavement came. With her, by her request the beautiful spot in Newton cemetery was selected as her last resting place. He was able to minister to her when she was stricken, and hear her last words.

A large number of friends and relatives filled the home on Washington street, which she had adorned with things of beauty, floral tributes rich and abundant testified to the love and esteem which she commanded.

Her Pastor, the Rev. L. McClure, D. D. Rector of Grace church read with feeling, besides the familiar service, the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee." A favorite cousin, Rev. G. G. Washburn of the Courtland street church, Everett, paid a simple tribute to her memory. The Rev. S. K. Dyke of the Baptist church, Milford, offered a prayer of sympathy.

Mrs. Wheelock is survived by her husband—a successful wool factor—At times one of the wardens of Grace church—and by her sister, Mrs. May Young, who with an only daughter lives in West Medway. They will have the especial sympathy of the many friends and relatives—who knew the rare worth and loveliness of Mrs. Wheelock.

BRAMAN—At Bangor, Me., Dec. 14th suddenly, Mrs. Carrie Pearl, wife of Mr. Jas. T. Braman of Auburndale.

The mad dog episode in West Newton this week cannot but call attention to the extremely lax observance of the muzzling law in this city. Both citizens and the police are to blame for the conditions, and I earnestly hope that the scare of this week will show both the officials and dog owners that the law should be carefully carried out in spirit as well as letter.
With the strong evidence that the strap muzzles are worthless as a measure of protection, and the equani-mity with which the police view dogs so harnessed, it is evident that it will take an aroused public opinion to make the law effective. When one stops to consider that there are nearly 7,000 children on our streets from two to four times a day, many of them absolutely helpless, in any such affair
as happened in West Newton, parents may well insist that ALL dogs be properly muzzled.

It is good news to learn this week that the Newton Club is to be reopened. The value of this organization in the past in bringing together
the best men from all over the city, and which resulted in making Newton a municipality, instead of a collection of villages, is recognized by every one who knows and loves our city.

The additional accommodations given by the Boston Elevated Company in the new and larger cars just put into use, together with the present unfavorable weather conditions, fully justify the efforts of those who induced the city authorities to cut a little red tape in hastening along the good work.

READ FUND LECTURES

The trustees of the Read Fund have tried each year to make the lecture course in the Bigelow school hall a direct contribution to the educational forces in the community. With this end in view they have offered lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and Zoology, with the results of large attendance and interested audiences. The demand for tickets from high school teachers and scholars has been most encouraging.

This winter the course is to be on Geography. This is a subject which can be made most interesting if treated in a broad way. There are few people who know how to make it more entertaining than Professor Elizabeth F. Fisher of Wellesley College, and the trustees consider themselves and the public very fortunate that Professor Fisher has been secured to give five lectures on Geography, illustrated by lantern slides.

Full particulars of these lectures will be found in our advertising columns. We feel sure that Newton people will appreciate the opportunity and study Geography in this pleasant and instructive manner.

UNITARIAN CLUB

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club took place last evening in the parlors of the West Newton Unitarian church. An informal reception was held, and was followed by dinner, served at 6:30. At the business session, which followed, several matters were considered, and a number of new members elected. At 8 o'clock the special guest of the evening, Mr.
Thomas A. Fox of Boston, gave an illustrated lecture on "Italian Gardens." He described, in an interesting way, the various views which were of many of the fine estates in Italy and showed how the gardens and grounds were laid out and developed under the general supervision and care of trained gardeners and skilled workmen.

The 32nd Regiment, Mass. Vols.
Association celebrated the 46th anniversary of the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., by a meeting and dinner at the American House, Boston, last Saturday, December 12th. Forty-five veterans and three sons of veterans were "present for duty," among them, Joseph E. Consens, Sergt. Major
Hosea Hyde, Corporal John H. Percival, Dr. A. D. Kingsbury of Needham and Adjutant I. F. Kingsbury, from the Newton Company "K." The new secretary of the association is William H. Thomas of Hingham, vice W.
H. Norris, deceased. Eighteen members of the Regiment have responded to the final "muster out" since the last annual meeting.

Joshua V. Ramsdell, late of Co. "K," 32nd Regt., Mass. Vols., died at West Acton last Saturday, December 12th,
the day when the Regimental Association had gathered in Boston to celebrate the 46th anniversary of the battle of Fredericksburg. His comrades had not heard of his illness, which was of short duration. The interment was on Wednesday, December 16th, at the Newton cemetery. Accompanying his family to the place of burial were several members of the G. A. R. Post of Maynard, Mass. A detachment from Charles Ward Post, 62, G. A. R., under Commander Ashenden, participated in the funeral services held in the chapel, Rev. William M. Lisle, a former pastor of the deceased, officiating. There was singing by a male quartet, the burial service of the G. A. R. and brief remarks by Adjutant Kingsbury in farewell to a comrade, Hosea Hyde and Francis E.
Jenison of Co. "K" were present.

ANNUAL MEETING

Reports of the retiring officers made at the annual meeting of Nonantum Aerie, 1865, Fraternal Order of Eagles, last week, showed that the organization, although formed little more than a year ago, is in a flourishing condition and has a rapidly increasing membership.

Property Owners,
Attention!

The matter of treating trees for the extinction of brown tail and gypsy moths is a matter which should vitally concern you at this season of the year. The Gill Insecticide Company earnestly solicits a chance to figure on your work. We employ only the most experienced men and we guarantee our work will be passed by the state inspectors. We can quote you a figure which we think will be far below any ever offered to you for this work.

We also make a specialty of felling parish house of the Congregational church. There was a large attendance. The affirmative was argued by Henry H. Skelton, J. H. Ewell, Jr., and Rev. Milan C. Ayres, while the negative was upheld by H. Earl Shaw, Clarence E. Hanescom and Louis T. Medholdt. The negative won. Following the debate there were refreshments.

A new version of "Ye old District School," a farce in two acts with music, was given Thursday evening in Lincoln hall by the members of the Methodist Episcopal church male chorus. The entertainment was very successful, and was largely attended, and it is hoped that it will be repeated in the near future in this or some of the nearby villages.

MAD DOG

A handsome collie dog, believed to be owned in Waltham, ran amuck in West Newton Wednesday. Frothing at the mouth and snapping right and left, the dog ran through Chestnut street, causing pedestrians to run for shelter. It attacked several other dogs, three of them being said to have been owned by James Orr of 216 Cherry street, Robert S. Caw of 287 Cherry street and Michael A. McCarthy of 244 Cherry street. It then started for a horse attached to an express wagon when it was intercepted by Police Sgt. Clay, who narrowly escaped being bitten several times in getting a rope about the animal. With great difficulty the animal was taken to police headquarters, where it was tied up in a room in the basement. Here the animal chewed apart a heavy rope with which it had been tied and dashed madly about the room. It did not become quiet for several hours afterward.

The dog had a collar, but there was no name upon it, and wore no muzzle. It was reported to the police that more than a dozen other animals had been bitten by the collie in its wild run from Waltham to West Newton. A warning was sent out for owners to confine their dogs immediately if they found them acting unnatural.

Board of Aldermen

An interesting hearing on the best form of traps in plumbing a house was the feature of the meeting of the board of aldermen last Monday evening. It arose over the appeal taken by David Craig, a Boston plumber, from the decision of the inspector of buildings that a certain form of trap which Mr. Craig desired to use in the residence of Mr. E. E. Kent on Water-ston road, was contrary to the ordinance of the city. Mr. Craig was granted a hearing on his appeal and contended that the form of trap he desired complied with the ordinance which required a brass clean out screw on the "house side of the trap." It was admitted that the trap in question had the clean out screw on top of the trap and that it was not below the water line. Mr. Craig contended that the inspector went too far afield in objecting to this kind of a trap. Inspector of Plumbing M. B. Coleman stated that in making his examination of this house he had found three traps contrary to the city ordinance and had reported the matter to Inspector of Buildings, Geo. H. Elder. Mr. Elder then read the correspondence which had passed between him and Mr. Craig, and Mr. Coleman then stated that since the appeal had been taken he had obtained expert opinions from the Plumbing Inspectors of Brookline and Waltham, the supervisor of Plumbing of Boston, Mr. John F. McCarrow, a master plumber and Mr. Lyons, who had charge of the plumbing just installed in the new Harvard Medical school. All these letters upheld Mr. Coleman's contention that the Craig trap did not comply with the Newton ordinance and was objectionable in many ways. Mr. Craig in rebuttal stated that he presumed this matter was to be decided upon its merits and that if given time he could have obtained hundreds of letters endorsing his side of the case. He said he had placed dozens of these traps in Boston and they were endorsed by Frederick Tudor, the well known engineer. He said he had been in the plumbing business since 1877 and thought he was well within the Newton ordinance. The only question he declared was whether he was within his rights under this ordinance. Mr. Coleman read again from the Boston letter in which it was said that this form of trap was not permitted in that city, and then said that this trap could be arranged so as to vary the depth of the water seal, and that in effect it was simply a catch-basin between the house and the sewer. Carelessness in screwing on the brass cleanout would allow sewer gas to enter the house, and he declared it was out of date and not allowed in any city or town which governed these matters by regulation. Mr. Craig again contended that he was within the ordinance and stated that if the decision was against him the city of Newton must stand the expense. After a few questions had been asked and answered the hearing was closed. Alderman Bacon brought up the matter immediately and said that the ordinance obviously intended that the form of construction should prevent any sewer gas entering the house thru the traps. Mr. Craig states that the screw is beyond the trap, I believe that the screw is in the trap. It is a catch-basin with the screw at the top, and that the facts justify us in voting to sustain the Inspector of Plumbing, and the decision was then unanimously sustained.

Prior to this hearing, other hearings were called at which no one appeared, as follows:

West End Street Railway Co. for alteration of tracks on Tremont park and Washington street, Telephone Co. for attachments on Walnut street, and of the Gas Light Co. for poles on Ruthven road, and for attachments on Glenwood avenue, on the construction of concrete sidewalks on Melrose street under the betterment act, and a petition of C. C. Carley to sell denatured alcohol.

At the hearing on petition of the Telephone Co. for pole on Walker street, Mr. Wadleigh appeared in opposition.

The Registrars of Voters submitted a report of the recount in the ballots cast for ward aldermen in ward 3 showing that there was no change in the number as returned by the precinct officers, and subsequently an order was passed making the formal declaration of the result of the city election held December 8th.

The Board of Health asked for an additional appropriation of $1800 to meet bills due the Newton Hospital, which was granted. On the communication from Mrs. Geo. F. Lowell asking for hearing for committee of 10 recently appointed to request an addition of $5000 to the school appropriation, a hearing was voted on December 28 at 7.45 P. M. A hearing was also ordered for the same time on petition of C. H. Cushman for removal of tree on Lexington street.

Petitions of Geo. F. James and Alfred E. Alvord for renewal of auctioneer licenses, of Benjamin Gilfix for transfer of junk license to West street, of George O'Neill for a minor's license, and of W. C. Willard and James W. Orman for licenses as Public Weighers were granted without references. Other petitions received and referred were of Wm. H. Gilfix for liquor transportation permit, Simon Atamian for pool table license, W. K. Dunham to sell second hand articles, Telephone Co. for relocation of pole on Everett street, Farlow Hill Land Trust for laying out of Farlow road and for sewer therein, Hammond Real Estate Trust for sewer in Clovelly road, and Alex J. McDonald for sewer in Kenmore road. Applications for apportionment of betterment assessments recently levied on Orris street, Washburn avenue and Newell road from Martin Mahoney, Mary Mahoney, Mary R. Kennerson, Michael J. Hurley, Hattie E. Capen, John A. Foran, James M. McCarthy, Edmund B. and Minnie E. Squire were received and ordered.

On recommendation of Committee, leave to withdraw was granted on claim for damages by Ida E. McCarthy on account of ride in police patrol wagon, to S. Aronson for damages on account of blocked sidewalk on Harvard street, to Mrs. J. A. Hovey for damages to torn dress, to John W. Pendergast for loss of pay, to Mabel E. Goode for sewer in Kenrick street, and to W. M. Thompson for sewer in Avalon road. $20 was voted to Gallagher Bros. on account of injuries to horse and $50 to Michael Cannon for personal injuries while employed by city, a license for pool table granted Ellis O'Hara, a wagon license to Walter Burns, attachments to the Telephone Co. on North and Farwell streets and pole locations on Kaposia street. The board also voted to rescind its action in revoking the junk license of Max Canter, and revoked the wagon license and liquor permit held by Daniel A. Hayes. Orders were also passed authorizing water mains in Farlow road, Adams avenue, Kenmore road, and Kent road, making sundry transfers in certain appropriations, and ordering a concrete sidewalk laid on Melrose street under the betterment act. Orders levying betterment assessments for construction of Kaposia street, Winona street and Chaske avenue were referred to the Finance Committee.

All the aldermen were present except Alderman Jones, Leonard, Palmer and Williamson.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

C. W. Hamilton will spend 10 days at the Association beginning December 23rd. All those who heard him two years ago will be glad to welcome him again.

Special events will be held for the boys and men Christmas week. Watch the bulletin board.

Secretary H. W. Bascom spent Monday in Pittsfield, Mass. The Association in that city has just completed the raising of $44,000 in six days for the new $165,000 building. $52,000 was left to the Pittsfield Association in bequests, and $113,000 was raised by subscription. The building will be erected this spring.

A group of high school boys are discussing High School Problems under the leadership of C. L. Ellison.

Mr. Macpherson's class, discussing Life Problems is increasing in numbers and interest. The topic next week is "Employer and Employee."

A Bible class, taught by the General Secretary, meets every Monday evening at 6.15. Lunch is served for 15 cents.

The illustrated story, "Bill the Hobo" will be concluded next Sunday afternoon at 3.15. A large attendance heard the first part last Sunday.

BLEAK LABRADOR.

In the chapel of Central church, Newtonville, Tuesday evening, before a representative audience, Mr. Willon Wallace, the well known explorer, author and traveller, gave his lecture on, "Across Bleak Labrador." With the assistance of maps and stereopticon slides taken from his own photographs, Mr. Wallace gave an intensely interesting account of his first trip north with the Leonidas Hubbard, Jr. expedition in 1903, when Mr. Hubbard died of starvation and Mr. Wallace wandered for ten days in a snow storm, without food or shelter, before being rescued. The second expedition was in 1905, under the auspices of the Outing Magazine, and proved successful. 800 miles of unknown and unexplored country being traversed, important maps were made and knowledge obtained of the geology and flora of Labrador.

ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. Charles E. Hatfield had a number of well known gentlemen for week end guests at his camp on Lake Winnepesaukee. Among them were Hon. Louis A. Frothingham, ex mayor Weed, ex mayor Bothfield, Mr. G. R. Puklifer, Mr. Marcus Morton, Mr. A. P. Carter and City Treasurer Francis Newhall.

MR. FROTHINGHAM HONORED.

Lieutenant governor elect Louis A. Frothingham, was the guest of the men of Elliot church on Wednesday evening, a reception being held in the church parlors at six o'clock, followed by a banquet a half hour later. The affair was in charge of the William H. Davis Club of which Mr. Frederick L. Trowbridge is president and Mr. Theodore Lockwood, secretary. In the receiving line with Mr. Frothingham were Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of the church, Hon. Seward W. Jones of Newton Highlands, of the Governor's Council, Representative elect Howard P. Converse of Auburndale, and Mr. Charles E. Hatfield, chairman of the Republican city committee. The guests and members of the club, were presented by these ushers, Mr. Theodore Lockwood, Mr. E. O. Childs, Jr., Mr. Asaph Haskell, Mr. Geo. N. Putnam, Mr. Ralph C. Whitney, Mr. Albert F. Whittemore, Mr. H. C. Fraizer, Mr. Louis D. Gibbs, Mr. Albert S. Partridge, Mr. Arthur W. Porter and Mr. Newton Porter.

At the banquet, Mr. Charles A. Haskell occupied a seat at the head of the table with the guests and officers of the club. After grace had been said by Rev. Mr. Person, the members enjoyed an excellent menu and were ready for the capital stories which Mr. Person told in his capacity as toastmaster. In a more serious vein, Mr. Person told of the better times coming in the closer relations which existed between church and state and the fact that our high officials were all church members.

Mr. Frothingham was received with signal honor and paid a high tribute to the men Newton had sent to the Legislature emphasizing particularly such names as Judge Dana, Ex Mayor Warren, Mr. Garcelon and Mr. James A. Lowell. Mr. Frothingham then spoke of the recent alleged scandal in connection with the Panama canal, and gave an interesting account of political conditions in Central America and the earlier history of the canal.

Councillor Jones the next speaker paid a high tribute to Mr. Hatfield and his work on the city committee, calling him the "prince of politicians." Mr. Jones also referred to the succession in office and the part the Governor's council might play in that matter.

Mr. Person in introducing Mr. Hatfield told of the great inventions of the present day and their part in the development, and suggested that possibly the political machine was the greatest development of the century. He presented Mr. Hatfield as the real machinist and engineer of a political machine—"the real thing."

Mr. Hatfield told a few good stories and incidentally referred to members of the Governor's council as "politicians who had passed on." He said he had thoroughly enjoyed political work and urged all young men to select the party which best represented their ideas, and then follow that party. He believed that one reason for the success of the Republican machine in Newton was the fact that it had always selected the best men for city office regardless of their political faith. He emphasized the fact that when complaints are made that things are cut and dried, such things have to be cut and dried, as some one has to do them, or you wouldn't have the class of men that serve you to-day. The machine had to go down on its knees to obtain the services of some of the men in office to-day, men whom you would trust with your private business, your estate after death or your bank. He wished that Lincoln Steffens would come out to Newton and see the best city government there was in the country. In conclusion Mr. Hatfield said that it was easier to get men to be aldermen than it was to get them into the harness and work.

Representative Converse the last speaker made a plea for the military spirit in our high schools and colleges, as a development for the best citizenship.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

Electric Heating and Cooking Appliances.

Electric household utensils have become a permanent and valuable addition to the comforts and conveniences of housekeeping,—so much so, that no home is well appointed without them. The cleanliness and perfect safety which they assure, make them by far the most desirable method of heating baby's milk at night, cooking in chafing dish either at your own private table or when entertaining where other methods have caused so many serious accidents. Making coffee, toast and griddle cakes at your own table and know that they are just right; boiling water, if need be for sickness, or, shaving conveniently in any part of the house. Serving afternoon tea—for with the electric tea kettle and a turn of the switch, it very quietly gives you boiling water without the disturbance of having the maid enter.

The electric heating pad is one of the most popular appliances because of the comfort and relief it gives in case of severe pain or cold feet. The pad is light and flexible and the heat may be regulated to any desired temperature and maintained at that temperature indefinitely—surely a great comfort for baby's out of door naps etc.

To run the sewing-machine by electricity is another great relief, all those leg weariness and backache are things of the past if you have your machine equipped with an electric motor.

The electric flat-iron is probably the best known although there are still very many who do not realize that they could have their laundry equipped with electric irons and washing machine that will actually do the washing and wringing complete for the matter of three cents an hour and the ironing done quicker, neater and less expensively than by any other method. For decorative purposes, we simply need make no comparison. There is nothing so safe for the Xmas tree or other decorations where flimsy things must come in contact with the lightings.

For strict economy in lighting comes the Tungsten lamps—more light with less current—and, also, the Economical lamp for bath-room, sick chamber or hall, which can be turned low to one candle-power and instantly turned to bright when needed.

All who have adopted these methods of economy, comfort and convenience are pleased with the results.

DOROTHY DAINTY'S GAY TIMES.

By Amy Brooks, Seventh Volume of "Dorothy Dainty Series." Illustrated by the Author. 12mo. Cloth.

The name of "Dorothy Dainty" has grown to be a household word wherever there are little girls, and each new book of this series seems better than the last. Dorothy at her beautiful home in the "great stone house," and with her mates is enjoying more than ever the little home school so carefully conducted by "Aunt Charlotte," as they all gain in knowledge. Some new pupils, among them a little boy, and a real boy, too, if he does go to school with girls, give variety. The favorite "Nancy" is prominent in this story as well as in the others, and has a very interesting experience. (Price, $1.00.)—Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

BRAVE LITTLE PEGGY.

By Nina Rhoades. Eighth Volume of the "Brick House Books." Illustrated by Bertha Davidson Hoxie. 12mo. Cloth.

The continued popularity of the unique "brick house" cover designs simply attests the excellence of the stories bound in this attractive way. Peggy comes from California to New Jersey to live with a brother and sister whom she has not known since very early childhood. She is so democratic in her social ideas that many amusing scenes occur, and it is hard for her to understand many things that she must learn. But her good heart carries her through, and her conscientiousness and moral courage win affection and happiness. All of Miss Rhoades' stories have a way of ending delightfully, and the general good taste which is an unerring characteristic of her books entitles them to the favor which they enjoy. (Price, $1.00.)—Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

ALL AMONG THE LOGGERS.

Or Norman Carver's Winter in a Lumber Camp.

By C. B. Burrell, Author of "Raymond Benson Series." First Volume of "Norman Carver Series." Illustrated by H. C. Edwards. 12mo. cloth.

Norman Carver is a bright, vigorous youth, whose father feels that a winter of practical affairs will be better for his son than getting into scrapes at school, where, though clean and honest, his social position and active nature make other things easier than hard, old-fashioned study. So he is sent to the deep woods of Maine, where his father owns lumbering interests, and set to work as company's "clerk." An eventful winter follows which does much for him. An important character and a good friend to Norman is "Mr. Collins," the "sealer," who in real life is "Bill" Sewall, the friend of President Roosevelt, and also of the author. Besides being a first-

KEEP UP YOUR COURAGE.

Key-notes to Success.

Edited by Mary Allette Ayer With introduction by Rev. J. R. Miller, D. D. Editor of "Daily Cheer Year Book," "Toys of Friendship," and "Heart Melodies." 12mo. Cloth. Gilt Top. Boxed.

Miss Ayer's remarkably wide reading, rare power of selection, brave optimism, and unflinching good taste which have enabled her to cheer and comfort so many with her former books, have never been shown to greater advantage than in this choice selection of gems of inspiring thought. As Dr. Miller well says in his introduction:—"The compiler has gathered her selections from a wide field and from many writers. These are all in harmony with the title of the volume. Many readers will find the brief selections full of quickening and inspiring thought. Busy people in these days have not time to read many books, but often a well chosen sentence or brief saying will prove as effective as a whole volume in giving cheer or kindling earnestness. The books the world needs to-day are not those which dwell upon the hardness of life and its hindrances, but those which, recognizing the obstacles that are in the way, yet teach that no true man need ever fail. The man of faith and courage can do impossible things. It is the mission of this book to emphasize and enforce the duty of persistence and unconquerableness. The lesson is taught on every page, and those who read it should be braver and stronger therefore." (Price, $1.00 net. $1.10 Postpaid.)—Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

A FULL-BACK AFLOAT.

Being an Account of Dick Melvin's Vacation Voyage.

By A. T. Dudley Seventh volume of "Phillips-Exeter Series." Illustrated by Charles Copeland. 12 mo. Cloth. A new book by A. T. Dudley is an important event for both the boys who like to read—if a book has sufficient interest, and all Mr. Dudley's have—and those who watch with care for books that boys ought to read, and incidentally enjoy an intelligently written boys' book themselves, no matter what the age. The hero of Mr. Dudley's latest book "A Full-Back Afloat" is Dick Melvin, well remembered as the hero of "Following the Ball," although this book is complete in itself. At the close of his first year in college, in which he easily "makes the Varsity Eleven," he is induced to earn a passage to Europe by helping on a cattle steamer. The work is not so bad, but his associates are not all college men, to say the least, and Dick finds ample use for the vigor, self-control, and quick wit in emergency which he has gained from football. He discovers that one companion has not only stolen something of great value from the home of a college friend, but has it on board. Nothing daunted, Dick undertakes detective work full of difficulty and danger. How the resourceful athlete wins out gives zest to the story. The cattle steamer with its picturesque life, described with great vividness and entire accuracy, offers an entirely new field for an acceptable boys' book, and one that has been excellently used by Mr. Dudley. (Price, $1.25.)—Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

THE STORY OF FREDERICK THE GREAT FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

By Kate E. Carpenter. Author of "The Story of Joan of Arc for Boys and Girls." Illustrated from Famous Paintings. 12mo. Cloth.

Frederick the Great will always be one of the heroes of history, and a very interesting part of his career is his unusual childhood, under the rule of one of the sternest fathers that a boy ever had. All this, as well as the story of his later triumphs which won for him the undying title of the "Great," is told in the pleasing style which has made Mrs. Carpenter's "Story of Joan of Arc" so continuously popular, and with scrupulous historical accuracy. It is a very attractive book in every particular, with its large, clear type, and easy, pleasant style. The colored map showing "Prussia and her Neighbors in the Time of Frederick the Great" is a very valuable feature. (Price, $1.00.)—Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

ASSISTANCE IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

The Servant Question.

By J. F. Frisbie, M. D.

One of the greatest questions for the house mistress, today, is the "Servant Girl"—the "Maid,"—the "Assistant in the Home."

Whether you have lady callers in your own home; whether you are calling on others in their homes or whether you meet them at the mountain or sea-side, the important subject of "Servant or Help," continually comes to the front and is a never ending theme for conversation. It is even more prolific and interesting than the weather and the fashions.

It has been known for a long time that girls from the Provinces—Ireland—England and Scotland as well as those from Germany, Norway and Sweden do not come here in such numbers as in the years gone by,—to go into the homes as servants.

It is in the opinion of the women in New England, that, taken as a whole, for quality, competency and reliability the now-coming girls are not equal to those of years ago, and it is almost universal complaint that it is next to impossible to secure a good. Very naturally the question arises, "Are there no good girls coming here with the poor ones?" "If so, what becomes of them?"

Occasionally a good, competent girl seeks general housework, but the majority seek other occupations. They go into stores as sales girls, into restaurants and hotels as waitresses, some as second girls, nurse girls and not a few go into the Training School for Nurses attached to our hospitals. Here they prove apt pupils and when they graduate, strong, energetic, healthful and excellent nurses. Naturally these are mentally and educationally superior to the most who come.

Many of these girls who go into restaurants and hotels as waitresses or into stores would prefer to go into homes and do general housework under certain conditions.

How many women who employ servant girls ever take into consideration the varied labors they have to perform, the unpleasantnesses continually occurring, the fault findings and often scoldings, the few words of commendation and praise; the few privileges and the many discomforts and the brutal treatment that sometimes is meted out to them; the loneliness and want of companionship. They spend the most of their laboring hours in the kitchen which is generally at the rear of the house. When they go to the other rooms of the house, except the dining room, it is to sweep and dust or make beds and there is no pleasure nor rest there.

When their work is done they have only two places to spend their resting hours, either in the unattractive kitchen or in the room assigned them at the top and brickside of the house. It is generally not beautiful as seen from the outside and the view from the windows is not attractive. To add to this, the furnishings, even in many good homes, are not comfortable—an old bedstead in which is old, poor bedding, a discarded bureau, sink and two or three chairs and a table. Sometimes an old, worn out carpet on the floor or a cast off rug beside the bed. Generally their room is under the eaves, is not heated in winter and the girl suffers from cold, and in summer is sizzling hot—in either case not a comfortable, cheery, resting place for tired, hard worked girls.

If this girl has friends call on her she must have them in the kitchen or take them to her unattractive, disconsolate room.

With all these drawbacks the mistress expects the girl to be neat, pleasant, sweet-tempered, neatly and tidily dressed and she must show taste and skill in all the household arrangements that fall to her lot.

With no inducements to make her desolate looking room attractive, how can she be expected to add attractiveness and artistic arrangements elsewhere in the house?

Girls who go out to do general housework are expected to be fairly competent to do the usual cooking for the family, good washer and ironer, good sweeper and duster and in addition the numberless little things that need caring for in the home.

Many a woman will sometimes say, "The work in my home is not hard, there are only three or four to care for." Those women seldom look at this from a proper standpoint. They fail to take a comprehensive look at the situation.

Generally the girl has to be up by say after five o'clock. From then until after dinner she is busy at work—the dinner dishes are washed and put away—by three o'clock and then she has an hour or possibly two to sit down and rest or do her sewing. Twice a week she generally has an afternoon out. The rest of the time she is supposed to be in the house ready for any additional calls that may be made upon her.

Many women object to their girls having callers; and thus they are shut out from companionship with their friends, unless they go elsewhere. Of course this is all wrong. It shows their utter selfishness and want of the common amenities of life.

There are many poor, inferior, incompetent girls. Quite a large percentage of these could be taught and educated by their mistresses and in time become reliable, competent helps in the home.

Do the mistresses take the interest in these girls they ought and help them wisely, and also in their household work?

How many women care for their girls except to get all the work out of them they can?

The girls understand this and return as little interest and work as they can possibly scrape along with and get their wages.

There are many good, excellent homes where the girls are trusted well and in return the girls serve conscientiously and loyally.

There are also many, many poor places where the girls are treated with bare care and humanity than the homes in the stable or the poodle dog in the house.

TO UPHOLD HIGHEST STANDARDS

MR. FRANCIS W. WILLIAMS of Newton Centre announces that, having accepted the management of the Cobb Eastman Company, Furniture Makers and Interior Decorators he proposes to give the people of Boston and Newton, and all other cities, the best that can be produced.

IN FURNITURE AND DECORATION

ITS OWN EXCLUSIVE DESIGNS will hereafter be the only ones produced, and the entire stock of ready-made furniture will at once be disposed of at less than regular cost.

ARCHITECTS will find that with our own factory, an excellent store, our own goods, strong financial support, and a corps of trained Artists, Craftsmen and Salesmen, to ensure a high standard of work, this establishment will soon be the equal or better than any first-class Boston or New York store. The company already enjoys the patronage and confidence of several leading Boston and New York architects.

I remember being in an intelligence office in Boston many years ago, in search of a girl. While there a good looking, neatly dressed girl came in and reported to the proprietor that the place he had sent her to was not such as she wanted. He requested her to go into a rear room and wait for a more desirable situation. As she was going to the other room a woman sitting near me, rather richly dressed, said in an aside "There are a great many poor girls." The girl heard the remark and turning instantly replied, "Yes, and there are a great many poor places." The proprietor leaned over to me and said emphatically, "The girl is right. There are a great many very poor places."

There are a few large hearted benevolent Christian women who take girls into their homes and instruct them in the ways and duties of home and house keeping and when they have proved competent find places for them.

I know a lady who did this and the girls that she had instructed in her home were eagerly sought for by her friends and acquaintances.

Women often say it is useless to do much for their help because the girls are so ungrateful. This is often true; the girls are ungrateful and the more done for them, the less do they appreciate. This results from various causes. The girls are ignorant and have never been educated to appreciate kindness. They may have lived in places where kindness was never shown them and they do not understand what kindness means. Others naturally have a bad disposition, ugly, cross-grained, quarrelsome. It is almost impossible to do anything with these and it is better for the general household to let them alone. But the larger number of them can be taught and by judicious help and kindness, good, reliable girls will be the result.

The first thing for women to do is to treat them like human beings. Give them as good a room as they can, a pleasant room and comfortable one where the girl will not sizzle in summer nor freeze in winter—one that can be warmed by furnace of stove. Then furnish it neatly and comfortably, not expensively, making it attractive where they can sit and enjoy themselves, working or reading and where they can take their friends without being ashamed of their room.

Treat them kindly, considerably and help them to good, interesting books to read—books in which they will be interested and from which they will learn, thus improving their minds and helping them feel happy and contented. Give them an outing at least two afternoons and evenings a week and other hours when convenient. Treat them kindly at all times, giving them pleasant words and show, in every way that you take an interest in them. Comment and praise when they do well and instead of faultfinding; gently suggest and show how they can do better and as you wish and seldom or never scold. Scolding rarely induces a girl to better ways and work.

Every woman who employs girls in her home, should feel that it is her privilege and her duty to help them in every way she can—that is her Christian opportunity to do good to those who occupy a position with her. Every Christian woman should feel that every girl in her own house has a missionary duty to perform, fully as useful and as sacred as if she went out to foreign lands as a missionary to convert the heathen. And her success often would be greater—the bringing these girls to a knowledge of the Christian life.

And another very important matter should be impressed on those mistresses, and that is, teach and instruct these girls in the ideas and principles, duties and obligations of wifehood and motherhood, to which nearly all are looking forward.

Many young women, especially those from the country, who would make excellent housekeepers, and who would prefer that occupation to office or store work, are deterred from taking positions in the home to do general housework because of the want of social standing. They know that generally, the servant, the maid, the help in the kitchen, really the important assistants in the home is, if not looked down upon, almost ignored socially.

For nearly seven years a girl from the north of Ireland was in my home. She was a bright, wide awake girl, undoubtedly, from a good family, good common school education with some musical talent. If I am not mistaken she played the organ in the little church near where she lived. She, with two sisters and two brothers came to this country. All three girls preferred housekeeping to stores or offices. One of these came to us several United States. She proved thoroughgoing years after their arrival in the city competent in every respect as a home-keeper and remained with us more than six years and then left us to be married.

This girl said to us, one day "I prefer to work in a home to being a sales woman in a store or to have a position in an office. But as long as I am a servant doing the work in the home, I am a person of very small consequence except to the members of the household. I am only a servant, you cannot take me into your parlor and induce me to your friends. It could not be considered proper, however competent and faithful and necessary to the comfort of every member of the household I might be. I might be laying up one or two hundred dollars a year in the Savings Bank and I might have a thousand or two dollars in the bank (as she did have) still I am nothing, in the opinion of people but a servant. But, let me go into a store where I receive hardly enough wages to board and clothe me I am at once a different person, and I can be met and introduced to people and not one will think it out of place.

The house work is considered menial—the store work a higher grade, although the sales women cannot lay by a dollar."

Very few American girls are willing to go into houses to do general housework. They give, as a reason for this, that they are looked down upon. They say, that in their homes, they are the equal of those around them, but the moment they go into homes to do general housework they lose caste and the word "servant" applied to them is degrading.

This should not be, for the help in the household, generally has more to do with the comfort and happiness of the home than much else, more apparent to the eye.

Perhaps my readers will say I have taken the servant girl's side of the question. True; because I believe more fault lies with those they serve than with themselves, that if their girls are properly treated—properly cared for—properly taught in household duties and work and helped to a Christian life there will result better, truer, more loyal service in every way.

ATLANTIC CITY.

It would be a glowing and prolific pen that could adequately portray the wonderful attractions of the board walk at Atlantic City—no doubt many of your readers have been there and know all about it. The walk is over five miles in length—and in places from fifty to sixty feet wide. On one side we follow the beach with the grand ocean in view, while on the other are shops of every description, and restaurants, halls of entertainment, and grand hotels, magnificent in size and architectural beauty—of these the Marlborough-Blenheim is unequalled, it is said, to any other in the world. The streets of the city proper lead up from this side. On the walk you meet men, women and children, hundreds of them—and people in wheeled chairs—no other conveyance being allowed there. But it is the beach that absorbs the visitor's attention. The bathers are there in large numbers. The life saving men are stationed at different points for observation. Their tents are circular, placed upon poles, their boats beneath, ready to launch to save any one who has ventured out too far in the water, and are in danger. It is not uncommon in some cases to find life extinct on reaching the shore—one boy was brought to life after working over him for two hours. These men are paid by the government. There is one very interesting place on the beach that is worthy of mention. It is the work of the sand artists. They mold figures and form pictures out of the sand flat upon the beach—This work may be called bas relief. Of course it is done above high water mark. The subjects are various and of life size. One represents a woman thrown up from the sea with a child clasped in her arms. Others are heads of prominent men—Roosevelt, Taft and so on—Another was a picture of an automobile complete. Much money thrown over the balustrade by the lookers on from the board walk.

At intervals along the walk pavilions invite the weary pedestrian to rest and it is a matter for thankfulness to sit in one of the comfortable rockers provided and watch what is going on on the beach, and listen to the enlivening strains of a band of music near by. One is amazed at the long piers extending out into the water. To describe one will suffice for others. The million dollar steel pier, however, built by Young, excels them all. As you enter upon it from the board walk a promenade extends the whole length of the pier, about one fourth of a mile. On your left the first object of interest is a grand ballroom, estimated to be the largest and most beautiful in the world. Electric lights cover the walls and the ceiling in every imaginable design and coloring. It is beyond my feeble pen to give anyone a correct idea of it. It must be seen to be appreciated. Leaving the hall we pass on to the Aquarium, containing rare specimens of the aquatic tribe. Among these are two very large turtles said to be one hundred years old. Believing every thing that is told we pass on to a circular platform, some twenty feet in diameter, a pole in the centre and set in motion by machinery. Boys and girls climb upon it. It begins to go round, accelerating in speed until every one is whirling off, shouting and laughing. At the edge it shelves off, letting them down with comparative ease; it is to be hoped with no bruises out of sight.

Another amusement is an inclined plane, after the toboggan style. At its height, about forty feet, and about three feet wide, one sits down at the top, others following each landing on a rubber blanket. Next we come to a circus, and an exhibition of trained animals. The ponies were beautiful creatures—the riding and horsemanship skillfully performed. Dogs from the Arctic regions showed wonderful intelligence and endurance as a companion and help to the explorers upon the discovery of the North pole.

The next object of admiration was Mr. Young's residence, artistically constructed, illumined throughout by electricity. It was a brilliant sight—This was followed by a lovely Greek temple built of marble, devoted to sacred music.

There is an end to all things so we come to an end of this wonderful pier, to a pavilion where we may sit and gaze at the brown ocean before us or upon the moon and stars when shining in all their glory. The return back to the board walk with the on-rolling surf before us to keep us company was fascinating in the extreme. There are many objects of interest up into the city. The Mercer Memorial House for invalids bears the highest reputation. There are also medical institutions and fine residences. On a trolley ride through Ocean city we passed a large building for sick and incurable children, over three hundred were being cared for at that time.

TRAMPS.

Tramps of the generally accepted type, are of two classes, one is the out and out Hobo, who will bear almost anything rather than earn his living by work, the other is a tramp from the stress of circumstances, willing to work, but unable to find the work to do; he is to be pitied rather than blamed. We have a force of men, who, three times a day, more than three hundred days in the year, are "tramp, tramp, tramping to our doors, bringing glad tidings to many and, alas, to others tidings which cause the heart to ache, neat, alert, courteous, no body of men rendering service to our citizens, are more worthy of appreciation, than are our Postmen, and there are our newsboys, little fellows, embryo business men who morning and night bring us the daily papers. At this glad season let us show these two classes that we are not unmindful of their labors in our behalf, and on Christmas day, once more extend to them the "glad hand" with something in it.

APPRECIATION.

D. A. R.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter D. A. R. of Newton, met on December 14, at the home of Mrs. George P. Bullard, Mrs. Charles A. Wyman being also a hostess.

The meeting was delightfully opened by Miss Betty Upham singing two German songs, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Carter. An important business meeting followed, presided over by the Regent Mrs. Arthur P. Friend.

A very interesting ancestor paper was read by Mrs. Francis Newhall; the afternoon closing with a social hour in the dining room, where Miss Fanny Allen and Mrs. Whidden served, assisted by many attractive young ladies.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—For Christmas week at the Boston Theatre Mr.
Keith will provide a class of entertainment at popular prices, which he has introduced in a number of his houses in different parts of the country with tremendous success. For several weeks on Friday afternoon and Sunday evenings these entertainments have drawn audiences that have completely filled the greatest auditorium in the Hub and the entertainments have been received with marked approval. Mr. Keith was one of the very first, if not the first, to see the possibilities of the moving pictures and introduced them in his theatres many years ago. Since then they have become an established feature in every vaudeville house and have reached such a high development that they have become unquestionably the most popular entertainment of modern times. This has been largely due to the instructive as well as the entertaining element in them, and the perfection arrived at by Mr. Keith in their presentation. The entertainments at the Boston Theatre will be longer and more varied than ever giving previously, and for Christmas week
the entertainment will be designed especially for ladies and children, everything being of a holiday character.
The performances will run continuous from noon until 10.30 in the evening.

Orpheum Theatre—Emma Carus,
the Broadway favorite, heads the unusually well balanced vaudeville bill at the Orpheum next week, with a new novelty song offering, Walter Le-Roy, who created the role of Sullivan in the "American Idea" makes his first vaudeville reappearance in George
M. Cohan's one act play, "Hogan's Millions." For the first time in vaudeville also, comes Willie Hoppe, the billiard champion in a succession of fancy shots that are visible in all parts of the auditorium. The Musical end of the program is upheld by Manuel Roman, the minstrel singer with Foley Brothers and Palma Sisters. For the first time here comes the Gautemalan Indian boys in their Marlaba band. Two sensational acts are given by the Davis-Glendhill Trio in cycle racing, and the Zarnes, sensational gymnasts. Joe Goodman, the comedian and Gilbert and Katen, Hebrew entertainers complete the variety bill.

vine, and the giant belt attached to the mine for the hoisting gear and machinery of the mine; act three, which is very elaborate, pictures a mountain pass with forest trees and an Indian camp; the final act is that of a western ranch house with all its primiti-veness and hospitality. Matinees will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual, at which special prices for children will prevail, and a special matinee on Friday, Christmas Day.

Keith's Theatre—A bill that is in many respects reasonable and at the same time abounds in those big acts that have been making the shows at Keith's talked about this season, has been provided for Christmas week. As usual the welfare of the children has been taken into consideration and on Christmas morning there will be a special holiday entertainment, beginning at ten o'clock and lasting until one, in which most of the important acts of the week will appear. These morning performances have been growing in popularity since they were introduced by Mr. Keith more than a year ago. The bill is an exceptionally good one, with a number of strong headline acts, among the latter being Nat. M. Willis, "the happy tramp," than whom there is no better humorist on the stage to-day. He was the originator of a character that now finds a place in nearly every dramatic company. Although there have been many who have tried the part, Mr. Willis still remains in a class all by himself.
That splendid production by Jesse L.
Lasky, "At the Country Club," which caused so much comment last week, has been held over. In fact there have been few productions in vaudeville that has caused so much talk as this beautiful and tuneful musical offering,
in which George Spink, the composer,
appears in one of the principal characters. The dresses are certainly beautiful, and the stage settings surpass anything of the kind previously attempted in vaudeville. Two Boston favorites on the bill are Hyams and McIntyre, who appear in a new sketch called "The Quakeress." Among the other attractions are the Willy Panter Troup of acrobats; the Kitamura
Japs; Pearl and Yosco; Howard's Dogs, an act that will be particularly attractive to the young folks; Ruby Raymond Trio, Le Dent and a number of others.

Boston Grand Opera House—Miss Lillian Mortimer's masterpiece, "Bunco in Arizona," with Miss Eugenia Bessner and J. Louis Ungerer in the leading roles, will be the Christmas week attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House with an extra matinee Friday, Christmas Day. "Bunco in Arizona" is one of the finest and most realistic of western comedy dramas.
The play in four elaborate full stage scenes; comprising the first act is a bright sunny afternoon at Black Creek with a typical western saloon; the second act an exterior of a silver mine in the midst of the Rockies with a wooden bridge across a ra-

REAL ESTATE.

John T. Burns, 363 Centre street,

Newton reports agreements signed for the sale of the estate 15 Francis street, Newton Centre to Mr. J. Linnell of that place. The grantor to be Mrs. Ryan of New York. Property consists of a 9 room frame dwelling with about 6000 feet of land. The purchaser intends to occupy.

Through the above office agreements have also been signed for the sale of the real estate numbered 79 Pearl street, Newton to Mrs. Mary Lawn. The grantor is Mr. L. G. Stanton. The property consists of a frame 2 family dwelling-house and 4000 feet of land. Mrs. Lawn buys for a home.

Mr. John Fisher, 211 Church street has rented his house to Mr. G. Tukey formerly of Cambridge. Mr. Tukey will occupy immediately. John T. Burns was the broker.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL.

A well attended candy sale in aid of the high school hockey and basketball teams was held Friday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The affair was in charge of Miss Virginia Tapley, manager of the hockey team; Miss Marion Butters, captain of the hockey team; Miss Katharine Norton, manager of the basketball team, and Miss Rachael Whidden, captain of the basketball team. The 1909 ice-cream table was decorated in orange and black, the school colors, and the senior class table was decorated in blue and white, the class colors. The junior table was decorated in green, the sophomore table in red and freshman punch and pop corn tables in yellow. An auction of posters and candy under direction of Carl Hawes followed. The affair closed with dancing.

Tuesday Newton opened the hockey season by defeating Wellesley 4-0 at the Brae Burn hockey rink. The first half ended with neither side being able to score, but in the second half Newton's superior team work began to tell and they scored four goals. The first two were made by Gorman, and the others by Hopkins and Washburn.

Curtis Delano, ex-'08, is a candidate for the Cornell freshman crew.

Wednesday at 12 o'clock the High School closed for the annual Christmas vacation. School will open again Jan. 4.

A movement is on foot among members of the junior class of the high school to form a debating club. It is proposed to hold the first debate between two divisions of the class on the resolution, "That the present jury system is an evil."

DR. CURTIS REPLIES

To Mr. Bonner's Criticisms Of Compulsory Vaccination

To the Editor of the Graphic:— I had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Bonner's address on the evils of compulsory vaccination last week at the Neighborhood Club and cannot refrain from making a few comments thereon.

In a former communication on this subject my remarks were chiefly general but I now propose to comment upon some of the specific points in the address. Mr. Bonner has a thorough familiarity with his side of the question and is a fluent speaker. If mere weight and volume of words constituted argument Mr. Bonner's opponents would be annihilated, for his address lasted one and one-half hours and he spent further time in replying to his critics.

The speaker opened his address by stating that vaccination was not a fact, cherished by a few cranks, but numbered many eminent men among its adherents. He then read a list of eminent antivaccinationists. It contained statesmen, philosophers, authors, members of Parliament and members of the Peerage, but in the whole list were only two names which were in the least prominent in medical science. The natural inference is that there are none to be mentioned, for if a man was trying to show the value of a mechanical appliance he would naturally quote the opinion of engineers and machinists in its support, rather than members of the nobility, even though one of them was a former Prime Minister of England, and so in a question of preventive medicine the opinion of well known medical investigators should carry the most weight.

Later in his address Mr. Bonner gave what I can only describe as a lurid description of the preparation of vaccine virus in England. I do not use the word "lurid," as Mr. Bonner objects to it, although he showed that he had a very vague idea of its true meaning.

All that I can say in regard to his description of the process is, that, if it is correct, the only wonder is that every man, woman and child in England is not an antivaccinationist. I am not familiar with the process in England but I can truly say that in the United States it is very different. In charity to Mr. Bonner's native country I prefer to believe that he is in error.

In one point he is in error, but whether from inadvertence or from intention I say, although I am inclined to believe that it is the latter, for the possible play upon the true and the popular meaning of his word is too apt to be accidental. I refer to the use of the word "matter" in speaking of "vaccine matter." The phrase was repeated several times. Now we all know that the word "matter" has the popular meaning "pus" and to many persons the first impression conveyed by the word is of something disagreeable. When one considers the connection in which the word was used, the inference is forced upon one that the speaker, in referring to "vaccine matter," meant to make his hearers picture something disgusting. There is nothing disgusting about the preparation of vaccine virus; it is done under the strictest aseptic precautions, and if the scarifications suppurate, or, to use Mr. Bonner's word "mature," the product is useless. It can be truly said that the description given by the speaker conveyed an absolutely false impression of the whole process.

When Mr. Bonner spoke of the statistics in regard to small pox in pre-vaccination days, he practically stated that they were prepared by the advocates of vaccination so as to show a difference between pre-vaccination days and the present time in favor of the latter. In other words he intimated that all these figures had been falsified by the advocates of vaccination. With the exception of another utterance made by Mr. Bonner later in the evening, this is the most amazing statement that I have ever heard made upon a public platform. In one sentence Mr. Bonner sweeps away all the facts and figures that militate against his position and he does this on his simple "ipse dixit," without offering the slightest scintilla of evidence to support his statement. I must confess that I cannot bring myself to accept this statement without some further evidence to support it.

Copies of a number of death certificates were offered for inspection in which the cause of death was given as "vaccination." These certificates were filed in England and as far as one can tell are perfectly genuine, but before accepting them implicitly, I should certainly like further information on the subject. By this I mean that vaccination is a very vague term when used to describe the cause of death without any qualifying explanation. In the light of numerous newspaper clippings and letters reporting deaths from vaccination in the United States and Canada which were also submitted, it seems fair to assume that the majority of the deaths were due to tetanus and the others to sepsis. Now we all know that these two diseases attack persons who have open wounds which are improperly treated and the operation of vaccination should not be condemned because of this, any more than any other surgical procedure should be condemned because of improper after treatment.

In the case of two physicians who were held up to admiration for facing danger of infection at the call of duty, the speaker showed a lamentable ignorance of the proper point of view. To members of a profession which has numbered in its ranks such men, not to mention others, as Carroll and Lazenby, who unflinchingly gave themselves to death from yellow fever, to prove the truth of the theory of its propagation by the steomyia, the wonder is, not that the act referred to should be praised but that it should be deemed worthy of even passing mention. If the gentlemen referred to had refused to answer to the call of duty then, indeed, would it be proper to speak of their conduct but only as

TO UPHOLD HIGHEST STANDARDS

MR. FRANCIS M. WILLIAMS of Newton Centre announces that, having accepted the management of the Cobb-Eastman Company, Furniture Makers and Interior Decorators, he proposes to give the people of Boston and Newton, and all other cities, the best that can be produced.

IN FURNITURE AND DECORATION

ITS OWN EXCLUSIVE DESIGNS will hereafter be the only ones produced, and the entire stock of ready-made furniture will at once be disposed of at less than regular cost. ARCHITECTS will find that with our own factory, an excellent store, our own goods, strong financial support, and a corps of trained Artists, Craftsmen and Salesmen, to ensure a high standard of work, this establishment will soon be the equal or better than any first-class Boston or New York store. The company already enjoys the patronage and confidence of several leading Boston and New York architects.

THE COBB-EASTMAN COMPANY

an example of an act unworthy of the profession to which they belong. However, they did not fail and no more need be said. In a fairly large acquaintance with members of the medical profession in the United States, Canada and Mexico, I have only known of one instance where a man refused to answer to the call of duty and he was a very enthusiastic antivaccinationist. He evidently did not have the courage of his convictions.

I come now to what I must describe as Mr. Bonner's most amazing statement; so amazing that it must have dumfounded even his most enthusiastic supporters. It was made in answer to an inquiry by one of the speakers who replied to Mr. Bonner after the question was opened for discussion.

After speaking of the Boston epidemic of 1901-2 and referring to the fact that the public very generally applied for vaccination as the epidemic continued, so that by degrees nearly every one became vaccinated, the gentleman asked Mr. Bonner if, in his opinion, this fact had any bearing on the cessation of the outbreak. Mr. Bonner replied that there were two reasons for the decline, first because the disease found no more susceptible material to attack but chiefly because the great mercantile houses warned the newspapers that unless the printing of news about small pox was discontinued within 24 hours, they would withdraw their advertising.

Mr. Bonner repeated this astounding statement a second time, although he omitted his first reason on the repetition, and each time spoke with most marked emphasis and in clear tones.

Further comment upon this statement is unnecessary except to say that it occurred in answer to a serious question during the discussion of a subject of great importance to the human race, namely the control of small pox. This brings me to the final point and that is the simple question, what do the antivaccinationists offer for the control of small pox in place of vaccination?

I listened carefully in the hope that some such alternative method of protection would be offered but I failed to hear any.

Mr. Bonner did indeed offer a prescription which he said was of value and not hidden in a foreign language. When he said this, hope, which was almost dead within me, again asserted her sway, and this is what I heard. "Keep your head cool, your feet warm and do not let your bowels become constipated." Most excellent advice, but hardly sufficient to protect its followers from an attack of small pox.

The opponents of compulsory vaccination would take from us the best means against small pox and offer us in exchange—a purgative! Mr. Bonner claims that sanitation and not vaccination has lessened the frequency of small pox but offers no proof of his assertion. Sanitation is a very broad term and I have frequently tried to find out from our opponents what they mean by sanitation as applied to small pox but have always signally failed. They say that sanitation has controlled the spread of yellow fever and typhoid, and consequently can control small pox. I freely grant that sanitation has accomplished much in these diseases, but it is sanitation along specific lines. We know in what direction to turn our efforts in these cases, but sanitation has not controlled the exanthemata—scarlet fever, measles and similar diseases, nor will it do so in the kindred disease, small pox.

I freely admit that compulsory vaccination is a restraint upon individual liberty, but so is every health law on the statute books, and as long as we live under civilized conditions the individual must bow to the needs of the community. Finally I believe that it is the duty of every man who believes in compulsory vaccination to see to it that he does not relax his vigilance, for our opponents are very active. One of them said to me only a few days ago, "we will not rest until we have swept every vestige of compulsion from the laws of Massachusetts." When that time comes, then indeed will the hundreds of those who guard the health of the public, already great, become almost unbearable.

6 CENT FARES.

At a meeting of the board of Directors of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company, held in Boston,

Thursday, December 17, 1908, it was voted to make the unit of fare, over the entire system, six cents, beginning January 1st, 1909.

No changes are made in the price of any of the round-trip and book tickets now in service. Books of 50 single unit rides for $2.75, or 5% cents a ride, good anywhere on the system, will be sold at the ticket agencies. Six-cent tickets will be sold by conductors and this fact will make possible the purchase of any desired number of tickets when a passenger boards a car, thus eliminating as much as possible the inconvenience of continual change-making upon the part of the conductor and the public.

This increase in the unit of fare, naturally, comes as a surprise to the general public, but as a matter of fact, it is a condition which the officials of the company have been facing for some time. It is true that the company has not earned its dividends for the past year and the surplus of the first years of operation has practically been wiped out.

There were but two courses open to the company, a decided reduction in service and also in the wages of employees, or an increase in the unit of fare, and after careful consideration the company has determined upon the latter course as the best method to meet the situation.

By making no change in the price of the round-trip and book tickets and providing for 50-ride book tickets at reduced rates, the change will not be felt to any appreciable extent by regular patrons. With the sale of 5-cent tickets by conductors an inconvenience to which the patrons have heretofore been subjected, will be largely eliminated.

It has been the policy of the company, ever since the Boston & Worcester system was opened, to keep its rolling stock and property in the highest condition and thus give to the public the best service possible.

EMERY MEMORIAL VOLUME

On the demise of the late Daniel S. Emery, of Boston, Massachusetts, the family of the deceased commissioned the Burrill Press Clipping Bureau in New York to compile a memorial volume as an historical reference. The volume was to contain all that the newspapers printed concerning the life and career of the deceased.

The memorial has been completed and has just been delivered to the family. Every newspaper in America that printed items concerning the deceased is represented, a prominent position being given to the Graphic. The memorial is ten by twelve inches in size, the leaves are of Irish linen paper with black border and the binding is of black seal, lettered in gold. The work in its entirety is looked upon as an historical record that should be preserved for all times.

DEATH OF MISS BAILEY

Miss Susan Jones Bailey, daughter of the late Calvin and Catherine Bailey, died Monday at the home of her nephew, Mr. Howard B. Coffin, 246 Bellevue street. Injuries received from a recent fall had confined her to her bed for several weeks and she had failed in health and strength since that time. Miss Bailey was a native of Boston, where she was born 88 years ago, and previous to a year ago she had made her home, since 1847, at 47 Walnut park. Her parents were among the founders of Channing church and for a number of years she was the oldest living member. A host of friends will mourn her loss for she was beloved by many for her sterling qualities and loving disposition. She is survived by one brother Mr. George H. Bailey of Washington, D. C. and several nephews and nieces. Funeral services were held from the chapel at Newton cemetery, Wednesday at 3 o'clock and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of Channing church officiated and the burial was in the family lot.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Hart.

Once more the club editor is face to face with the problem, of no news at the Christmas season, for practically all club activities have been suspended during the present week. This fact is of deeper significance than may be at first supposed, for it shows that the club women have not, as has sometimes been attributed to them, lost the true sense of proportion. They have not forgotten that home always takes first place in a woman's interest and so the preparations for a merry time for the children and for those nearest and dearest have become the all absorbing occupation. The club celebrations and jollifications have been pushed over into another week. In the widening of the home circle we find the clubs reaching out to bring cheer to lonely people who otherwise might be forgotten. For example, the Monday Club will again visit the City Home and leave a bright spot behind them as they have several times before. And now a Merry Christmas, and many more of them, to all readers, and as Tiny Tim observed, "God bless us every one."

On Dec. 30 the Social Science Club will consider "The Policing of the City."

The Ladies Home Circle will meet in Taylor Block, Auburndale, on Tuesday, December 29, at 2.30.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands will meet with Mrs. Salmon of Walnut street, on Dec. 28. On the following day, Tuesday, the 29th, the members will visit the City Home carrying gifts and entertaining the inmates as they have for several years past.

On Thursday, Dec. 31st, the Current Events lecture will be given by Mrs. May Alden Ward before the Newtonville Woman's Guild.

Mrs. Margaret Deland will speak before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday, Dec. 31st, at 2.30; her subject will be "Gardening" instead of the one previously announced.

There was a meeting of the Pierian Club held Thursday, Dec. 17th, with Mrs. Nutter. The topic was "Eugene Field." Papers were read by Mrs. Wry and Mrs. Lees. Some of his poems were recited by Miss Locke, Hazel Lupton, John Wideman, Carl Nutter, Helen Nutter and Lillian Washington. Mrs. Cooper rendered several songs the words of which were written by Eugene Field. It was a very enjoyable and profitable afternoon.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. E. R. Ver Weibe, of the Harvard football team, made an interesting address on "Football Training" Saturday evening. He gave many practical suggestions on training, team work, and other phases of the sport, which held the close attention of the young men.

Capt. Gordon Van Tassel headed a delegation of Newton high school players, and members of several other teams in this vicinity were present. One of the features which won applause was a series of pictures of the Harvard-Yale game taken by Globe photographers, which were shown by stereopticon. Mr. Carlton L. Ellison, vice president of the Association, and Mr. George King played piano selections, and the gathering sang college songs.

Rev. Edgar J. Park of West Newton will speak to the Women's Auxiliary on Wednesday, December 30th, at 3 P. M.

C. W. Hamilton, a student at Andover academy, will spend ten days at the Association, speaking each evening, (except Friday), to the young men and older boys at 7.30. Special attention is called to the two Sunday meetings which he will address.

During Christmas week, a special program has been arranged for boys who have vacations. There will be tournaments, games of all kinds, basketball and athletic sports.

What better Christmas gift can be given to a young man or boy than a membership in the Association. It lasts the year round and gives health and pleasure.

Monday, December 28th, the Melrose intermediates and Juniors will play the Newton team. Mr. Louis F. LaRose, a former director, who is now at Melrose, will accompany the team.

Who Will Care for Your Estate?

The Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. offers elements of skill and safety in directing estates and trust funds which no individual can possess.

Permanence

The individual trustee or executor may become incapacitated or may die. His successor, appointed by court, may be a person whom the testator under no circumstances would have chosen.

This company is not incapacitated by sickness or death. Its charter is perpetual.

Judgment

The business judgment of an individual trustee may not be sound, or may become impaired by advancing age.

The efficiency of this company in caring for estates depends on no one man. All of the executive board act together, giving the trust fund the benefit of their combined knowledge, experience and care.

Accessibility

The individual trustee may be ill or out of town, when he is needed most. This company is at its place of business, ready to serve, every business day in the year.

Security

Individual trustees ordinarily are not required to give surety, and are not officially supervised.

This company gives a bond for twice the value of the personal property of an estate. This bond is secured by the capital, surplus and undivided profits of the company, and by the stockholders' liability—a total guarantee of $4,500,000.

Every security held by this company is officially examined three times a year. Moneys and securities held in trust are not liable for the debts and obligations of the company.

Compensation

The charges of this company for its services as executor and trustee are no more than those customarily made by individuals. Such charges are annually confirmed by the Probate Court.

We have a booklet telling more about this safeguarded trusteeship, which we will gladly send on application

"Aunt Jerusha's Quilting Party" afforded much amusement for a large audience when presented by the Epworth League of the Methodist church in Freeman hall last week. The cast was as follows: Jerusha Dow, Annie Saunders; Hepzibah Spooner, Louise Brindley; Hannah Pike, Mabel Wales; Johanna Hines, Mamie McLean; Rachel Gray, Mary Flint; Patience Peabody, Carrie McLean; Mrs. Simon Stubbs, Minnie McLean; Drusilla Tomkins, Alice L. Beane; Charity Cooper, Marion Baker; Mrs. Simkins, Ida Brown; Mrs. Pride, Annie Murray; Phoebe Pringle, May Hemson; John Dow, Walter Brindley; Squire Pringle, A. H. Morrill; Rev. Mr. Lovejoy, Alfred Murray. A number of Scotch songs were sung by Andrew Melrose of Wellestee, who appeared in Highland costume and scored one of the hits of the evening.

Newton Highlands

"The old reliable farce, 'The District School,'" was presented in a new version in two acts in Lincoln hall last week, Thursday evening under the auspices of the male chorus of the Newton Highlands Methodist church. The entertainment afforded two hours of hearty laughter, not the least part of which was caused by the unusual costumes in which a number of well known residents appeared. F. W. Cole played the role of the school master, and the school committee was represented by Darius Cobb, the well known artist, and W. Morton Cole. The members of the graduating class were I. H. Davis, William J. Cozens, Jr. and Mr. Johnson. The pupils of the geography class were J. B. Haskell, Edward Greenwood, Charles Jorgenson, Albert E. Rust and Frederick Emerson, the infant class comprised Clarence Haskell, Mr. Gilles, Ernest Jorgenson, Albert Shedd and Irving Davis, Jr. and the spelling class consisted of Charles Jorgenson, Frederick Emerson, Morris Armstrong, G. A. Miles and Albert E. Rust. The members of the arithmetic class were J. B. Haskell, G. N. B. Sherman, I. H. Davis, William J. Cozens, Jr., Edward Greenwood and Howard Eagles, the first reader class comprised Ernest Jorgenson, A. E. Rust, I. H. Davis and Mr. Johnson, and the fifth reader class was represented by Howard Eagles and Morris Armstrong. There was music. The pupils took advantage of the opportunity for good natured local hits on men and events, which caused much amusement.

CONGRESSMAN WEEKS.

The following extracts—an editorial from the Boston Herald, and an article in Practical Politics—show that Congressman John W. Weeks has by no means reached his limit in political life.

An Expert for the Navy.
(From the Herald.)

The possible selection of Congressman John W. Weeks as secretary of the navy in Mr. Taft's cabinet deserves the heartiest commendation. Although the statement that his name is being seriously considered is at present unofficial report, it may be readily credited. The choice of Senator Knox as secretary of state might well be followed by the selection of Congressman Weeks as the head of the navy department, which portfolio should have and is likely to have a peculiar importance during the next administration. Such an appointment would be characteristic of the President-to-be and the ideals of public service for which he stands. Mr. Taft's success has been the accomplishment of results. He has been the man at Washington who could do things. If others discovered problems, he could solve them. Four years of Taft administration is expected to bring results in constructive legislation for the adjustment of the relations of the government and interstate commerce, in honest and reasonable tariff revision, in the establishment of an adequate banking and currency system, and, not less important than any of these, in effective reorganization of an antiquated and unsatisfactory system of naval administration. For the purpose of accomplishing these results Mr. Taft will call to his cabinet expert counselors. In the selection of Senator Knox he has indicated the standard of ability and efficiency which he requires for cabinet service. No selection for the duties of secretary of the navy could conform to that high standard more closely than that of Congressman Weeks.

Accomplishment of results requires expert direction and service. Congressman Weeks qualifies as an expert in naval affairs. He is an Annapolis man. When he passed from the navy into civil life he continued his interest in naval matters by active and energetic service in the naval brigade. He knows the problems of the service from the inside as well as from the outside. By practical, personal experience, as well as by observation and study, he knows the needs of the navy department and appreciates the value of the experience of other nations. He possesses the required administrative ability and has gained recognition in his congressional service for his broad grasp on important problems of legislation which have arisen, most of which will be passed on to the coming administration for final determination.

In our opinion Congressman Weeks would be the first real secretary of the navy since William C. Whitney. No man who has occupied the office during this period or who has been suggested as a possible recipient of Mr. Taft's favor has been as peculiarly fitted by experience, training and personal inclination as he. And this is said with no purpose of criticism of the present secretary or any of his predecessors. In the discussion of naval affairs The Herald has sought to maintain the discrimination made by Capt. Mahan between the department and the service. The Herald has no criticism to make of the naval service. The fault lies in the system, the department, the organization, and the law or lack of law which has manifested this organization in spite of the criticism of successive secretaries of the navy for more than a quarter of a century. Because the necessity of naval reform is now so generally recognized we look to the possible selection of such a man as Congressman Weeks as a promise of results in the near future. President Roosevelt has given his hearty approval to the demand for reorganization of the navy department. We have no reason to believe that Mr. Taft differs from the President in this matter. If it is the purpose of Mr. Taft to accomplish naval reform as one of the results of his administration, he will naturally seek the services of an expert as his counselor in matters relating to the navy department. The Herald believes that no better service can be rendered the cause of naval reorganization and improvement, than by unqualified indorsement of the suggestion of Congressman Weeks as secretary of the navy in the next administration.

(From Practical Politics.)

Cong. John W. Weeks and George P. Lawrence are two republicans who are credited with the ambition to sit in the governor's chair and one or both of them will probably seek it when Gov. Draper retires. It may come about however, before that time that Cong. Weeks may enter the Taft cabinet as secretary of the navy, a position for which he is eminently fitted. The country at large though and doubtless Cong. Weeks himself, would prefer that whoever is originally selected for secretary of the navy by President Taft will stick to the end of his term. No government department has had so many different heads in a short period as the navy department during Roosevelt's superheated rule. The result has been a loss of confidence in the department which must be followed by a loss of confidence in the navy itself if the change continues. If Cong. Weeks does not go into the Taft cabinet, and it does not seem probable now that he will, he is very likely to make the running for the governorship nomination. Did he desire to go back to congress again he would be up for renomination in 1910, the same year a successor to Gov. Draper will be chosen, provided of course that Gov. Draper has the usual three terms. There are several aspiring politicians in Brookline and other parts of the wilds of Norfolk county who are casting hungry eyes at the congressional seat and Cong. Weeks is very apt to leave the field to them by running for the chief state office instead. Cong. Lawrence would prefer to go to the United States senate but so big a man in the senate has Sen. Crane become that he is unlikely to step down and out in 1913 when his present term expires.

Fence-rail philosophy may be good enough in its way, but we pin our faith to the man who climbs down and goes to work.

The honor paid Mr. Robert S. Gorham, retiring chairman of the school committee, at Mr. Norton's reception this week, is not only a deserved tribute to his splendid work as a member of that committee for the past nine years, but is one in which a very large portion of the entire community would have been glad to join had it been possible. Mr. Gorham has been unremitting in his devotion to the best interests of the schools and given freely of his time and knowledge in their behalf. His service has been marked by a minimum of friction, a maximum of efficiency, and a confidence in his judgment and ability, which has been notable. It is to his initiative that we owe the splendid gift of Clavin Field, for it was his desire to provide a suitable athletic field for the High School, which led to the larger results. At the present time when loose criticisms are about regarding the action of the school committee and the board of aldermen, it is well to be reminded of the fact, that our city government is largely composed of men of the high class to which Mr. Gorham belongs, and in whose knowledge and discretion, the greater part of the community have the utmost confidence.

While Newton and its citizens regret that Mr. Gorham is to retire from its public service, there is a deep feeling of sincere appreciation for his disinterested work, and pride in the standard of our municipal service which he has so worthily maintained.

I hope my readers are taking an interest in the debate which is taking place in the columns of the GRAPHIC between Dr. Curtis, chairman of the board of health of this city, and Mr. John H. Bonner, on the merits of vaccination. This week, Mr. Bonner replies to Dr. Curtis' letter of a week ago, while Dr. Curtis takes up the statements made by Mr. Bonner at a meeting held in West Newton last week.

MR. LYONS MISTAKEN

Postmaster Mansfield has investigated the protest made by Alderman-elect Thomas J. Lyons that illegal action was taken by Alderman F. T. Miller relative to withdrawal of cancelled mail matter, just prior to the city election. The facts show that some political matter was mailed to each voter in Ward Four and on discovery of a clerical mistake, Alderman Miller went to the post office and acting under the provisions of sections 578 and 579 of the Postal Regulations, withdrew the mail, and after making such changes as he chose, remailed it, paying the postage anew. Mr. Mansfield finds that the proceeding is entirely legal and proper and that Mr. Lyons' protest is unfounded.

COMMITTEE OF TEN

Mrs. George F. Lowell, chairman of the recent "indignation meeting," held at the High School hall to protest against a reduction of $5,000 in the estimates of appropriations of the school committee, has appointed the following committee of ten to appear at the meeting of the aldermen next Monday evening and demand that the appropriations be increased by that amount: Miss Susan A. Whiting, Mrs. Harriet A. Eager, Mr. Ludwig Gerhardt, Mr. Frederick A. Ward, Mr. Shepherd M. Crain, Rev. Henry E. Oxnard, Mr. Jesse C. Ivy, Mr. Henry A. Norton, Prof. Charles Zuehl, and Mr. Reuben Forknall. Mrs. Lowell will be in charge and each member of the committee has been assigned particular topics upon which to speak. Mr. Ivy will close the case.

SCHOOL BOARD

A hearing was given at the meeting of the school committee last night to parents and others interested in the matter of appropriations for the schools for the ensuing year.

Rev. Henry E. Oxnard, pastor of the North church at Nonantum, spoke in behalf of the evening schools, describing the advantages which would result from those schools in his district.

"Many of us do not know how the other half lives," said he. "In Nonantum there are many ambitious young men. Foreign-born residents are anxious to secure an education and to have their children educated. We need evening schools badly." He urged that evening sessions be inaugurated in the new Stearns school-house, declaring that Nonantum evening school pupils should not be made to travel to the Horace Mann school at Newtonville.

"Will this mean such great expense?" he asked. "If it will, isn't the cause worth it? The time is now ripe to institute a campaign of education in Nonantum. Admission for the Stearns school does not amount to much unless the residents have a chance to use it more."

Chairman Gorham pointed out that none has done more to advance the evening schools than Supt. Spalding and Miss Cora E. Cobb, chairman of the committee on evening classes.

"With us it is a question of dollars and cents," said he. "Assuming the aldermen cannot increase appropriations and that the school committee cannot continue evening schools after Jan. 1, would it to your mind be a seriously objectionable proceeding to continue the evening sessions until March or April through private subscription?" asked Mr. Gorham. "I am not striking you for a subscription, but cold water has been thrown upon my expressed willingness to contribute," he added.

"It would be beneath the dignity of the city not to supply what is vital to it," replied Rev. Mr. Oxnard. This assertion was received with vigorous applause by the spectators present.

"But suppose it cannot?" queried Mr. Gorham.

"I don't admit the word can't," said Mr. Gorham. "But you recognize the school board must have regard for money it spends," said Mr. Gorham. He again put the question.

"Continuing the evening schools by subscriptions or contributions would not be detrimental to the Nonantum district unless it led the city to shift the burden onto private shoulders," replied Rev. Mr. Oxnard.

"Do you feel the same about vacation schools?" the chairman enquired. Rev. Mr. Oxnard said he did.

"Do you believe it would be better to support them by private subscriptions in preference to discontinuing them?"

"Why, yes, if you put it that way,"

"If it is necessary to economize, why not shorten the term in the high school which one of your own children attends and use the money in providing evening schools for the poor?" asked Henry A. Norton, the chairman of the committee which called the recent indignation meeting.

Mrs. Harriet A. Eager, a well-known clubwoman, asserted that there should be no charity in the Newton schools, and declared that she believed many had rather not have the evening schools supported by private subscriptions.

Mr. Norton asked if any members of the school board had children who would be affected by the changes which are contemplated. He expressed a belief that the protest against shortening the evening school term and abandoning vacation schools showed that residents were taking a lively interest in the schools. He declared that there is now friction in the school work and that individual work should be made supreme in all grades. "The schools are doing good work and we should take no steps backward," he asserted. "If economy is needed it should be practiced in other departments."

Reuben Forknall also pointed out the need of better school facilities in Nonantum. Mrs. George F. Lowell, who served as chairman of the recent indignation meeting, asked if the school board did not have a right to spend what money it believed absolutely necessary.

"We have never received anything to that effect from the city solicitor," replied Mr. Gorham, who added that the committee believed it unwise to spend more money than the aldermen granted.

A number of other speakers said that the school board had taken a "peculiar attitude" on the question of securing additional money for the department, particularly in view of the movement to ask the aldermen for $5,000 more.

CITY FINANCES

Mayor Hutchinson spoke at the meeting of the Abundant Improvement Society Tuesday evening in Norumbega hall on City Finances.

The mayor said in part that there is nothing in the country more crude than the tax regulations.

"The trouble lies with the law," he continued. "Under the present arrangement great injustice is undoubtedly done in frequent cases. There is a general disinclination of making sworn declarations of personal property, but until such a custom is established throughout each community the matter of assessing taxes will to a great extent be one of guess work."

He said he believed the occupancy of the position of chief executive of a city resulted similar to Josh Billings' famous tight boots—both made one forget other troubles.

"The legislatures of the past few years have been easy spenders," he continued. "There should be a more careful scrutiny of expenditures which will greatly effect the tax rates of cities and towns." He said that a reduction in Newton's income from corporation tax the coming year will mean $1 more on the tax rate, although he pointed out that it will be impossible to tell just what next year's rate will be until all figures are in next summer. He characterized the new law relating to the division of corporation taxes as an unfair piece of legislation.

Reviewing the work of the aldermen during the year drawing to a close he asserted that the board had not been responsible to the extent of one cent for the increase in the tax rate. "The increase in the budget for 1933 over 1932 is in the forestry and school departments," he explained. "There is appropriated $9,900 for the technical school, $500 additional for fuel and $5,000 additional for the school board to expend as it pleases, yet the only criticism which has been made was that $5,000 more was not given the school department."

In reviewing the street situation he declared that while good macadam roads formerly lasted 10 years the best constructed thoroughfares in this city now last on an average of only four years, owing to the large amount of automobile traffic. He said that there were unusual conditions to meet in this city, probably no other municipality of like populations having 200 miles of streets, 11 distinct villages of considerable size, 10 fire stations, seven libraries or branches, four police stations and 25 school houses.

Alderman-elect Thomas J. Lyons caused a sensation when he asked Mayor Hutchinson if he did not believe it wise to recommend that a committee investigate the different departments and learn whether money had been expended extravagantly or economically.

Mayor Hutchinson replied that he could personally vouch for the honesty of every head of department, and asserted that he was greatly surprised at such a question from a former alderman and one who had been elected to the incoming board. P. A. McVicar urged that a committee be appointed.

"It will be a benefit to the citizens to know whether their money has been expended judiciously," continued Mr. Lyons. "If the mayor does not see fit to look into the matter I shall be obliged to live up to my oath of office in which I shall pledge myself to act in the best interest of the city by endeavoring to attend to the matter personally."

President George M. Flske was authorized to appoint a committee of three to revise the constitution and by-laws of the society, the present ones which were adopted 25 years ago having become out of date in many respects. Reviewing the work of the society President Flske declared that by securing a subway under the railroad tracks near the Abundant station a large number of Abundant commuters were saved walks of 30 miles each a year or 600 miles apiece since the underground passage was built, provided they had used this short cut each business day. He reported that the society had raised $3,300 for the proposed parkway at Abundant and that only $55 more was required. Eight members were admitted.

HIS FIRST MASS

Rev. Patrick J. Waters, who was ordained at the cathedral of the Holy Cross two days previously, celebrated his first public mass last Sunday in the church of the Sacred Heart at Newton Centre.

The solemn high mass took place at 10:30. Rev. Fr. Waters was assisted by Rev. Dennis J. Wholey P.R. of Roxbury as high priest. Rev. Daniel C. Rordan as deacon and Rev. James F. Haney subdeacon. The acolytes were the two brothers of Fr. Waters.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dennis J. Wholey P.R. of St. Joseph's church, Roxbury, for many years pastor of the Sacred Heart church here.

—Mrs. Charles Holden of Bennington street, formerly of this place, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howland of Prince street the past week.

"An enjoyable program" was given at the North Gate Club last Friday evening by Miss Elsie Livermore and the Misses Turner. Miss Livermore gave several monologues and piano solos in her usual pleasing manner and the delightful Southern songs by the Misses Turner are always appreciated by Newton audiences. Dancing followed the formal program.

—Alderman Benjamin S. Palmer, a member of the firm of Chase and Sanborn, is one of the executors of the will of the late Caleb Chase of Brookline.

Waltham Scenic Theatre—one cannot help being impressed with the Yuletide spirit expressed in the hand-some decorations in the lobby of the Scenic Theatre this week. Manager Lanworth believes in keeping in touch with the seasons and he has expended a large sum to carry out the Christmas greetings of the management through the medium of the decorators. The most notable act and the one that is far superior to any of its kind ever seen here is the last number on the program presented by the Azuma Japanese Troupe. It is one of the greatest Japanese companies on the American vaudeville stage today, natives of the Flower Kingdom who are real acrobats, jugglers and sensation-alists in their mid-air stunts. As a climax to their act one of the members of the company walks from the stage to the highest point in the theatre on a tight rope and then slides backwards to the stage again. McGrath and Yeoman made a decided hit in their musical monologue entitled "The Prima Donna and the Lunatic." "Pop" Carr, right from the plantation with his banjo and a happy disposition, can sing well and is a star performer on the banjo. One of the favorites is Jessie Blair Sterling, the pretty young woman with a pleasing voice. She opens her number with an illustrated song and then appears before the footlights in her impersonation of the Scotch lassie.

—The churches are observing the holiday season with special services and entertainments. At the Methodist church the Sunday school children enjoyed a party last evening, when Dickens "Christmas Carol" and "The Night Before Christmas," were read and illustrated with stereopticon pictures. At the Universalist church the Sunday school Christmas festival was held in the parish house Thursday evening. There was a tree and a short two act drama by the boys' club. At St. John's church this morning there was a service and the vested choir sang Foster's "Christ's Incarnation." The Entertainment and tree will be held in Dennison hall, Saturday afternoon when an entertaining program is promised.

THE LINCOLN PARK BAPTIST CHURCH

Mr. Albert E. Bailey since retiring from the Allen School for Boys has travelled in many countries, having recently returned from a 2,000 mile tour—mostly in Egypt, Palestine, Turkey and Norway, where he has secured the finest views obtainable, many of which have never been shown by a stereopticon. His collection of photographs of Constantinople—the Queen of the Orient, vividly illustrates, with 120 views, the checkered story of old Byzantium and its imperial successors—a story of consummate interest, its mosques and palaces, and its throbbing life—pictures that are veritable works of art. Those who will be shown on canvas at the Lincoln Park Baptist church, next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The admission is only 25 cents. Two weeks later—January 11, he will give "Norceland and its Midnight Glories."

MR. GORHAM HONORED

A reception was tendered Mr. Robert S. Gorham, chairman of the School Committee, last Monday evening, at the home of Mr. Marcus Morton on Highland avenue, Newtonville, to show the regard for Mr. Gorham, and the universal regret that he retires from public service at the close of the present year. While the reception was a private affair, Mr. Morton endeavored to make it as thoroughly representative as the size of his house would allow, and over one hundred of our best citizens honored Mr. Gorham and their host by their presence.

The affair was entirely informal, Mr. Morton, Mayor Hutchinson, Mr. William E. Parker of the School Committee, and Mr. Gorham making brief remarks. Mr. Morton in opening the speaking called attention briefly to the reasons for the gathering and the regret that was felt because Mr. Gorham was to retire. He read a letter from Congressman Weeks, as follows: "My dear Mr. Morton:

"I shall not be in Massachusetts December 21st, and therefore cannot be present to meet Mr. Gorham at your home. I do not want, however, to let the opportunity pass without expressing my regret for this in a more informal reply than usual, for I think I appreciate, quite as well as most citizens, the value of Mr. Gorham's services to the city. We are more or less inclined to deal in platitudes on the subject of service to municipality or state, but there is a vast difference between service which comes on account of one's desire to be a good and effective citizen, and the service which is, even to some degree, mixed with personal ambition. If I am not mistaken Mr. Gorham's comes under the first head. That it is efficient no one can deny, therefore, he is entitled to the gratitude of all of us who dwell in Newton, and who really wish to have its best interests advanced.

"Sincerely yours,
"John W. Weeks."

Mr. Parker, in part, spoke as follows:

An efficient public servant is the product of certain affirmative qualities in combination. The first of these qualities easily is responsibility—a consciousness that the community has singled him out—the individual—and entrusted to him a service for the common benefit. But, duly impressed with the importance of his task or office, feeling a distinct accountability to his constituency, he believes that he has been chosen because the public trust has been placed in him, and hence he should possess the resolution,

—a quality not incompatible with a willingness to receive suggestions; and a reasonableness to confer with others. But when the facts are all before him, without seeking the prop of a public referendum and uninfluenced by a manufactured public clamor, independently he acts. But responsibility and resolution fail to create efficiency unless the official possesses in generous measure the quality of common sense. Whether that quality be the product of heredity or instinct or education or all combined, you know that without it no combination of characteristics, however brilliant, makes an efficient man; that with it the plain unlettered man settles for himself and his fellows, questions little and big and settles them "right."

Responsibility, resolution, common sense combined produce a substantial measure of efficiency; but that efficiency is not conspicuously great till to these qualities is added imagination. I do not have in mind a dreamer nor a visionary. For imagination is nothing more than mental vision, that quality which sees ahead, sees clearly and in the seeing eliminates from view non-essentials of the way and sees the goal worth striving for.

What Mathew Arnold said twenty years ago is more true today. "Our whole civilization is mechanical and tends constantly to become more so. Faith in machinery is our besetting danger. For what is government, but machinery? What are railroads, but machinery? What are even, religious organizations, but machinery?"

To the average man the organization, the machinery if you please, by which things are done hides the view of the things themselves. Only by the man of imagination are things seen as they are and standards of perfection set that are real. In the school policies of this city the school properties have their place, the financial administration has its place, the text books have their place, the machinery of the school system have their place; but the final, the supreme thing, is the good of the children, the making of future citizens out of our boys and girls. That chairman of the School Board has realized the largeness of his opportunity whose imagination has had constantly in view this supreme end.

In emphasizing these qualities of responsibility, resolution, common sense and imagination, have I spoken impersonally, Mr. Chairman? Had you asked me to define the qualities of an efficient executive, apart from any personality, I could not have theoretically catalogued, to my satisfaction, these qualities. But I have named and described them because I have known the living impersonation of them in the retiring chairman of our school committee, Robert S. Gorham.

You have permitted me, as a representative of the school board, to add this appreciation. I have preferred to name the qualities of the man which have measured his service as a public official, the city's head of our public school system.

Of the more intimate relations of Mr. Gorham to the school board as its presiding officer, I need not speak at length. That they have been delightful, every member will attest. There the intensity of public manner breaks into whole-hearted humor illuminating many a complex situation; the keen lawyer's mastery of his audience moulds the thoughts of his colleagues into concrete form till they and he share a common purpose; while that fine imagination touches everyday things with a very human interest. To every member association with him has been a privilege.

Mr. Gorham was received with great

—Mr. Raymond L. Bridgman will deliver a lecture before the Review club on the "Political Status After the Election." This lecture will be given in the chapel of the Auburndale Congregational church at 10.30 A. M., on Tuesday, December 29. A most interesting and instructive morning is anticipated, and non-members, gentlemen, as well as ladies, will be admitted on the payment of a small fee.

—A Christmas service was held at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The choir, Mrs. W. K. Corey, soprano; Miss Elsie G. Warren, alto; Mr. F. J. Morse, tenor; Mrs. Waldo W. Cole, bass, rendered selections from "The Manger Throne," by Manney, and from other compositions, under the direction of Mr. Cole. Miss Marion Chapin, the organist, played selections from Merkel, Gullmatt and Handel. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock a Christmas concert was given, with exercises by the kindergarten and primary departments. This morning at 7.30 there was a half hour service of praise and prayer.

WHO OWNS THE EARTH?

When "Coal Oil Johnny" bought all the champagne in New York and emptied it into a plunge bath, so that he might take a swim in the sparkling wine, he was by comparison a mean and penurious miser. The only real, genuine, open-handed and free-hearted spendthrift in the times of time is the government of the United States. For instance:

When Jay Cooke and his colleagues were projecting the Northern Pacific railroad they took off their hats and made a bow to Congress.

"We're thinking of building to the Pacific Coast," they said. "Can't you give us a little help?"

"Why, certainly," the Congress replied enthusiastically. "Just take the state of New York and go to work."

"Oh!" said this railroad promoter in a pained voice, "is that all? Why, we really expected something substantial."

"Well," Congress answered, swelling with philanthropy and putting its hand into the public pocket, "of course if you feel that way about it you can put Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware on the string, too. Now run along and get busy."

Still the Promoters stood and looked pathetically at that tender-hearted aggregation of statesmen.

"Why, certainly," sobbed Congress finally, vainly endeavoring to conceal its emotion, "we'll have the people and you what money you need, too. Please don't look at us in that tone of voice any longer."

In other words, the land-grant of forty-seven millions of acres made as a free gift to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company by the national Congress more than equals in extent the total area of the states of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware.

Up to twelve years ago Congress had given away the public domain to railroad and other corporations to the extent of 266,000,000 acres, a bit of territory the total area of France and Germany, two countries which support between them a population much greater than the whole population of the United States when the last census was taken. From Henry M. Hyde's "Who Owns the Earth and How Did They Get It?" in Technical World Magazine for January.

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—On Monday, December 28, an important theatrical event will take place in Boston at the Tremont Theatre. Ziegfeld's big musical revue, "Follies of 1905" is due
there on that date for a limited run.
All the old favorites, including Bickel
and Watson, Grace Leigh, Annabelle Whitford, William Powers, and the popular little danseuse Mlle. Dazie, are with this year's "Follies." Mr.
Ziegfeld has also added to this already long list of theatrical celebrities Arthur Deacon; Billy Reeves, a famous English pantomimist; Jack Nor-worth, a well-known vaudevillean and popular song writer; William Schrod-Beymour Brown; and as a special feature, that delightful comedienne, Miss Nora Bayes. The chorus, in the engaging which Ziegfeld always takes particular care, is said to be the handsomest bery of beauties that ever danced and flirted with an audience and includes "Neil Brinkley Girls,"
"Faisab Girls," "Drummer Girls,"
"Rooster Girls," "Mosquito Girls,"
"Navy Girls," "Big Hat Girls," and Ziegfeld's "Dancing Dolls." Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday, and no seat during this engagement will be over $1.50. Mail orders accompanied by proper enclosures will receive prompt attention.
Phone number, Oxford 603.

Orpheum Theatre—The selections for week of December 28 are especially enticing to the devotees of van-deville, including as they do every line of entertainment. For comedy, there are the Four Mortons, in a brand new dancing novelty. This act is a laugh from start to finish and this clever family is sure to excel even their former successes in the Hub. Joe Flynn, the man with the book is really one of the funny men of the stage. Every variety is offered by the appearance of Evans Lloyd and Graclyn Whitehouse. Mr. Lloyd will be remembered as composer of several song hits. The Four Bards, who are the originators of hand balancing feats will do some hair-raising and seemingly impossible
"stunts." The balance of the bill will be in thorough keeping with the policy of the management, to furnish to Boston vaudeville lovers, the very best artists obtainable.

Keith's Theatre—A newcomer in vaudeville has been announced for Keith's Theatre the week of December 28th, in Claude Gillingwater who created widespread attention through his performances of "Hiram Bent," the American Millionaire in "Mlle. Modeste." Mr. Gillingwater in vaudeville, however, will have a one act comedy written by himself, in which he assumes the part of an actor manager, willing to take the task of training ambitious amateurs. He finds a pupil in the wife of George Jones, a wealthy New Yorker, and undertakes to coach her in the art of acting. Mr. Jones returns unexpectedly and arrives in time to witness a rehearsal of a most passionate love scene, which he, of course, mistakes for the "real thing."
Then the trouble begins, the plot having many complications, involving an escaped lunatic, a mis-placed telegram,
a policeman in the wrong house, arresting the wrong man and a number of other features, making what is said to be one of the biggest laughing hits of the season. Another newcomer is Maude Wulfe, in a remarkable equestrian act. Also on the bill are Edward Wulfe, one of the most sensational animal trainers in the world.
Will Macart, the comedienne, will also appear in a new monologue. Others on the bill are McConnell and Simpson
in a sketch called "The Stormy Hour;"
the Willy Pantzer Troupe of acrobats; Cook and Stevens, the colored singers and dancers; Leipzig, the card manipulator; the Gleasons and K. Fred Hanlihan; the Wood Brothers, Irish athletes, Young and Wardell, the Japanese jugglers and the Kinetograph.

George Frechette, aged 35, of 382
Watertown street, was charged with making two sales of "process butter" to Inspector Willard, on December 8
and December 10. Counsel declared
that Frechette merely forgot to properly label the packages. The first case was placed on file, and on the second a fine of $25 was imposed.

Charles E. Stickney, aged 32, of 145
Dale street, Waltham, was arraigned
on two counts, pleading guilty of both. It was charged that on December 11 he sold eight ounces of oleomargarine without a proper label and
that on the same date he sold to Harriet Nutter "oleo" as butter. Both cases were continued until January 2,
the court stating that then a fine of $100 would be imposed in one case
and that a decision would then be
made in the other case.

How to make ice at home, cheaply
and effectually, has long been the desire of the housewife, for, notwithstanding the many systems at present
in the market, most of them are more
or less unsatisfactory, some, indeed,
being outside the pale of the practical
on account of the cost of production.
Ice for domestic purposes has become
so essential to the well-being of Americans in especial and dwellers in hot countries in general that no excuse is needed for bringing to the notice of our readers a simple and comparatively inexpensive little apparatus capable, its inventor claims, of producing ice at a minimum cost and labor

through the direct agency of sulphuric acid. The machine in question is made at Reading, in England. We have not had an opportunity of personally testing the invention, but if all we hear from a good source be true, there is scarcely a doubt but that this machine has come to stay—
at least, until some inventive genius, working on the same lines, goes one better, as the saying is, and simplifies
what is already admittedly an extremely simple appliance. Where, we fancy, the invention will prove a special boon will be in the scattered districts where a refrigerating plant is conspicuous by its absence and whose inhabitants for months at a stretch
every year are reduced to the necessity of imagining what ice is.

It is claimed for the new invention
that it will produce a carafe of ice water in three minutes and a one-pound brick in twenty—and that so easily that a child can safely be entrusted with the work of manipulation. With half a gallon of acid—which constitutes a complete charge
—one can ice from 60 to 100 carafes
of water, and the cost of this is entirely the local charge for sulphuric acid, plus the initial expense of the machine, which is purchasable for less than fifty dollars, the only extras
being a dollar or two for spare accessories or carafes. The machine is built on the principle that water will freeze when rapidly evaporated by a vacuum pump and a powerful absorp-ent, such as sulphuric acid.—From "Every Cook Her Own Ice-Man," in Technical World Magazine for January.

Always on hand when needed, is the record of the "WINCHESTER" steam or hot water heater. Thousands of satisfied users prove this statement.
Why not specify it on your heating contract?

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Fines aggregating $125 were imposed for violations of the pure food regulations in the police court Friday and the court announced that in one of two cases which were continued, a fine of $100 would be imposed. The cases were brought by state officers.
Two Newton provision dealers and one Waltham butcher were the defendants.

Thomas G. Blackstone, aged 43, of 287 Auburndale avenue, was arraigned on five counts, to two of which he pleaded guilty. It was alleged that on December 9 he had oleomargarine un-properly marked, and that on the same day he sold this product without a proper license. He pleaded guilty to these charges. It was also alleged that on November 28 he sold George C. Willard oleomargarine as butter; that on November 28 he failed to attach a proper label to the substance, and that on November 21 he had in his possession an imitation of butter. To the three last named charges
he entered pleas of not guilty.
Willard, a state employe, testified that he bought a pound of oleomargarine in Blackstone's place, with no marks on the package to show what the substance was, and that he had asked Blackstone for butter. Blackstone contended that he had through mistake given Willard oleomargarine instead of butter. His counsel asserted that the violation was a technical one.

"He was not asked for oleomargarine,
but was asked for butter," replied the counsel. "I am not so sure that the inspector received what he expected to,
but as a matter of fact he did not receive butter which he asked for.
The law is neither drastic nor technical. It is contended that by selling the substance the defendant has not injured anyone. I do not know that he has not injured anyone. I should not like to eat much of the substance.
One cannot tell how many children or aged persons have been made ill. The returns are not all in."

Judge Kennedy declared that had Blackstone not told the truth about the transaction he would be likely to impose maximum fines amounting to $480.

"I shall cut out selling it altogether hereafter," asserted Blackstone.
"They all reform after they are brought into court," was the comment of Judge Kennedy.

Blackstone was found guilty on all five charges. For selling oleomargarine as butter to Willard he has fined $100, and the other cases were placed on file.

George Frechette, aged 35, of 382
Watertown street, was charged with
making two sales of "process butter" to Inspector Willard, on December 8
and December 10. Counsel declared
that Frechette merely forgot to properly label the packages. The first
case was placed on file, and on the
second a fine of $25 was imposed.

Charles E. Stickney, aged 32, of 145
Dale street, Waltham, was arraigned
on two counts, pleading guilty of
both. It was charged that on December 11 he sold eight ounces of oleo-
margarine without a proper label and
that on the same date he sold to Harriet Nutter "oleo" as butter. Both
cases were continued until January 2,
the court stating that then a fine of $100 would be imposed in one case
and that a decision would then be
made in the other case.

MAKING ICE AT HOME
How to make ice at home, cheaply
and effectually, has long been the desire of the housewife, for, notwith-
standing the many systems at present
in the market, most of them are more
or less unsatisfactory, some, indeed,
being outside the pale of the practical
on account of the cost of production.
Ice for domestic purposes has become
